INSURGENTS RETREAT FROM SALTILLO; REVOLT OVER, SAYS PORTES GIL

Naco, Heart of Revolt Area, Taken Through Olachea Coup.

LEADER PRETENDED TO OPPOSE FEDERALS

Gen. Borquez Is Taken on American Soil and Released.

LIBERTY OF RELIGION DECREED BY ESCOBAR

Revolution Forces in Torreon Gain Strength and Deny Calles' Approaching.

Mexico City, March 12 (A.P.).—President Emilio Portes Gil issued a statement tonight declaring that the revolution against the central Mexican government had failed and suspending further enlistment in the army.

Monterey, March 12 (A.P.).—Rebel forces under Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar evacuated Saltillo, Coahuila, this afternoon, looting the banks as they left.

Juarez, Chihuahua, Mex., March 12 (A.P.).—Gen. Gonzalo Escobar, commander-in-chief of the Mexican rebel forces, in a decree today announced that the regulatory law of article 130 of the Mexican constitution affecting religious orders in Mexico is abolished in territory under revolutionist control.

Priests—in rebel territory—under the decree issued from the general headquarters at Torreon and given out at military headquarters in Juarez can officiate in the same forms as they did before the strict enforcement of the laws now abolished by the decree.

Moratorium Is Decreed.

Gen. Escobar, in the preamble to his decree, declared that "laws dictated by Gen. Calles, as president of the republic, and which have been followed with much vigor until this date, opposed the spirit and tendency of every really democratic government."

The decree also declared a moratorium on all debts in the territory controlled by the rebels, the moratorium to include all classes of loans and contracts as well as bank deposits, except in cases of bank deposits of less than 5,000 pesos, which are exempted.

Gen. Escobar in the decree declared for the principle of nonreelection of presidents in Mexico. He declared restored article 83 of the general Mexican constitution in the terms in which it was approved by a constitutional convention February 5, 1927, which provided that citizens of Mexico once elected president could not be elected to that office again.

Borquez, Seized, Released.

Nogales, Ariz., March 12 (A.P.).—Gen. Francisco Borquez, rebel leader in Sonora, who was taken in custody and held incommunicado for three hours here tonight, was released at 10:50 p. m. and permitted to return to Nogales, Sonora.

Gen. Borquez had been at Agua Prieta, Sonora, supervising the movement of rebel troops from Sonora to Chihuahua when Gen. Augustino Olachea, in command of a major part of these forces, declared them for the the federal government at Naco, Mexico. Finding himself cut off from Nogales by Olachea's men, he recalled his own troops to Agua Prieta and then returned to Nogales through United States territory.

Multimillionaire Once a Drug Clerk—Bought Formula for $500.

Atlanta, Ga., March 12 (A.P.).—Asa Griggs Candler, who rose from obscurity as a drug clerk to a position of great wealth as founder and head of the Coca Cola Co., died at a hospital here today at the age of 78.

The end came quietly at Wesley Memorial Hospital, which he built and gave to his church and to which he had been confined for more than two years by declining health attributed to the infirmities of age. His condition was feeble for many months but did not become critical until a few days ago.

Mr. Candler retired nearly 20 years ago from active direction of the soft drink business he organized and built into a concern for which his family received $25,000,000 when their interests were sold in 1919. He once was rated one of the wealthiest men in the South but had distributed his fortune among his five children after his Coca Cola holdings were disposed of.

HOOVER ORDERS END OF LEASING U. S. OIL LANDS

Announces Only Mandate of Congress Will Win New Grants.

POLICY OF COMPLETE CONSERVATION BEGINS

Action Means Withdrawal of One-Tenth of Nation's Petroleum Supply.

WALSH CHALLENGES EXECUTIVE AUTHORITY

Controversy May Result in Court Action to Determine Jurisdiction.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover yesterday made a far-reaching contribution to the cause of oil conservation when he announced what in effect was his plan to withdraw virtually all Government oil lands from the commercial production field, except those already under lease.

It means the stoppage of approximately 6,000 permits to drill that under the present policy are issued annually and which carry with them perhaps the moral obligation of a subsequent lease in the event oil is found. Government owned and controlled lands produce about one-tenth of the oil produced in this country.

It remains to be seen just what percentage of that one-tenth will be withdrawn from the Nation's oil supply by the President's policy, but the opinion was expressed in authoritative circles that the exceptions to the rule, necessitated by outstanding leases and the like, will not materially reduce the figure.

In some quarters there was an expectation of an increase in oil prices but generally the feeling was that a more thorough study would have to be made before the full effect of the policy could be determined. There was no mistaking that it is intended as Mr. Hoover's contribution to solution of the problem of overproduction in the industry.

Text of Policy Statement.

The policy, a radical departure from that followed by Presidents Wilson, Harding and Coolidge, was announced in response to inquiries by newspaper men. It is inflexible, and was stated in this language:

"There will be no leases or disposal of Government oil lands no matter what category they may lie in, of Government holdings or Government controls, except those which may be mandatory by Congress. In other words, there will be complete conservation of Government oil in this administration."

Subsequent pressure for an amplification of this announcement as its ramifications developed elicited the White House explanation that there was no further comment to be made, nor was any considered necessary.

Investigation revealed that the only lands now upon which the granting of leases is mandatory by act of Congress, are those owned by the Osage Indians. Under act of March 3 last, the Government is required to lease 25,000 acres annually. Previously it had been required to lease 100,000 acres annually.

The other lands are governed only by the general leasing act of February 25 1920, and undoubtedly a controversary will develop before Mr. Hoover is able to apply his policy to them. It is not unlikely, in fact, that some court action may result.

Walsh Questions Authority.

A challenge, in fact, came almost immediately from Senator Walsh, of Montana.

"It would seem as though a policy of such consequence ought to be declared by the Congress rather than by the Executive. The Supreme Court has held that the President may withdraw from appropriation public lands for some special public purpose or to await legislation appropriate to their disposition, but to withhold them from the operation of laws of Congress merely as a conservation measure is quite another thing. When Congress says the lands may be leased it is open to the most serious question as to whether the President may say they shall not be. Anyway, the public lands States looking for development will be the sufferers, and by the same token those in which oil lands have passed into private ownership will profit correspondingly."

Senator Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate public lands committee, and Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, both indorsed the policy.

There seemed to be no doubt but that it is the lands coming under the general leasing act that Mr. Hoover has in mind. Otherwise there would be nothing more to his announcement than a gesture, and the more it was considered the less likely it appeared that this latter might be the case.

Under the general leasing act, the Secretary of the Interior is given discretionary authority to grant permits for drilling on public lands and then

BURLINGAME RESUMES POLICE DUTIES; BOARD HOLDS HIM GUILTLESS

CAPT. GUY E. BURLINGAME.

Goes Back in Command of the Second Precinct Early Today.

CAPTAIN IN TEARS AS HE READS VERDICT

Inquiry Fully Exonerates Accused Officer on Every Count.

WIFE VISITS COURT AT CLOSING SESSION

Counsel Abandon Arguments and Case Is Decided on Testimony Alone.

Citizens and Policemen Will Welcome Captain

When Capt. Guy E. Burlingame returns to duty at the Second Precinct today after an absence of several weeks, during which he was tried and acquitted on charges growing out of accusations by Mrs. Helen F. Blalock, Seventh street palmist, he will be welcomed by a group of leading citizens and members of the police force.

A big reception is being planned, and practically every policeman who is off duty at the hour—9 o'clock—expects to be in attendance, it was learned.

In addition to welcoming the police officer back to duty, those who attend also will assist the veteran captain in celebrating the rounding out of 33 years' service on the force.

The toughest, gamest roughneck cop on the force, who sat day after day during his trial and smiled superiorily, or assumed the poker face the occasion demanded, fell into tears yesterday, tears he couldn't hide, when Capt. Guy E. Burlingame, once more commander of the Second Police Precinct, was informed by his Extraordinary Trial Board that he had been found not guilty of the charges which threatened to wreck his career.

Burlingame received the decision in the office of Maj. D. A. Davison, chairman of the Trial Board, to which he had been called after Davision had informed the District Commissioners by telephone that the board had made its decision.

"Capt. Burlingame," said Davison, with all the formality and austerity which might surround the passing of an ominous sentence, "I hand you herewith a duplicate copy of the report of the Trial Board on your case."

Burlingame Scans Verdict.

Burlingame, a moment before, had been laughing and joking with newspaper reporters in an adjoining office, determined that none should see the tress under which he was laboring. The grizzled police captain said "thank you" and took the paper. He walked across the room and laid on a chair the overcoat he carried on his arm and the hat he held in his hand.

Then he laid the board's decision on the corner of Davison's desk and puffed at his pipe, his face impassive, as he fumbled in his pocket for his tortoise shell spectacles. Having found and put them on, the police captain began at the beginning of the two-page decision of the board and read it through.

The first and most of the second page had to do with formalities and a recitation of the appointment of the Trial Board, its authority and what it was to consider. The important part was at the end of the last page, but Burlingame read slowly, word by word, each line, his face impassive, still puffing unhurriedly at his pipe.

No Charge Sustained.

"Not guilty," in capitals, had been written by the board behind each of the divisions of the charges. "Not

UPRISING IN MEXICO FOUND DEEP-SEATED

Speedy End of Trouble Is Doubted Now by American Officials.

MORROW'S HOPES SUFFER

By ALBERT W. FOX.

New light on the Mexican situation, making the revolutionary movement appear more formidable than has been realized is seeping in through uncensored channels, and hope of seeing the revolt speedily disintegrate has been considerably dimmed as a consequence. On the basis of late advices the following developments are noted here as tending to clarify conflicting reports, especially the optimistic forecasts made daily from Mexico City:

First—The revolution has already reached a stage where it represents an uprising of the people in nearly half the total territory of the republic, and it will, apparently, take months to root out the seeds of revolt even if the present military operations of the federals prove successful.

Second—The most that the Mexican government apparently can hope for is to check the immediate spread of the revolt and perhaps temporarily subdue it by threats and force while waiting for the next uprising, which is regarded as certain to follow the present revolutionary move.

Third—There are increasing indications of a fundamentally unhealthy condition in the internal political situation in Mexico and as a consequence there is an abandonment of American plans to risk financial support on a large scale in the contemplated constructive program of stability and reorganization.

Boiled down, the latest developments mean that confidence in hoped-for Mexican stability is already gone, no matter how soon the revolting States

HOOVER NOT ACTIVE IN HESSE SITUATION

Has Displayed No Interest in Selection of Successor to Police Chief.

SERVICE HAS PREFERENCE

Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, it is understood on high authority that President Hoover has shown no interest in the question of who shall succeed Maj. Edwin B. Hesse as superintendent of police here.

Rumor had it that the President was so interested in seeing the National Capital made a model from a prohibition enforcement standpoint that he was ready to take a hand himself in the selection of Maj. Hesse's successor. At the White House it was said that this was not true.

It appears that the Commissioners still are pretty much in the air as to who shall take the place of the retiring chief. Never since they have been in office have they been confronted with such a problem.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, who has jurisdiction over the Police Department, made one thing clear yesterday, however, and that was that if a capable man can be found in the Police Department he will be given preference over an outsider.

The names of Inspector William S. Shelby and Inspector Henry G. Pratt, together with that of Inspector Albert J. Headly, are still in the forefront of those who are mentioned for the job. Shelby has said that he does not want the position, but it is believed that he would accept if the Commissioners called upon him.

Whether they are sincere or not is a question, but no less than four high-ranking officers in the Police Department have said that they would not accept the job of chief. The office, they say, carries with it too much worry and travail.

Although none of these oficers will talk for publication, they declare privately that they could never tolerate outside interference, such as, say, is frequently offered by members of Congress.

If one of the present inspectors is elevated to the position of police chief, it is expected that Capt. Fred Cornwell will be promoted to inspector. Cornwell, transferred from the Fire Department to the Police Department when he was a lieutenant, has since built up an enviable record in the latter organization.

The application for retirement submitted to the Commissioners a week ago by Maj. Hesse, yesterday was referred to the Police and Firemen's Retirement Board, which will act on it March 21. It is a foregone conclusion that the application will be approved, inasmuch as a board of surgeons has stated that Hesse's health has broken down.

While they are loath to comment on a problem that they regard as one concerning the Commissioners alone, some members of the House of Representatives who have been interested in District affairs are of the opinion that some able man outside the Police Department should be named as Maj. Hesse's successor. These members are particularly opposed to Inspector Pratt's candidacy.

The two United States senators who have been questioned on the matter, however, are divided. Senator Jones

WORLD COURT SEAT NOW WAITS AMERICA

Root's Formula, With Few Changes, Is Agreed Upon at Geneva.

DELAY LOOMS IN SENATE

Geneva, March 12 (A.P.).—The world court jurists, including Elihu Root, virtually have reached an agreement concerning American reservations and, if the United States Senate is willing, there seems every probability that the United States will take its place as a member of the great Hague tribunal of international justice.

The big idea of Mr. Root has gone through. Its phraseology has been put into other terms but its fundamentals remain unchanged. Presumably the Geneva agreement will go down in history as the "Root-Hurst arrangement," just as the scheme for elections of judges of the court drawn up a decade ago, is known among international jurists as the Root-Phillimore accord.

Sir Cecil Hurst, British jurist, did not change the substance of the Root formula; he transformed its composition and gave emphasis at some points where Root had preferred to give it at others. Ten years ago, Root in helping to frame the statutes of the court submitted the idea that the best way to elect the judges was by concurrent elections in the council and assembly of the League of Nations. He believed that this would quiet apprehensions of both great and small powers that they might not have adequate voice in the choice of judges.

The proposal was eagerly seized upon at that time, but Lord Phillimore changed the phraseology of the formula just as Sir Cecil now has done some shifting in the Root formula concerning the delicate problem of advisory

DAWES TO BE ENVOY TO BRITAIN, REPORT

Hoover Said to Favor Former Vice President for Post; Experience Varied.

STIMSON'S PLANS FACTOR

(Associated Press.)

Charles Gates Dawes, who retired from the Vice Presidency on March 4, is reported in well-informed circles here to be under consideration as the next ambassador from the United States to Great Britain.

The rumor lacks official confirmation, with President Hoover stating that he will make no appointments in the Diplomatic Corps pending the arrival here late this month of his new Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson. The President, however, is known to have a very high regard for the ability of the Chicago banker and soldier, dating from their associations in France during the war.

Mr. Dawes in his colorful career as Army general in France, director of the budget and Vice President several times, shocked officialdom here with his outspokenness, and the rumor of his appointment to the highest diplomatic post was received yesterday with unusual interest.

He is regarded, however, as well adapted for such service. In the days of reconstruction in Europe following the World War he headed the commission which settled the trying problem of German reparations. The plan worked out at the time and which bears his name has been followed since in the relations between Germany and the allies.

Upon leaving the Vice Presidency last week, Mr. Dawes returned to his Chicago bank. He has agreed to go soon to San Domingo on a commission to reorganize the fiscal affairs of that

Walsh Killed in Wrangle Over $1,000,000 Rum Plot

Coral Gables Slaying of Former Rothstein Bodyguard Definitely Laid to Row Over Division of Spoils; New Yorker Fleeced.

(United Press.)

A tale of intrigue, involving an international smuggling plot and a $1,000,000 cargo of preprohibition American rye whisky, all of which led up to the murder of Thomas (Fatty) Walsh at a Coral Gables hotel recently, was revealed yesterday by Federal investigators.

Walsh, who had been the personal bodyguard of the late Arnold Rothstein, notorious New York gambler, was believed at first to have been slain as the result of a card game argument or because of his connections with Rothstein.

Subsequent developments proved the two theories untrue, and directly involved Walsh in the whisky plot, which cost a prominent New York iron and steel man $172,000.

The New York business man, however, was absolved from any connection with the smuggling plot, as it was brought out he had been the victim of a trio of sharpers.

According to information received by Government authorities, Walsh and another man, twice indicted for liquor conspiracy, approached the New York business man with a proposition to purchase a huge supply of American ry whisky held by the Cuban government for nonpayment of taxes.

It was explained to the business man man that the whisky, valued at approximately $215,000 in Cuba and worth at least $1,000,000 in this country, would be sold to American tourists in Havana at fancy prices.

The business man put up his $172,000 while Walsh and the other conspirator made up the difference of some $30,000 to purchase the liquor. A corporation was formed in Havana, but contrary to the plan laid before the business man, the liquor was loaded into the Cuban schooner Tres Reyes and prepared for shipment to Florida.

The business man still had his $172,000 invested, however, so Walsh and the third partner enlisted the aid of a Cuban lawyer, a member of the Cuban Congress. The lawyer made a tech-

Sea Gull Blamed for Loss Of Army Dirigible in Bay

Col. Wuest, of Langley Field, Believes Propeller Hit and Hurled Bird Through Fiber of TC-10; Portion of Wreckage Shows Marks Upholding Theory.

Norfolk, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—Did a sea gull send the Army dirigible TC-10 crashing into Chesapeake Bay yesterday, a total wreck?

That is a question the men from Langley Field where the TC-10 was stationed are hopeful an examination of the salvaged fabric tomorrow will answer.

The theory that the dirigible was the victim of such a freakish accident is advanced by Lieut. Col. J. W. S. Wuest, Langley Field executive officer, who was in command of the flight. Col. Wuest's theory is that a sea gull was caught by one of the propellers of the ship and hurled with terrific force through the envelope of the ship, causing the gas to escape and the craft to descend.

A propeller salvaged today from the wreck of the TC-10, which sunk in about 12 feet of water off the entrance to Back River, in Chesapeake Bay, showed two deep cuts in the blade, Col. Wuest asserted. This, he said, indicated that undoubtedly some object had been struck by the blade. Whether it was a dangling rope, loosened by the deflation of the gas bag after the bird was hurled through the fabric or a cable released by a pulling out of the suspension cable base that caused the propeller damage, was a matter of conjecture. Investigators hope to establish the facts tomorrow.

A salvage crew from Langley Field in charge of Lieut. Michael McHugo and Lieut. Leslie Skinner, aided by a Navy wrecking vessel, late today had succeeded in removong from the bottom of the bay virtually all the wreckage of the TC-10 that has any value. Loss from the wreck, including the value of the helium gas that escaped, was estimated about $50,000.

The dirigible was on a trial flight yesterday morning when it began to lose altitude for some reason the crew of four could not understand. Their effort to land in a field resulted in disaster.

A 6-inch tree, cut off short by a side swing of the dirigibles car as the pilots attempted to land her, jamed its way through the gasoline tanks, aft of the fusleage. Losing 1,000 pounds of fuel the punctured blimp soared aloft. More gas escaped and the ship again descended, this time in Chesapeake Bay, over which the wind had taken them. Members of the crew were rescued by speedboats sent to their aid and none received a scratch.

guilty" on the general charge, "Not guilty" on the first section, and "Not guilty" on the second and last section.

Burlingame bent over the paper. His eyes, filled with tears, dropped on the desk. He took out his handkerchief and ostensibly blew his nose, cleared his throat and looked up at members of the board, who in the meantime had gathered behind the desk arranging the transcript and the exhibits to present to the Commissioners.

"I don't know," Burlingame began in a broken voice, "how I can thank you gentlemen. I think maybe I had better try later."

"Thank us for doing disagreeable duty as best we could. That is all the thanks we deserve or hope to get," Maj. Davison said.

Burlingame tried to leave Davison's office unnoticed, by another door than that by which he entered but was stopped and surrounded by reporters, some of whom read in his tear-filled eyes a verdict of guilty. But Burlingame told them "I've nothing to say," and added "Please, boys, see me tomorrow," and . . .

Carrying the carbon copy of the board's acquittal he went to the office of Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, and started to tell his commander about the outcome of his travail but couldn't, and compromised by handing Hesse the board's decision.

"What the hell," said Hesse, when he saw Burlingame in a new role, a tearful one and grabbed the decision and turned to the conclusion. And then Hesse smiled.

"Well, Burly," laughed Hesse, "the smoke's going up the chimney just the same, huh?"

Hesse laughed and so did Inspector William S. Shelby, assistant superintendent of police, but Burlingame couldn't laugh. He just looked at his friends through his tears the while he digested Hesse's admonitory remark and controlled his emotion.

"Yep," agreed the captain, "and it's all gone up now."

Then he reached for a telephone and called his wife.

"Honey," the burley captain told his small gray wife, "I've just got the word. It's all right and I'll be home right away."

Then he called his daughter. The effect on his daughter of his trial and all the charges incident to it had been his principal concern throughout the proceedings.

"Well, honey," he told her with a lighter note, "everything's all right and I'll be home and tell you about it right away."

Hesse lost no time in acting on the board's decision and told Burlingame that he was reinstated to full duty and to report to the Second Precinct at 4 o'clock. But Burlingame protested.

"Make it 8 o'clock tomorrow morning," he suggested. "I want to see my wife and daughter and tell them the news."

Hesse agreed and issued a formal order reinstating the captain to full duty, in command of the Second Precinct, at 8 o'clock this morning and the captain, with reddened eyes but smiling lips and heart, went off to his family.

In the meantime Maj. Davison, chairman of the board, together with Dr. Edgar Bocock, superintendent of Gallinger Hospital, and William P. Richards, District assessor, members of the trial board, had gone into the office of Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty to present the board's decision.

Reporters Invited In.

In a minute or so reporters were invited in and Davison and Dougherty posed for news photographers, with Davison handing the board's decision to the commissioner.

None of the commissioners would comment on the decision. Dougherty said the decision of the board was final. The commissioners, he said, had no authority to go behind the board action.

Asked whether the commissioners planned to make any move toward reinstatement of Burlingame because of the charges and trial in which he has been involved, the commissioners said they had given no thought to that subject and were not disposed then to consider such a question.

Mrs. Burlingame, a little gray-haired woman, who came just above the elbow of her burly husband, made her first appearance at the trial proceedings yesterday, and upset the who'e program.

She came in unobtrusively and took a seat inconspicuously before Maj. Davison called the trial board to order shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning. But her presence was all-pervading.

Argument Is Abandoned.

The stage had been set for Walter L. Fowler, assistant corporation counsel, to tell the trial board how ridiculous was the defense advanced by Burlingame. Fowler was to begin the summing up. He was to be followed by Henry P. Woodard and William E. Leahy, prominent attorneys and friends of Burlingame, who had come to his defense and conducted his case, and they were to tell the other side. They were to say what attorneys usually say, complimentary and derogatory, in such cases, and, no doubt, each had fashioned several phrases which were not unpalatable to his orator's tongue.

But Bride proposed that the case be given to the trial board without argument. Here was the wife—a little bit of a thing, as one observer phrased it—of a 63-year-old police captain who would celebrate at midnight the thirty-third anniversary of his appointment as a brick-pounding copper, and each of the attorneys found something wrong with the phrases they had rounded for persuasion.

Counsel in Conference.

There was a conference between prosecution and defense attorneys, the upshot of which was a request that the board adjourn the proceedings until 1 o'clock, the usual afternoon time for convening after lunch. Maj. Davison agreed.

The board members conferred and defense and prosecution counsel adjourned to Bride's office in the District Building and there was much discussion.

They gathered again in the trial room in the Sixth Police Precinct Station at 1 o'clock and there the question again was formally advanced, although Mrs. Burlingame was not present. Bride offered it as a "suggestion," although the official record shows it as a "motion."

Leahy attempted to turn the proposal into a confession of lack of proof on the part of the prosecution, but Bride and Fowler would have none of that, but the dilemma was solved by the suggestion of Maj. Davison that the board did not need speeches by counsel.

Willing to Listen.

Whatever their decision might be, Davison said, the board members had made up their minds, but, of course, if counsel wanted to say anything or call any particular point to especial attention the board was willing to hear them. There were no arguments.

Thus came to an end the trial of Capt. Guy E. Burlingame, commander of the Second Precinct, before an extraordinary trial board, on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and prejudicial to the good order, reputation and discipline of the Police Department.

Specifically, the captain was charged with writing love letters to Mrs. Helen F. Bialock, henna-haired former palmist who "took hurts off" colored patrons in her fortune-telling rooms at 1504 Seventh street northwest, in Burlingame's precinct.

Called Letters "Applesauce."

She described the letters as "applesauce." Burlingame said they were "a lot of slop." She said she was the 42-year-old "dream girl" of an elderly lover whose amorousness would not brook denial, and who showered gifts of thousands of dollars on her, and subscribed himself her "Heartsick Daddy." She said, she couldn't remember the name of just another man with whom she had had a temporary affair, and she admitted she had been the grand priestess in a temple where love was paid for in dollars.

He said she was just a tipster, just the source of information on which he raided many gambling and liquor joints in his tough precinct. He was just her helper, her protector, trying to iron out her tangled business affairs, and never had she questioned him, the friend of her father, until she had been besought by his enemies to turn him in.

The trial, dealing with the kind of material it had to deal with, was one of the most remarkably clean in the annals of trial board procedure. Attorneys for both sides agreed at the outset that the trial was before a board of inquiry, charged with getting all of the facts, and should not be restricted to the narrow rules of evidence in force before a court.

Few Objections Offered.

Not a single exception was noted in the record. Few objections were offered by counsel and almost all of these were overruled. At the conclusion of the trial and before the decision was announced attorneys of each side complimented those on the other for their fairness.

The decision was a bitter blow to Bride and Fowler, who were convinced that they had proved beyond peradventure of a doubt that the police captain was guilty. Leahy and Woodard were just as jubilant over the acquittal.

The acquittal of Burlingame by the trial board, however does not end his difficulties in connection with the charges made by the former Seventh street palmist.

Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Collins yesterday said that his case against Burlingame before the grand jury has not been completed. Mrs. Bialock has told her story to the jury but there are other matters connected with the affair which the jury is to hear.

Additional witnesses may be called, Collins said. Various communications have been received and these will be sifted and presented. The mass of documents, presented by Senator Caraway, of Arkansas—proving graft and that the captain is a "crook," the senator said—have turned out to be mostly a number of anonymous letters of little or no value to use before the jury.

What the outcome will be is problematical, but no indictment of Burlingame on serious criminal charges is expected to be forthcoming.

Elsie Janis Out of Danger.

Paris, March 12 (A.P.).—Unless unforeseen complications develop, it is now believed that Elsie Janis, American stage star who has been seriously ill, will recover.

Hunt for Flower Vases Nets 50 Quarts of Rum

Confronted with the problem of finding vases in which to put the many flowers that arrived at the Second Precinct last night for the celebration of the homecoming of Capt. Guy E. Burlingame, policemen Lester Parks and E. B. Poole went to an alley at No. 6 Naylors court northwest, where there were supposed to be a number of empty half-gallon jars.

Failing to find the expected jars in the alley, the officers entered the back door of a house they thought was unoccupied. As they entered some one came in the front entrance with two large cases. The stranger dropped the cases and fled.

Parks and Poole examined the cases and discovered 50 quarts of whisky.

Eager to return to the Second Precinct with their seizure, they forgot all about the half-gallon jars.

OFFICERS SEEK MAN WHO BEAT WOMAN

Mrs. Nellie Barrey, 35, Taken to Hospital; Struck on Head With Brick.

K STREET VIADUCT SCENE

Mrs. Nellie Barrey, 35 years old, of 53 K street northeast, last night was attacked under the K street viaduct by a man whose only apparent motive was to crush her skull with a jagged half brick which he carried in a paper bag. The injured woman staggered to the home of neighbors and was then rushed to Casualty Hospital, where she is in a serious condition with a possible fracture of the skull.

The circumstances of the attack closely parallel those of two other recent attacks on women, one of which occurred at almost the identical spot as that last night. Although the police have been able to secure only the most meager description of the attacker, they have broadcast a lookout throughout the city and are taking extra precautions in patrolling the viaduct neighborhood.

Mrs. Barrey said that she was walking through the apparently deserted viaduct to her home, when, without the slightest warning, she was struck upon the back of the head.

Detective Sergts. Brooke and Varner found a large pool of blood about 150 feet from the west end of the viaduct, and nearby a corncob pipe and a jagged piece of brick in a brown paper bag. They scoured the neighborhood without finding any suspects.

Bootlegger Must Bury Patron Who Drowned

Geneva, Ill., March 12 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—County Judge Olney C. Allen today ordered John Oros, of Aurora, to pay $200 toward funeral expenses for James Weber, of Aurora, who drowned recently in a fall into Fox River, while intoxicated on liquor purchased from Oros.

Oros was fined $1,000 on liquor-selling charges.

Citizens Fight Plan Of School Addition

Northeast Boundary Association Demands Classrooms on Only Two Floors.

A vigorous protest was made at a meeting of the Northeast Boundary Civic Association last night in the Burrville School Building against the erection of the eight-room addition to the school in accordance with plans of the municipal architect. Bids for this erection were opened yesterday in the board room at the District Building, H. D. Woodson reported to the association, the lowest being for $139,000. Congress, he stated, appropriated $180,000 for the addition.

The association protested plans for the proposed $139,000 building because the auditorium had been planned for on the basement rather than on the first-floor level, and because classrooms had been placed on the basement level as well as on the first and second floors, whereas the civic association desired classrooms on two floors only, and shows and a gymnasium on the basement level.

A committee, consisting of H. D. Woodson, Dr. J. A. Porter, Z. D. Ramseur, Mrs. Carrie Knox and Mrs. John Herrod, was appointed to wait on the Commissioners Friday, and subsequently on the Board of Education, the Bureau of the Budget and Congress, if necessary, to secure a $180,000 structure, according to specifications previously set forth by the association.

SUCCESSOR TO HESSE FINDS HOOVER SILENT

(Republican), of Washington, thinks that an officer now on the force should be given the job, while Senator Caraway (Democrat), of Arkansas, thinks that an able man outside of the department should be employed. Both think that the new chief should be a dry.

Praise for the administration of Maj. Hesse was given yesterday by the Washington Round Table at its weekly luncheon at the University Club. The organization voted thanks to Maj. Hesse, who was a guest of honor, for "his efficient administration of the Police Department."

In a brief address, Maj. Hesse spoke of the difficulties he had met in his administration of the metropolitan police. "This is the first time in twenty years," he said, "that I have left my office for lunch.

"I have tried to make a good police officer, and I have tried to do it in spite of insidious propaganda I have had to face. I have never feared that some one would shoot me as I stepped from the door of my office. Rumors that two men were constantly watching my house at one time never worried me, because I felt that I was here for a purpose and I would fulfill it."

Following his address, George S. Watson, chief of the Fire Department, spoke of his experiences in that position, and added to the club's praise of the retiring police superintendent.

"I regret that Maj. Hesse is leaving the District Building," he said. "No one knows better than I do how hard and conscientiously he has worked in the public service. I want to add my voice to the note of thanks given him by this club."

Wilkins Warmly Welcomed On Return From Antarctic

Actress Fiancee and Mayor Walker Greet Flying Explorer on Arrival in New York After Exploits at Bottom of the World.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Twice a polar hero, Sir Hubert Wilkins today received his second formal welcome in New York, this time on his return from aerial exploration in the Antarctic.

A year ago he and Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, his chief pilot, were received after their flight across the Arctic. Today the two adventurers, with Joe E. Crosson, relief pilot, and Orville H. Porter, a mechanic, were greeted as successful explorers of part of the vast continent at the bottom of the world.

Welcoming ceremonies began when the liner Ebro nosed into its Hoboken pier with the four men from South America. The reception continued in a meeting with Mayor Walker at City Hall, and closed at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where the airmen are staying.

Among those to greet Sir Hubert was Miss Suzanne Bennett, actress, who has announced her engagement to the explorer. Their greeting was cordial but without demonstration of affection. When photographers attempted to promote a hugging scene Sir Hubert put it down with an emphatic "No," adding when he was asked about the engagement:

"I feel like Lindbergh about that sort of thing."

After being met aboard ship by a city committee, Sir Hubert handed a report to Dr. John H. Finley, president of the American Geographical Society, telling of the expedition's discovery that Graham Land in the Antarctic is a series of islands rather than part of the south polar continent, as had been believed.

Luncheon for the party was served aboard ship, after which the airmen motored through the tunnel under the Hudson River to City Hall where the city's formal welcome took place. Cameramen photographed the fliers and the mayor, and later Sir Hubert's group, posed on the steps of City Hall with the organized veterans of the blizzard of 1888.

Although he did not disclose his plans for the immediate future, Sir Hubert made it plain that he had not finished his work in the Antarctic. Increasing mild weather and consequent poor conditions for takeoff and landing of planes forced return of the expedition, but the explorers hope to go back to Antarctic in September. An effort will be made to cross the Antarctic continent, and sites for a south polar weather station will be considered. Sir Hubert said he had such a site in mind, but would attempt to find one still more desirable for the establishment of one of twelve stations which the geographical society is placing throughout the world.

Brookhart Urges Postmaster Tests

Head of Inquiry Into Sale of Jobs Suggests Civil Service as Solution.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Brookhart, chairman of the Senate subcommittee investigating Federal patronage in the South, said yesterday he believes President Hoover could deal effectively with alleged sale of postmasterships by making all appointments a Civil Service matter.

Referring to the recent discussion regarding whom the President should recognize in granting appointments to Federal offices in some of the Southern States, the Iowan advocated a policy which would affect all sections of the country and which would, he declared, be satisfactory to Congress.

"If the President would issue an order providing for the appointment of the person who passed the highest examination on all points of qualification, held by the Civil Service Commission, sale of offices would be impossible," he added.

Rich Indian Found Not Victim of Fraud

Government Drops Charges Jackson Barnett Was Treated Unfairly.

(Associated Press.)

The Department of Justice has received a report from Pierce Butler, jr., special assistant to the Attorney General, finding that administration of the affairs of Jackson Barnett, a wealthy Creek Indian, by the Indian Bureau of the Interior Department, included nothing that "warrants condemnation of the purposes or character of the public officers administering the property."

Butler said, however, that a suit looking to the annulment of the marriage of the aged Indian to Anna Laura Lowe may be maintained by the Government and urged the continuation of prosecution of suits to recover more than $1,000,000 the Indian donated to a church organization and others.

DOCTORS ARE FREED IN OPERATION DEATH

State Fails to Prove Charge of Drinking Before Boy Went Under Knife.

FATHER'S STORY FALLS

Elizabethton, Tenn., March 12 (A.P.).—Charges of murder brought against two physicians in the death of a 12-year-old boy on whom they performed an operation in the uncertain light of oil lamp in the kitchen of his hill farm home, were dismissed today at a preliminary hearing in magistrate's court.

The physicians, Dr. W. H. Longmire and Dr. Murrell Pinson, were arrested Saturday on a warrant sworn out by Henry Grindstaff, charging that the death of his son, Robert, upon whom the surgeons operated for appendicitis, was due to criminal neglect.

Magistrate R. T. Johnson, sr., after hearing the State's case in which the operation was described by the boy's neighbors, who held the lights in the kitchen of the Grindstaff home in the early morning hours of Sunday, March 3, announced "The State has failed to make a case, and I dismiss the charges." Defense attorneys made no arguments.

Grindstaff and a dozen of his neighbors took the stand to describe the boy's illness and the operation which preceded his death by six hours.

The father was the first witness. He said his son was ill for a week before he summoned Dr. Pinson, when the boy became nauseated. The physician, after making an examination, Grindstaff said, told him he needed aid and left in his car, returning early the next morning with Dr. Longmire and converting the kitchen into an emergency operating room, operated on the boy.

"I couldn't stand to see it," Grindstaff said, but the physicians told him they were looking for the appendix.

Grindstaff said the surgeons placed the boy on the kitchen table with neighbors taking turns at holding a single kerosene lamp and a flashlight.

After the operation Grindstaff said the surgeons brought his son into the bedroom; "then they put him in bed and propped him up and left. I couldn't do anything. I just sat there and watched him die."

Grindstaff previously had testified that when Dr. Pinson returned he brought a bottle of liquor which he passed around.

"Yes sir, I took a drink," he replied to questioning, and also said Dr. Pinson was "the next thing to a drunk man."

Neighbors from Syotha community where the Grindstaffs live, also took the witness stand to decribe the operation and the part they took in it, but none testified directly that either of the physicians had been drinking.

REBELS IN SALTILLO RETIRE FROM CITY

Revolution Has Failed, Says Portes Gil; U. S. Seizes and Frees Borguez.

GEN. AGUIRRE EXECUTED

Aguirre, one of the leaders of the revolt in Vera Cruz, who was captured yesterday, was announced by the government late tonight.

The execution was carried out at Santa Lucrecia, Vera Cruz, by federal soldiers commanded by Gen. Alejandro Manje.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 12 (A.P.).—A federal general who played a cunning game with leaders of the Mexican revolt executed a swift coup today and transformed the border town of Naco, Sonora, in the heart of rebel territory, into one of the most important government military bases for operations against the forces of the rebellion.

Gen. Augustino Olachea seized Naco, 12 miles south of here, in the name of President Portes Gil, with 1,200 Mayo and Yaqui Indian troops which had been listed in the rebel column.

Immediately the erstwhile rebel commander made preparations for an attack on Nogales, Sonora, revolutionary stronghold to the westward, on the international border.

Gen. Olachea explained that he had played along with the rebel leaders and pretended to have joined the revolt until the opportunity came for him to strike a blow for the government and exhibit his loyalty.

Rebel Force Imprisoned.

The rebel force at Naco was imprisoned. Gen. Olachea conferred with a relative of former President Plutarco Elias Calles on plans for the attack on Nogales, 60 miles to the west.

American troops were ordered to the border to safeguard Bisbee's water supply and protect American property.

Under orders from Gen. Francisco Manzo to move through Naco to Chihuahua and down to the Torreon sector to reinforce Gen. Escobar's columns against the drive of former President Calles' federal army, Gen. Olachea entered Naco, proclaimed his loyalty to the central government and took over the city.

Late today Olachea announced he was prepared to cooperate with Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, governor of the northern district of Lower California, in a drive on Nogales.

Rebel General Turns Back.

Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, March 12 (A.P.).—Gen. Francisco Manzo, Mexican rebel arms commander in Sonora, secretly left his Nogales headquarters this afternoon by automobile for Naco, 60 miles east, where a large body of his troops turned against him today. When only part of the way to Naco, Gen Manzo and his staff officers turned back to Nogales, announcing upon their arrival that they "saw nothing dangerous" at present in the Naco situation.

Manzo Loses Strength.

Mexico City, March 12 (A.P.).—Government circles were jubilant tonight over the announcement that a fourth of the Sonora rebels under command of Gen. Manzo have surrendered to the federals. It was said 1,200 surrendered today and 400 previously had surrendered. The total troops which Manzo had under his command in Sonora was believed not to exceed 5,000.

At the same time the government announced that the rebels under Gen. Roberto Cruz were retreating northward from Culiacan and other points in the north of the state of Sinaloa. Thus, according to the government, instead of threatening to attack Mazatlan, the Cruz rebels have begun a retreat before even reaching the vicinity of their objective.

A high government official tonight said: "The revolution is ended, broken. We have yet to clean up some armed groups, but they will surrender so fast that there may be little if any real fighting."

The government communique said the occupation of Naco by loyal troops was of the greatest importance. It was said to place a barrier between rebel Gov. Topete of Sonora and rebel Gen. Manzo.

Naco was held in 1914 and 1915 by Gen. Calles, who is now leading the federal army northward against Torreon and Durango, with small forces against the large rebel armies of Pancho Villa.

Aviators Report Retreat.

The communique said federal aviators had flown over the rebel armies north of Culiacan and found those forces in retreat. It was supposed that they feared to get farther from their lines of communication with the federals in possession of Naco.

Calles' Approach Denied.

Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico, March 12 (A.P.).—Rebel troops poured into Torreon today as Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar, military chief of the revolution, prepared for the impending clash with government forces under Gen. P. Elias Calles, secretary of war and former president.

At revolutionary headquarters it was declared that a southward drive was being planned. Reports that Gen. Calles was nearing Torreon were denied.

Gen. Bernabe Gonzales arrived during the day with fourteen cars of cavalry and infantry and another troop train commanded by Gen. Miguel Valle followed from Juarez, which was captured last week by Gen. Valle.

Gen. Escobar has been informed that civil authority has been reestablished in Sonora, Durango, Chihuahua and Coahuila. At the same time the governors of those states have declared in written statements that they will adhere to the "plan of Hermosillo." The regular train from Juarez arrived on time today and communications were maintained as usual.

Rebels Nearing Mazatlan.

Quila, Sinaloa, Mexico, March 12 (A.P.).—Rebel forces under Gen. Ramon F. Iturbe pushed on toward Mazatlan, the principal federal stronghold on the west coast of Mexico today. They temporarily had been delayed here by a burned railroad bridge which federal forces had destroyed in their southward retreat under Gen. Jaime Carrillo.

One hundred and fifty men completed rebuilding of the bridge late today and rebel forces resumed their march on the Mazatlan garrison which is held by 2,000 federal troops.

The federals in their retreat seized large stores of gasoline, oil and food, rebel leaders here said, and the surrounding country is impoverished. The advance on Mazatlan may be delayed further, it was pointed out because of federal activity in wrecking railroad property.

Arms Smuggling Prevented.

El Paso, Tex., March 12 (A.P.).—An attempt to smuggle arms and ammunition across the international border was frustrated late last night after a gun battle in which two American patrolmen were wounded.

August Steinburn and Francis A. Scott, members of the border patrol, were shot from ambush near Cordova Island as they started to investigate the presence of two loiterers on the American side of the boundary.

Approaching to within 40 yards of the two, the officers shouted and the answer was a fusillade of bullets from another direction, where a group lay concealed in a thicket. Both men fell wounded.

Reinforcements arrived under command of H. C. Horsley, head of the border patrol. A miniature battle followed in which many shots were fired. Thereafter half a hundred men were seen to run to safety on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, Horsley reported today.

"It was a deliberate ambush perpetrated by a gang of men who were there for the specific purpose of receiving a load of arms and ammunition," Horsley said. His men had been watching a truck on which arms apparently were to be moved when they heard the shots which wounded Scott and Steinburn about half a mile away.

First reports were that the two border patrolmen had been shot in a skirmish with liquor smugglers. The true nature of the fight was not revealed by Horsley until today.

Only One Troop Order.

In answer to a request of local citizens, Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, commanding the Eighth Corps Area of the Army, with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., has ordered one troop of cavalry and a company of infantry from Fort Huachuca, Ariz., to the vicinity of Naco, Ariz., to protect the water supply plant of Bisbee, Ariz.

This is the only troop movement ordered to date in connection with the Mexican border situation, War Department officials emphasized yesterday. Col. Douglas McCaskey commands at Fort Huachuca, where the Tenth Cavalry and a battalion of the Twenty-fifth Infantry are stationed.

Ordered to Watch Border.

San Antonio, Tex., March 12 (A.P.). United States troops sent to Naco, Ariz., were ordered there to establish an outpost and keep watch along a stretch of border remote from the permanent military posts, it was said at the Eighth Corps Area headquarters today. The force consists of a small detachment of Cavalry from Fort Huachua. The movement does not involve the sending of additional troops to the border.

Tellez Denies U. S. Airmen Are Used

Mexican Envoy Says Claim by One Flier of Embassy Aid Is False.

American aviators who feel the urge of battle and have volunteered for service with the federal forces in Mexico will have no part in the conflict, according to the Mexican Ambassador, Senor Don Manuel C. Tellez, who last night denied any governmental connection with the appearance of an American airman with government forces at Monterey, as reported by the Associated Press.

The press association report said an American, giving the name of Philip H. Mohun, of Washington, joined Gen. Juan A. Almazan as an aviator and told the Mexican officer that he had been sent to join him by Col. Rojas, military attache of the Mexican Embassy in the Capital.

In a statement last night Ambassador Tellez declared that neither he nor Col. Rojas had ever heard of the man calling himself Mohun. He added that he had no intention of sending American aviators to serve with the federal forces, this being contrary to the policy of the Mexican government. He admitted that a large number of applications from American airmen had been received.

Two Carloads of Arms Are Sent to Federals

(Associated Press.)

New Haven, Conn., March 12 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Winchester Manufacturing Co., of this city, today dispatched two carloads of arms and ammunition to the federal government of Mexico, to be used in putting down the rebellion now in progress there. H. F. Beebe, foreign sales department manager, said that negotiations for the ammunition had been made with Gen. Juan Azcarate, chief of the Mexican air service.

The weapons and ammunition purchased here by the Mexican government are of a new type adaptable for use in airplanes. Winchester officials denied that Enfield rifles, with which the rebel forces are equipped, were purchased from them. They said they had negotiated with none except official representatives of the Mexican government.

U. S. and England Ask Mexico to Free Two Men

Mexico City, March 12 (A.P.).—The United States Embassy and the British Legation have made representations to the foreign office to effect the release as soon as possible of J. W. Reid, an English subject, and Henry H. Ranson, an American, both mining men captured by bandits near Durango City March 3.

It is understood here that the men are being held for ransom but are in no immediate danger. In view of the revolutionary situation in the State of Durango, their release may be delayed.

American Consuls To Protect Chinese

(Associated Press.)

At the request of the Chinese Legation in Mexico City the American Government has consented to use its good offices on behalf of Chinese citizens in the districts held by the rebels.

The Chinese Legation particularly requested that the American consuls at Chihuahua, Torreon and Mazatlan look after the interests of the large number of Chinese in those districts.

Dry Accuser of Police In Chicago Dismissed

(Associated Press.)

F. D. Silloway, who charged that Chicago police were involved in the gang murder there last month, has been dismissed from the Prohibition Bureau's staff.

Silloway, who was assistant prohibition administrator at Chicago, was removed from that position and ordered East shortly after he was unable to substantiate charges made against the Chicago police.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran said he had been dismissed because he had embarrassed the bureau and because the commission was not satisfied with his explanation of the allegations.

Lindbergh Likely To Fly Home Soon

Plane Being Flown to Him at Mexico City to Replace Wrecked Ship.

Mexico City, March 12 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was said tonight in well-informed circles to be planning to fly back to the United States within a few days. He has been visiting the family of his fiancee, Miss Anne S. Morrow, for more than a fortnight, with the exception of two days spent in inaugurating the air mail service to Brownsville.

This afternoon he went for an automobile ride with Miss Morrow. At the United States Embassy it was said nothing was known of his plans, but other sources disclosed that an airplane now is being flown here from the United States for use on his homeward flight. The machine in which he came here is not yet repaired after the crackup in which the colonel injured his right shoulder.

Walsh and the other conspirator, being directly in charge of the operations, made no answer to the libel, so the schooner and cargo was seized and resold to Walsh, his partner and the attorney.

This left the business man both out of the deal and his $172,000.

According to information gathered by investigators, Walsh and his original conspirator came to the Coral Gables Hotel to discuss means of leaving the Cuban attorney out of the liquor sale.

A quarrel ensued, investigators revealed, which ended in Walsh's death and the wounding of another man.

The third conspirator flew to Havana and on Saturday the Tres Reyes, with its valuable cargo, sailed from Cuban waters, apparently for Nassau. At last reports it was anchored near Gun Key, close to the Florida main land.

The New York business man has been threatened with death, he reported, if he attempted to recover his money or advise authorities of the transaction. A notorious New York gunman is said to have approached the business man in his Madison avenue office and placed a pistol against his side, at the same time warning him to forget about the $172,000.

Cuban court action against Walsh was said to have been pending at the time of his murder.

Dancer Offers New Motive.

New York, March 12 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Florida police have apparently flown into a great state of calm over Demaris Dore and her version of the murder of Thomas (Fat) Walsh, wholesale beer merchant of New York.

The 23-year-old blonde dancer told Police Commissioner Whalen that she saw Eddie Wilson, big time gambler, shoot Walsh in a cardroom of the Miami-Biltmore Hotel at Coral Gables, Fla., March 7. A sensitive side of Mr. Walsh's nature was revealed when Miss Dore told police that Wilson murdered Walsh because Walsh resented being teased about his lisping.

Commissioner Whalen is inclined to believe her story, and this morning notified Chief of Police Wilbur Kay, of Coral Gables, that the young woman was being held under police surveillance here. Chief Kay did not reply and Mr. Whalen said the dancer would be permitted to go on her way unless the Florida authorities evinced interest in her story.

JOHNSTON DEFENDS HIMSELF IN SENATE

Suspended Governor Says He Resented Supporters' Efforts to Sway Him.

HE IS CROSS-EXAMINED

Oklahoma City, March 12 (A.P.).—Matching wits with his prosecutors, Henry S. Johnston, suspended Governor of Oklahoma, underwent a day of cross-examination here today in his trial before the senate court of impeachment.

A multitude of State matters were touched on in the questions of John Head, chairman of the State house of representatives board of manager, which is seeking the removal of Johnston on charges of impeachment voted by the house.

In the course of his examination, Johnston declared he broke with two of his strongest supporters in the campaign of 1926, after he was elected governor, because they expected to wield too much influence in his administration. He said he parted friendship with Ed M. Semans, of Oklahoma City, because he suspected Semans of wielding a monopoly in the writing of bonds for State projects. Johnston "froze up" on Hubert Bolen, the other supporter, he said, when a New York bank offered to make Bolen its Oklahoma representative in return for the transference of the Oklahoma fiscal agency to that bank.

The suspended governor said he was not aware that James Armstrong, whom he later made a confidant, represented a number of companies doing business with the State, as legal representative. Armstrong is an uncle of Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, until recently Johnston's confidential secretary. The prosecution has centered its attack on the part played by Mrs. Hammonds in various State affairs.

Operations of both the Senate Court and the investigating committee of the house of representatives were impeded temporarily today by a decision of the State Supreme Court which held they were without authority to employ additional help unless the help was provided for specifically in appropriations House investigating activities were stopped and the senate hastily passed a bill legalizing the employment of its court help.

The general investigating committee abandoned an afternoon session of its inquiry into the affairs of the State Board of Agriculture, and a subcommittee dropped its session of investigation into the school land commission.

11 Drivers of Taxicabs Arrested After Clash

As an aftermath of a dispute between three rival taxicab drivers at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast early yesterday morning, a taxicab war, which for a time threatened riotous proportions, broke out late last night in southeast Washington.

Eleven drivers were arrested by police of the Fifth Precinct on charges of disorderly conduct, and it took the police and headquarters Detective Sergts. Howard Ogle and A. D. Mullins nearly two hours to disperse the throngs of drivers who were mobolizing at various strategic points in the southeast section, obstensibly preparing for a fight.

3 Near Death as Stone At White House Falls

Inspection of the stone columns and scroll work of White House portices will be begun today by officials of the construction division, Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, following a dislodgment of a 50-pound stone, part of the scroll work above the northeast column of the portico yesterday.

The stone fell to the roadway, tearing out a piece of the column under it. White House Policemen O. D. Davis and P. E. Allen and an unidentified passerby were within 20 feet of the spot where the stone fell. The stone slipped at an old seam and will be replaced today.

APPORTIONING BILL HAS SESSION PLACE

Congress Leaders Agree to Allow Consideration of Census Measure.

HOOVER APPROVES PLAN

(United Press.)

House and Senate leaders have agreed to include the reapportionment and census bills in the program of the special farm relief and tariff session starting next month, it was learned yesterday.

The plan has been presented to President Hoover and is understood to have his approval, although he has not stated his position specifically.

Heretofore it has been understood House leaders would limit the activities of the special session to farm relief and tariff legislation on the theory that any deviation from this course would open the doors to all manner of business.

They are in a position to do this merely by preventing organization of committees other than ways and means and agriculture, the two necessary to draft farm relief and tariff legislation.

Strong sentiment in favor of immediate action on the reapportionment and census bills apparently has forced the new agreement to allow consideration of bills which have already passed the House, but failed in the Senate.

There is no change, however, in the determination of House leaders to prevent consideration of other general legislation. They plan to secure suspension of the rules for the repassage of the reapportionment and census bills without organizing the committees which would ordinarily pass on these measures.

The reapportionment bill provides for a redistribution of House representation on the basis of the 1930 census. Since it limits the House to present membership, States which have gained population most rapidly will get additional seats at the expense of those which have gained but slowly or stood still.

The census bill, which makes provision for the taking of the 1930 population count, is a necessary adjunct to the reapportionment measure.

Both bills were passed by the House early in the last session, but failed in the Senate due to a filibuster by the representatives of States which would lose in the reapportionment. Neither measure came up for consideration because opponents delayed other bills ahead of them on the program to kill the reapportionment and census bills. There will be strong opposition to reapportionment at the extra session also, but leaders believe it will be ineffectual.

Curtis Is Seeking Rheumatism Relief

Visits Florida on Promise of Rest; Orders All Mail Held in Capital.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 12 (A.P.) Vice President Curtis today was taking things easy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lasker here, having come to Florida on a promise that he can rest and that the sun will be good for his rheumatism.

"I'm going to try to 'bake out' a little," said the Vice President, who added that he does not know whether he will follow President Hoover's example and fish. In order to make his vacation a period of real rest he has ordered all his mail to be held in Washington.

Vice President Curtis' only public appearance during his short stay here will be made at a reception to be held in his honor at the Miami Beach estate of Harvey Firestone Friday night by the Committee of 100, according to a program announced today. A group of visiting Kansans, led by S. B. Rohrer, of Miami Beach, a personal friend of the Vice President, are arranging a reception for Mr. Curtis for Friday afternoon. Present plans call for a deep sea fishing trip Thursday. He will be accompanied on the fishing trip by his host, A. D. Lasker.

ADMIRAL MOFFETT AGAIN AERIAL CHIEF

Adams Renames Him to Naval Post With Approval of President Hoover.

LEADER IN AERONAUTICS

Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, whose retention as chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, was requested by the National Aeronautic Association and numerous other groups, was reappointed for a third term to that bureau yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Adams, with approval of President Hoover.

Admiral Moffett, who has been head of the bureau since 1921, when it was established, has been constantly identified with the progress of aviation. He assisted in forming the bureau, and directed an eight fold expansion in naval aeronautics and merging of aviation into the Navy, at a period when aeronautics was in an embryonic state.

Stressing the importance of aviation afloat, his administration has seen the commissioning of the first experimental aircraft carrier, Langley, and later the carriers Lexington and Saratoga, placement of catapults to launch planes on all battleships and cruisers and acquisition of many flying fields.

Aided Motor Development.

He participated in the development of the air-cooled engine, used by the transatlantic aviator, Lindbergh, and others, the standardization of types of airplanes and development of large flying boats to a point never reached previously, and he has encouraged development of amphibian planes. He further encouraged various material developments having marked effects on the plane industry, such as transition from wood to metal type of construction, metal propellers, improved engine cowling, slotted wings, floatation gear and solid engine injection types.

The airship Shenandoah was built, and the Los Angeles acquired in his directorate, as well as the authorization of the two new superdirigibles. Mooring masts were developed, including the first floating mast on the U. S. S. Patoka, and improvement in training methods was fostered by him.

While he has been chief of the bureau, there has been a tenfold increase in flight hours, with marked increase in safety, cooperation with a struggling aircraft industry and encouragement of commercial aeronautics. Many flight records were made during these years, and the five-year air building program, now half finished, was launched, with 859 modern planes now on hand.

Pleased at Reappointment.

On being notified of his reappointment yesterday, Rear Admiral Moffett said:

"I am gratified at my reappointment as chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics and for the opportunity afforded me to continue every effort for the advancement of naval aviation, in cooperation with other aviation departments, both civil and military and with the aviation industry.

"We are in the midst of the five-year aviation program including two rigid airships recently contracted for. Much remains to be done including the completion of this program, the procurement of additional aircraft carriers and, in general, the effort to leave nothing undone to make our naval aviation unexcelled and of the utmost value for defense of our country."

MEMBERSHIP IN WORLD COURT BY AMERICA SEEMS ASSURED

opinions which the council has got into the habit of asking of the court.

Nicholas Politis, the Greek jurist, and also Prof. W. J. M. Van Eysinga, of the Netherlands, who presided at the conference in 1926 which rejected the American fifth reservation concerning advisory opinions, also contributed modifications, but the main work was done by Sir Cecil, who introduced a written proposal.

This effort was gone over carefully by a subcommittee composed of Hurst, Root, Politis and Vittorio Scialoja, of Italy. They reported agreement concerning the first three paragraphs and agreement in principle on the fourth and last paragraph. Hurst, Root and Politis were expected tonight to bring in the complete draft tomorrow.

Opposes Risks of Delays.

Sir Cecil's idea is that the possible difference of views with the United States concerning the feasibility of requesting an advisory opinion on a subject connected with a particular international dispute should be cleared up at the start. He prefers this to running risks of delays and misunderstandings which might be involved in holding consultations with the United States after the court itself has been asked by the council to render an opinion.

He wants speed. He believes that if the council contemplates requesting an opinion the United States should be notified immediately. In this way the council will be made cognizant as to whether the United States has any objections. If it has, negotiations will be immediately inaugurated and presumably would result in an agreement as to whether the opinion should be insisted upon or dropped.

The Root formula provided for this early consultation, but gave more emphasis to its occurring after the court was in possession of the affair.

Held Fundamentally Political.

Hurst and his colleagues are convinced that the problem of whether an advisory opinion should be asked is fundamentally political in character and should be treated and solved as such by the league council and the United States, acting with the greatest possible celerity. Nevertheless, a second consultation with the United States through the initative of the court would not be made impossible.

The fourth paragraph, which has yet to be drafted, is connected with article 73 of the court statutes. This article instructs the court to give notice of requests for advisory opinions to all States "entitled to appear before the court." This includes the United States because it is mentioned in the annex of the league convenant as one of the original members of the league.

This article must now be woven into a protocol which the jurists expect to substitute for the protocol touching on American reservations which was drafted by the conference of 1926.

Agreement Held Virtually Assured.

A surprise may come when the subcommittee reports on the complete draft, but Geneva believed tonight that agreement now was virtually assured. It was understood that Mr. Root himself has indorsed the modifications made by his colleagues and that he will carry the text to Washington for submission to the Government. It was said tonight that an early acceptance by the United States Senate would have the effect of hastening European advocacy of the accord.

The jurists will make their report to the league council at its June session in Madrid. Acceptance by all nations would mean that the United States would participate in the election of judges by the league assembly and council.

Early Consideration Unlikely.

(Associated Press.)

Little hope is held out here for consideration by the Senate before the regular meeting of Congress in December of the new formula agreed upon yesterday at Geneva for American adherence to the World Court.

Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, which must first act upon the new scheme evolved by Elihu Root with the rules committee of the League of Nations, stated he would be unwilling to proceed until the League of Nations council itself has formally approved the proposal. The council does not meet until September.

Mr. Root has worked out a formula seeking to adjust the differences between the world powers and this country on the Senate's reservation to adherence. The American reservation, which never has been accepted by the other powers, stipulated that the world court should not undertake to render an advisory opinion on a case in which the United States has, or claims to have, an interest without the consent of this Government.

Senators Swanson, of Virginia, and Walsh, of Montana, friends of American entry into the court and the sponsors of the reservation which has never been accepted by the other powers, have informed President Hoover of their approval of the Root modification.

Must Go Before Senate.

It is generally agreed in Washington, however, that the new proposal of Mr. Root, though following very closely the language of that reservation, requires reconsideration by the Senate.

Senator Walsh has been hopeful that the Senate might take up the Root proposal during the extra session called by President Hoover to meet on April 15. If the League of Nations does not formally approve it before that time, Senator Borah is unwilling to go ahead with the Senate discussion in the extra session.

It is not known by just what procedure the new world court formula will get before the Senate again, but if action by Mr. Hoover is necessary that is regarded as a certainty. In his inaugural address the President stated his desire to bring about American adherence to the court.

BOND BILL LINKED WITH BRIBE CHARGE

Accusation Made in South Carolina Assembly in Conference Fight.

BLEASE DENIED HEARING

Colubia, S. C., March 12 (A.P.).—Charges that members of the general assembly had been offered bribes to vote for the highway bond bill and that members were interested in writing surety bonds for the highway department were hurled in the chamber today as the South Carolina House of Representatives adopted a free conference report on the bill. The vote was 60 to 41.

The free conference report has still to be adopted by the senate before being enrolled as an act. Should the senate fail to adopt the report, another chance to enact a bond bill exists in a duplicate house bill now on second reading in the senate.

The free conference report returned on the Senate bill provides for the issuance of $65,000,000 in bonds for the completion of the State highway system within four years. The entire State gasoline tax of 5 cnets per gallon and all the motor vehicle license receipts would be pledged toward the retirement of the bonds, and the amount of bonds issuable in any one year would be limited to $20,000,000. Should the State-wide bond issue without a popular referendum be held unconstitutional, the bond issue could be financed by an alternate provision dividing the State into two highway districts, each including approximately half of the counties, with a total bond issue of $35,000,000 allowed to each.

Proponents of the bond bill in the House today headed off a proposal to extend the privilege of addressing the house to United States Senator Cole L. Blease, who was waiting in the lobby. A motion adopte by the house on suggestion of a bond bill proponent set the time for voting on the free conference report and allowed all intervening time to argument against the bond issue but only argument from the floor. Later when a bond bill opponent asked to have the privilege of speaking extended to Senator Blease the author of the original motion raised his motion as a point of order, which was sustained.

Senator Blease, during the last few weeks, had addressed a number of communications against the bond bill to members of the general assembly. Fighting against ratification of the free conference report, O. D. Johnston, of Spartanburg, charged that representatives of cement companies had approached general assemblymen to induce them to vote for the bill, and that a number of persons, including general assemblymen and "the governor's son-in-law" would benefit by writing surety bonds for the highway department.

Daugherty Denies 'Green House' Story

Says He Knows Nothing of K Street Home and Never Saw It.

Columbus, Ohio, March 12 (A.P.).—The Columbus Dispatch today published a letter from Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney General in the Cabinet of the late President Warren G. Harding, in which Daugherty declares that he never saw and was never inside the "fabulous little green house," which played an important part in the investigation of the Attorney General's office.

The letter, the Dispatch says, is the first public statement from Daugherty since he retired from public life. It came from Sarasota, Fla., where he is spending the winter and was sent in answer to a news item published in the Dispatch in which the "little green house" was referred to. Daugherty said that he sent a telegram to Senator Watson telling him that he was never inside the "little green house" and never saw it from the outside. He also said that he never knew a person who went there.

In his letter to the Dispatch Daugherty states that he is "now planning to 'unwind this ball of yarns' in his own way and in his own time, but with no idea of defense purposes."

S. Pool, 3613 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mr. Mannakee, before coming to Washington, operated a mill near Silver Spring, Md. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carrie B. Mannakee; a son, Chester Mannakee, and another daughter, Mrs. Theodore Jones.

G. F. COOPER DIES; STRICKEN AT CLUB

Architect Passes Away Few Hours After Apoplexy Attack at Bridge Game.

DESIGNED BUILDINGS HERE

George F. Cooper, 65 years old, 1819 Wyoming avenue northwest, died in Emergency Hospital at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon following a stroke of apoplexy while playing bridge with friends at the City Club earlier in the afternoon. He was a retired architect.

Surviving him are the widow, Mrs. Margaret H. Cooper, one son, George F. Cooper, jr., of Pittsburgh, and three daughters, Mrs. R. C. Jefferds, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. Joseph Brown Metcalf, of Chestertown, Md.; and Mrs. Olinus Smith, of Washington.

Mr. Cooper was a director of the Southern Maryland Trust Co. of Seat Pleasant, Md., and although retired, he had been drawing plans for an addition to that institution. He was also a member of the City Club and Board of Trade. He maintained an office at 1315 New York avenue northwest.

Born in Washington, December 14, 1864, son of Henry C. and Georgeanna J. Cooper, the deceased was educated here. His first architectural experience was with the firm of Gray & Page. Later he served with Hornblower & Marshall and then with Carlyle Fenwick. In 1888 he went into business for himself. He designed the Bond and Davidson buildings and many apartment houses in the city.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

HOOVER ANNOUNCES OIL LANDS POLICY

discretionary authority to grant a lease in the event oil is struck and the permit holder proves his claim. The discretionary powers are very broad all the way through the act. It is Senator Walsh's contention, however, that by the granting of these discretionary powers the Congress expressed a policy of wanting the lands leased.

For several hours after Mr. Hoover's olicy became known there was a serious question, under the rigid definition which he laid down, as to whether leases would be issued even to those now exploring under permits. Failure for these people to get leases would, of course, mean the loss of their investment in exploration.

It was subsequently authoritatively explained, however, that the permit is accepted as carrying the moral obligation of a lease.

Inasmuch, however, as it is for the Secretary of the Interior to determine whether to grant a lease even when applied for after fulfillment of the conditions of the permit, there is a question as to whether he will not be influenced by the President's known policy of desiring to conserve oil.

Mr. Hoover is a dyed-in-the-wool conservationist. As chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, he was the originator of the oil conservation movement. The industry has been trying to get the Government to intervene, for one thing, to waive the anti-trust laws so that it could agree upon a curtailment of production.

Aside from the effect on the situation that the actual withdrawal of one-tenth of the country's supply, or nearly that, will have the moral effect of the President's action, it is pointed out, should have a wholesome influence.

It was under the general leasing act of 1920 that Harry F. Sinclair contracted for the purchase of royalty oil from the Salt Creek fields. A Department of Justice investigation resulted in revocation of a renewal that had been granted by the then Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Work.

The Teapot Dome and Elk Hills scandal grew out of an amendment to the general leasing act, passed two months after the original act, and which authorized the Secretary of the Navy to make leases of naval oil lands.

Assistant Secretary Hurley Is Given Medal for Work on Luxemburg Pact.

OWNS BUILDING IN CITY

Patrick Jay Hurley, Tulsa, Okla., owner of the Hurley-Wright Building of this city, was named Assistant Secretary of War by President Hoover yesterday, succeeding Col. Charles B. Robbins, of Iowa.

Assistant Secretary of War Hurley, who was decorated for World War gallantry, was born in the Choctaw Nation, Indian Territory, in 1883, and was graduated from Indian University, now Bacone College, Bacone, Indian Territory, in 1905. In 1908 he received the degree of bachelor of laws from the National University of Law, in this city, and was admitted to the bar in Oklahoma that year, beginning practice at Tulsa.

In 1912 he was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States, and was national attorney from the Choctaw Nation from 1912 to 1917. He has been president of the First Trust & Savings Co. Bank of Tulsa since 1927.

His military services began in 1902 as a captain of cavalry of the Indian Territorial Volunteer Militia, in which he remained until 1907, and received a captaincy in the Oklahoma National Guard in 1914, reaching the grades of major and lieutenant colonel in the World War, where he participated in the Aisne-Marne, Meuse-Argonne and St. Mihiel offensive and defensive operations.

He negotiated the agreement between the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg and the A. E. F., in 1919, and is at present a colonel in the Officers' Reserve Corps. For his services in the World War he received the distinguished service medal, and the silver star citation for gallantry in action near Louppy, France, November 11, 1918, in voluntarily making a reconnaissance under heavy shell fire.

Col. Hurley is a member of the American and Oklahoma Bar Associations, the Chamber of Commerce of Tulsa, the American Legion, and Sigma Chi fraternities. He married Miss Ruth Wilson, daughter of Admiral Henry B. Wilson, U. S. N., in 1919 and has three children, Patricia, Ruth and Wilson.

His citation for the distinguished service medal reads:

"Assigned as judge advocate, Army artillery, First Army, he rendered services of marked ability, performing, in addition to his manifold duties, the duties of adjutant general and of inspector general. Later, as judge advocate of the Sixth Army Corps, he ably conducted the negotiations arising between the American Expeditionary Forces and the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg wherein he displayed sound judgement, marked zeal, and keen perception of existing conditions. He has rendered services of material worth to the American Expeditionary Forces."

Tarkington to Recover His Normal Eyesight

Indianapolis, Ind., March 12 (U.P.). Booth Tarkington, famous Hoosier author, will recover his normal eyesight, according to information received here by his sister, Mrs. Ovid Butler Jameson, from the Wilmer Eye Institute of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

Tarkington recently underwent an operation after he had lost the sight of his right eye and his left eye had begun to weaken.

to individual cases which he considered deserving and outside the realm of organized charities but he never would identify himself publicly with them.

The soft drink magnate began his business career in Atlanta with a capital of $2.50 at the age of 21 after seeing his father's Georgia farm properties stripped by Sherman's march in the Civil War. While helping his family reclaim the remnants of their possessions he studied in the public schools and took a course in pharmacy.

He went to work in an Atlanta drug store as a clerk, later formed a partnership with the late N. B. Hallman and soon became the sole owner.

Bought Formula for $500.

It was while here that he was said to have acquired for $500 the formula for Coca Cola from a man who had purchased it from another.

In April, 1888, Mr. Candler organized a company to manufacture the product and three years later became the exclusive owner. In 1911 he retired and was succeeded as head of the business by his son, Charles Howard Candler. He continued, however, to devote himself to extensive real estate holdings and other enterprises in which he was interested.

While still a struggling young druggist he married Miss Lucy Howard, of Atlanta, who died in 1919. His second wife, the former Mrs. Mary Little Reagan, of Atlanta, whom he married in 1923, survives him.

Before his second marriage Mr. Candler was sued for $500,000 damages in a breach of promise action by Mrs. Onezima de Bouchal, of New Orleans, but he won a verdict after a spectacular trial in Atlanta.

Brother Is Senior Bishop.

Mr. Candler long had been active as a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of which a brother, Warren A. Candler, is senior bishop. A great part of his charitable gifts went to that denomination, including, besides Wesley Memorial Hospital, Emory University and Wesley Memorial Methodist Church here.

Another brother, Judge John S. Candler, distinguished Georgia jurist, survives, together with five children, Charles Howard, Asa, jr., William and Walter Candler and Mrs. Henry Heins and two stepchildren.

Mr. Candler was born December 30, 1851, near Villa Rica, Ga. His parents were Samuel Charles and Martha Beall Candler.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 11 a. m. at the palatial Candler home in Druid Hills, with Dr. Franklin J. Parker, dean of the Candler School of Theology at Emory officiating. Burial will be in West View Cemetery.

MEXICO'S PRESTIGE IS JOLTED BY EVIDENCES OF DEEP UNREST

are forced back into the federal fold. With no financial support, with unpaid debts and no proven ability really to govern the country, the government of Mexico admittedly presents a disheartening picture to the outside world in general and to the United States in particular. Responsible officials privately admit this, as do diplomats and members of the foreign relations committee of the United States Senate.

Incidentally, the unwelcome uprising and its widespread ramifications have pricked the bubble of American Ambassador Morrow's dream of seeing Mexico slowly but surely restored to a secure basis of stability.

Germs of Revolt Remain.

The immediate news developments are regarded as of secondary importance in comparison with the basic trouble from which Mexico is obviously suffering. There are reports of an impending clash near Torreon between the federal forces of Calles and the revolutionists. It appears doubtful whether the rebels will make a stand and it is rather expected here that they will retreat northward and avoid battles. Whatever the outcome and even in the event of a federal victory the germs of revolt will remain imbedded in five Mexican states, awaiting their opportunity to again sprout if they are temporarily stamped down by federal military force.

It is also noted here that no quarter is to be given to the participants in the revolution so that a substantial part of the entire population must apparently fight on to save itself from threatened retribution.

Reports Being Discounted.

Mexico City reported on Monday that Torreon would fall at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of that day. It develops now that this and other reports emanating from Mexico City must be taken with more than a grain of salt. The sources of news at the Mexican capital so far have been providing the world with information as to the seriousness and developments of the revolt and it is now becoming very apparent that facts do not altogether square with the Mexico City version. But as the Mexican government apparently has a monopoly on news reports and as the revolutionists have until yesterday been unable to establish proper contacts with the outside world, it is necessary for officials here to accept the Mexico City versions and await developments before giving them full credence.

Code messages are reaching the embassies here and, in some instances, they conflict with the reports disseminated by the Mexican capital. But even these diplomatic messages are based on information obtained in Mexico City so that there is the familiar flavor of the inspired official bulletins given out by the federal government. It is significant that on the strength of these reports, several of the diplomats regard the situation as increasingly serious.

Home No Longer Castle, Says Judge; Levies Fines

A man's home is no longer his castle, since the prohibition law became effective, but is as "open as a dog house," according to Justice W. S. Snow, who made the above statement in the Alexandria, Va., Police Court yesterday, following a plea by an attorney against the action of the police in entering the home of a colored couple charged with improper conduct.

The attorney claimed the police were looking for a person other than those arrested, and consequently had no authority to make an arrest without a warrant.

The court held otherwise, however, and fined Gertrude Mitchell and Theodore Gibson $15 each, with $3 costs. The arrests were made by Sergt. McCleary and Policeman Padgett.

$10,900,000 in Gold On Way From Germany

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—A shipment of $10,900,000 in gold from Germany, the first of major size since May, 1924, from that country, was reported 1 Wall street to be on its way to New York.

The cable rate for the German mark has slumped to 23.72¾, compared to 23.74, which is generally considered as the point where gold can be imported profitably. The Reichbank statement of March 7 shows a decrease of approximately $11,000,000 in gold coin and bullion.

FRENCH AND ENGLISH DISAGREE OVER BANK

Paris Opinion Favors Trustee; British Oppose Extending Payments in Kind.

SUBCOMMITTEE WORK ON

Paris, March 12 (A.P.).—The subcommittees of the reparations experts today applied themselves to the task of making all their reports fit into the skeleton of the proposed "trustee" or International Bank for reparations payments.

The one thing definitely settled with respect to the projected gigantic financial institution is that a trustee of some kind must be found to succeed the agent general for reparations if the Dawes plan is to be scrapped.

Some real differences of opinion among the experts must be ironed out before the committee can go farther. Approbation of the bank scheme as a general proposition seems to have covered some hitches as to the details of organization and the scope of operation.

The French press, presumably basing its appreciation on revelations from expert sources, doubts the wisdom of establishing an international institution of the power it is proposed to give this bank. They prefer a "trustee" with power limited to handling reparations payments in money and kind.

The British, it is currently reported on good authority, are opposed to the whole scheme of extending deliveries in kind on the reparations account and would rather limit them, accepting a smaller total in cash rather than forcing German exports to the detriment of British trade. The subcommittees are understood to have worked on those points today with the idea of submitting some new suggestion at the plenary session tomorrow afternoon.

Film Robs Teeth of Dazzling Whiteness

Now special film-removing dentifrice whitens teeth amazingly when ordinary methods fail.

The Film

that discolors teeth and then destroys them

WINNING smiles depend on glorious white teeth . . . and teeth like that depend on freedom from what dentists know as film. Film is a stubborn, clinging coating that ordinary ways fail to remove successfully. It is the chief source of serious tooth and gum disorders.

Remove film with the special scientific dentifrice called Pepsodent and urged so widely.

Film—how it destroys

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery, viscous coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking to turn white teeth "off color" and cloud their brilliance.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film so that brushing easily removes it in gentle safety.

In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. They continue to improve for months. Start today. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

MASS PRODUCTION OF LAWS.

"The United States is the greatest law factory in the world," said James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers, in addressing that organization at Detroit. "It annually enacts more laws than five of the leading States of the world together." The statement is significant because it suggests the magnitude of the problem which the Hoover administration has determined to solve.

When the special commission to be appointed by the President begins investigating the system of jurisprudence and law enforcement, it can not help recognizing the fact that the statute books of the Nation and the States are crowded with thousands of obsolete and contradictory measures. Legislative bodies continue to turn out volumes of new statutory law with little reference, in many instances, as to what has been enacted before. Sometimes they seek to remedy the situation by ordering a codification, which too often proves to be a mere assembling of a multitude of conflicting statutes.

"We operate the largest, if not the most efficient law factories in the world, the subsidiary plants in the respective States enacting biennially, in conjunction with Washington, an average of more than 12,000 statutes," said Mr. Emery. "These are the finished products of which the raw material is represented by substantially 25,000 bills introduced during the Seventieth Congress, and more than 50,000 proposals within the forty-two State legislatures in session. To these may be added the even larger output of ordinances by the counties and municipalities."

When there is a confusion of laws effective administration of justice is impossible. Under present conditions in many of the States one law enables a person to evade another, and justice is dissipated in the general confusion. Congress sometimes leaves its intention hazy, as in the Jones law, and occasionally its statutes are in conflict with one another, but the principal offenders in this respect are the State legislatures. In the general orgy of enacting legislation, too little attention is given to revision and repeal. One of the most serious reforms needed in the whole structure of government is clarification and harmonizing of statutes passed by different legislatures.

Now, when the Government is undertaking a national survey of law enforcement and abuses, is an excellent time for the States to boil down their voluminous statutes to essential laws that can be understood and obeyed by the people. Simplification is needed in the making of law, quite as much as in court procedure. Enforcement can never be worked out as a science until the laws are clear, consistent and applicable to all.

ADVICE IN ART.

When New York State adopted a policy of reorganization some time ago a number of commissions and bureaus were combined and others were abolished. Among the latter was the State Fine Arts Commission, which had authority to pass on public building projects before any work of this kind could be undertaken. Since then the State government has been functioning without the advice of any board of architects, much to the annoyance of the Fine Arts Federation.

The subject has been revived in the State legislature by a message from Gov. Roosevelt asking for creation of an advisory fine arts commission which would serve without pay and would have authority only to make recommendations. He did not favor a bill providing for restoration of the former commission on the ground that its authority might be used to delay public building projects. The commission, he suggests, would be an adjunct to the executive department, including two architects, one painter, a sculptor, an engineer, a landscape gardener and one other member.

The problem of a fine arts commission is one that is engaging the attention of many States. There is a general belief that State officials, who are seldom artistically trained themselves, are in need of counsel from a competent body in planning public buildings and grounds. Many States are carrying out extensive building programs. Nebraska, for example, is completing a $10,000,000 capitol. In all cases they are spending the taxpayers' money for buildings that will serve for many years and it is of importance that these structures should conform to standards of good taste.

Washington would be seriously handicapped in its extensive building program without the services of the Fine Arts Commission. While the development programs of the States are of less importance, each State has a capitol of its own by which its people are largely judged. Men of standing in the artistic professions are always willing to render service in an advisory capacity. The nonsalaried advisory fine arts commission seems to be admirably adapted to the needs of State governments.

KEEPING GOOD MEN.

President Hoover's announcement that very few changes will be made in the Federal personnel, aside from promotions and the filling of places made vacant by voluntary resignation, is of course most welcome news to the great body of Government workers, but it is received with equal favor by the public, as proof that Mr. Hoover is looking for efficiency and not for political aggrandizement. He finds a great machine working smoothly, and it is evidently his intention to refrain changing its parts for the sake of building up a machine of his own.

In important places, where the incumbents possess experience and special qualifications, it would be a loss to the Government to displace them in order to substitute somebody else, even if the newcomer also should seem well qualified. Mr. Hoover therefore keeps Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, at his post, without regard to the naval rule dealing with tours of duty. Admiral Moffett has not only developed naval aviation to the highest efficiency, but he has been a leader in the development of airplane motors that are conceded to be the best in existence. He has also fought persistently for the development of airships, and is now supervising the construction of two of the largest airships in the world. No one else could take over this pioneer work without running the risk of making mistakes which Admiral Moffett's experience has taught him to avoid.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, is another public official whose devotion and ability command the approval of President Hoover. Gen. Hines' experience at the head of the bureau is now a valuable asset of the Government, which the President intends to utilize. This bureau, disbursing hundreds of millions of dollars and caring for thousands of disabled men, is a vast and complicated machine. If it were a business organization, instead of a Government agency, its director would be paid a salary greater than that received by the President.

Gen. Lord, director of the Bureau of the Budget, is another specially qualified officer whose services the resident hopes to retain. It is not surprising that Gen. Lord should be considering retirement to engage in private business where he can earn many times his Government salary. But he is a patriotic man, and possibly he will conclude that his duty is to remain where he can be of greatest service.

TOLL BRIDGES.

Between 1900 and 1922 a total of 67 toll bridges were constructed in the United States. Within the next ensuing six years more were built than the total constructed during the preceding 22 years. Twenty-three were constructed in 1926 alone. At present there are 233 toll bridges in the country, with a total value estimated at $118,000,000, earning an annual revenue of $13,800,000. About two-thirds of the toll bridges are operated by private individuals or corporations, and their average return on the investment is approximately 14 per cent. The remaining one-third, publicly owned, pay 8 per cent on the investment.

The toll bridge question has come in for wide discussion. The American Automobile Association recently called their increase "nothing short of a national disgrace," and Congress on several occasions during its last session discussed toll bridges at length. Many projects for the construction of new toll bridges are coming up.

Those opposed to toll bridges apparently see but one side of the question. The toll bridge does not satisfactorily take the place of the free bridge. Every one will admit that the ideal situation demands free bridges as well as free highways. A toll bridge, however, is better than no bridge at all. The bridge across the Delaware connecting Camden with Philadelphia cost more than $36,500,000, yet it is earning handsome dividends, because the public gladly pays tolls to save a longer journey. Since funds were not available to construct a free bridge linking Philadelphia with her neighbor across the Delaware, the construction of a toll bridge was economically justified.

Construction of a toll bridge brings the installment purchase idea into the field of bridge construction. Only those who make use of the facilities pay its cost. The point may be raised that the tolls continue to be collected long after the cost of the bridge has been paid. That situation can be met by including a recapture clause in the authorization.

MR. HOOVER SAVES TIME.

President Hoover is to be commended for his decision to curtail the handshaking ordeal at the White House. For the present visitors may shake hands with the President only on Mondays and Wednesdays, and it is likely that the custom will be further restricted in the future. The arrangement will save valuable time and perhaps enable the President to obtain needed recreation.

Greeting the President became a very popular attraction to thousands of tourists during the Harding and Coolidge administrations. It was not uncommon for President Coolidge to shake hands with 2,000 persons in a single day. During his first week in office Mr. Hoover had to greet 4,000 visitors. He has wisely decided that this is too much to ask of any one who bears the responsibility of the Presidency.

There are two good reasons for curtailing this custom: First, it is too arduous for the President; secondly, it is unnecessary and not in harmony with the dignity of the office. Mr. Hoover also objects to being made the star attraction in advertising railroad excursions and sight-seeing trips. He may not be quite as complaisant as Mr. Coolidge in submitting to innumerable photographic ordeals with groups of aspiring politicians and boosters. The President's time belongs to the whole public, and should not be frittered away.

PROBLEM OF GRADE CROSSINGS.

Not the least of the problems facing the States is the further elimination of grade crossings. Hundreds of lives are lost each year in collisions where highways cross railways. Many of the most dangerous crossings have been eliminated, but hundreds of unprotected crossings remain, and pressure continually is brought upon the carriers and State authorities for their elimination. Generally the railroads are asked to assume the major portion of the expense, and until a different method of financing is worked out it is not likely that the crossing elimination program will mark much progress.

In an address delivered before the American Road Builders Association recently, E. W. James, of the Bureau of Public Roads, outlined a constructive proposal to help solve the problem. He recommends that a definite classification of crossings be made based on relative value of their elimination to the traveling public; that a definite program for eliminating crossings of highest classification be adopted by each State and each railroad in it; that authority to create new grade crossings be restricted; that each State adopt a definite program for installing protective warning devices of a standardized type; that the cost of eliminating and installing safety devices be readjusted between the railroads and the public.

It is good common sense to advocate the elimination of the most dangerous crossing first, but it is not easy to get action on projects to rate crossings according to their potential hazard. Nor is it easy to convince the public that it must bear a greater share of the cost of crossing elimination. Of the latter suggestion, Mr. James says: "If a program of elimination, based on a classification, is to be founded on economic saving to highway traffic, it is logical and fair to be liberal in allotment of costs to the general public. This program would make it possible to speed up the entire program of elimination and protection." Speeding up the program is the important consideration. Any suggestion that would work toward this end should be carefully considered.

CAN A VICE PRESIDENT BE MADE USEFUL?

From the Boston Transcript.

It is a good idea to have Vice President Curtis "sit in" at Cabinet meetings. The counsel of a man of his great legislative experience and leadership could not fail to be valuable indeed to the President and his Cabinet ministers. The invitation extended by Mr. Hoover is not the first instance of attempt to make of the Vice President a real member of the Government, but unfortunately such attempts as have been made have never been distinctly successful.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Curtis' peculiar abilities and character may turn out to afford an important precedent. But as a matter of fact, the Vice President's active influence, while occupying only the position to which he has been elected, declined immediately and apparently forever upon the going into effect of the Constitution. Up to the adoption of the twelfth amendment the Vice President had been the candidate or nominee for the Presidency itself who had received the second highest number of votes for President.

The effect of this arrangement was that the Vice President, up to that time, as in the case of Aaron Burr, defeated by Jefferson, was the principal political opponent of the President, and consequently could hardly have been admitted to the President's councils. He remained, however, the leader of the opposition, and was consequently an important figure in public affairs—in no sense a political nonentity.

The inconvenience of this arrangement so became apparent, and the twelfth amendment, proclaimed in 1804, provided that the Vice President should be voted for directly for that office. The effect, naturally—since it was designed to continue the President's party in power in case of the death of the Chief Magistrate, and not to turn it out—was to subordinate this official completely to the reigning executive. From this subordination the Vice President's constitutional function as president of the Senate did not save him, since the chief presiding officer, unless he be a senator elected by the Senate itself, really has no political functions in any party sense. He has no influence whatever on the Senate, for the reason, so well stated by Bancroft, that "he can have no real influence in a body upon which he is imposed by an extraneous vote."

In the actual government of the country the Vice President, whose office was invented merely to prevent the need of a new election before the end of the regular term, has no function. It is an interesting fact that one of the most influential members of the Constitutional Convention, Hugh Williamson, of North Carolina, earnestly opposed in the convention having any Vice President at all. He saw no need of such an official, for he saw no harm in a new election in case of the death of the President, with his Secretary of State, or the president of the Senate, exercising the executive authority in the interim. But the convention saw fit to create the office, and made the Vice President an unwelcome presiding officer of the Senate in order that he might have something to do.

No Vice President hitherto has had any historical consequence except as fate has afterward brought him into the Presidency itself. The Vice President's real function is merely to stand and wait. One very able and sagacious man in that office, Thomas R. Marshall, was invited at one time to sit in the Cabinet by President Wilson. However, he attained to no influence there, and faded from the picture. The peculiar potential usefulness of Mr. Curtis may make his case different in this regard. If it does, the fact will be due as much to Mr. Hoover's breadth of mind and his executive wisdom as to Mr. Curtis' high gifts.

NUITS BLANCHES.

By STEPHEN B. STANTON.

Out of the night's black midhours obdurate,
Where solemn ghosts of all the bygone walk,
Where worry's vengeful furies lie in wait
And grim regrets across the memory stalk;
Where self (amid subjective mazes swirled,
Of outward sweet companionship bereft)
By staring hopelessness of sleep distraught
A prey to thought's Eumenides is left—
Oh what the swift revulsion of delight
To rouse . . . to rise . . . to let rush in the world!
Like Jove to summon from the void of night
As erst creation's miracle was wrought
A universe of substance and of sight!
Once more to live in contacts of the sense,
To sate on things this self-consuming thought,
Escape the torment of the mind's contents!

As an Object Lesson It Is Invaluable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Cave Dwellers All.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Washington, as in most American cities, the housing trend of recent years has been away from residences and toward apartments. The war, of course, had a great deal to do with it. Population was mushroomed over night. Places had to be found in which war workers could live. Builders fell feverishly to work constructing houses and apartments, principally the latter, inasmuch as they afford the most economical means of mass housing. The apartments have hung on, and although residential building has not fallen off to any considerable degree in the District, Washington seems to have become a city of apartment dwellers.

A similar revolution is under way in other cities. Everywhere apartments are coming into popularity, and everywhere apartments are becoming smaller. In New York City, twenty years ago, most apartments contained five rooms or more, and ten years ago the average apartment contained more than four rooms. Today the average is just a fraction over three. In 1918, not a single one-room apartment house was built in New York City, but in 1928 888 of them were erected. More than 75 per cent of all new apartment construction in New York is given over to apartments of fewer than four rooms, and today 70 per cent of the population lives in apartment houses or tenements.

Why does the present generation seek an apartment rather than a house? The answer, in all probability, lies in the fact that the apartment is so much easier to maintain. If the present trend continues the day may arrive when the American will be almost exclusively a cave-dweller. C. J. P.

Tariff Is the Test.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Republicans succeeded at the last election by making certain pledges to the people. They won not only by selecting a President, but by increasing the party majority in both House and Senate. The acid test will soon be applied to determine whether its pledges were made for campaign purposes alone. Congress is soon to meet in extra session, called for the purpose of making good those pledges.

Evidently President Hoover has a mind to carry out the pledges his party made, but what can he do with Congress? It has not passed from the memory of the people that a Democratic President declared that a certain action of Congress was "perfidy and dishonor." His party had made certain campaign pledges to the people, and the President believed the pledges should be kept, but his party in Congress had different views. They had pledged themselves to a severe downward revision of the tariff, but the bill when it passed both houses was downward only in a very mild degree, and that on certain articles culled from the great mass.

Tariff revision is demanded by the people; it was pledged by the Republicans. Conditions today are different from what they were when President Cleveland so bitterly denounced the Wilson-Gorman bill. Today the South is strongly impregnated with the protective virus; the farmers are clamorous and are demanding an upward trend in duties. It is a difficult situation which confronts Congress and an extra session is a bad time to act on such matters, but the people will not wait another year, for if not done before the regular session, 1930 will have nearly run its race before action will be had. The Republicans have a chance to make or break. Which will they do?

F. C. WILSON.

Are Blimps Practical?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Nonrigid dirigibles have not been performing well of late. Following the inaugural parade three of the gas bags were stormbound at Bolling Field and when the skies finally cleared two of them had been smashed by the wind. The third, the TC-5, got away safely. A fourth bag, the Army TC-10, also participated in the aerial parade, but its commander fled before the storm and finally brought his craft into its home hangar. On Monday the TC-10 was taken on a test flight to discover whether or not it had been damaged on its wild flight back from Washington. Something went wrong; it alighted in a tree, from which it was worked free, and finally was brought down on Chesapeake Bay. The crew was rescued by a tug, and the TC-10 was towed back to Langley Field by launches. Its valuable store of helium was lost.

The blimp is not a particularly useful type of airship. She has neither power nor speed. In a moderately heavy wind she is well-nigh helpless, having generally to flee before it. She is cumbersome and hard to handle. She is most vulnerable. She serves but two useful purposes—training and observation, and the latter function, it is rather generally conceded, can be better performed with other types of aircraft.

The Army and Navy probably are justified in continuing their experiments with blimps. Although the story the nonrigids have written since the inaugural is far from impressive, it may be that sooner or later a more powerful and more satisfactory blimp will be developed. But for the time being, advocates of the nonrigids are on the defensive. It is up to them to prove that the blimps serve a sufficiently useful purpose to justify their original and maintenance costs.

W. F. PERKINS.

Costly Words.

Philadelphia Record: The offer to Mr. Coolidge of $25,000 a year and $1 a word for contributions to an encyclopedia does not seem excessive. He set a record when he wrote six—"I do not choose to run"—which cost him $50,000 each, or $75,000 for four years.

The People Do the Decent Thing When They Know.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE American people are essentially decent.

They are guided by their emotions, and as a rule their emotions are generous and fine.

They take up a collection for a ship's captain who rescues fellow sailors in a storm; they suffer in sympathy when a Collins is trapped in a cave; they thrill to the heroism of a musher who braves snow and ice to carry medicines to a plague-infested town in the North.

If they don't reveal a quick and generous appreciation of every noble deed, and an equally quick condemnation of every injustice, it is only because they are kept in ignorance of the facts.

Consider, for example, the plight of the Indians who are wards of the Government.

These and their forefathers once were free and roamed a vast territory that was theirs by every right save one—the right of force.

White invaders seized their lands and killed the game on which they lived, and as a tardy recompense began to "civilize" them.

"Civilizing" them consists in taking away their independence; robbing them of self-reliant manhood; giving them a charity insufficient to provide a decent living; keeping them in schools from which they flee in terror when opportunity offers; whipping them; drugging them to keep them quiet—in some instances fatally; using them as slaves; and robbing them with the law's connivance when the lands allotted to them out of their once great holdings turn out to be rich in mineral and petroleum deposits.

Investigations are demanded by decent white men who know the truth, and witnesses are called before those having authority, but always something happens to stop the investigations before they go too far.

Somebody is shielded; something is hidden.

The American people do and say nothing because they don't know what is going on.

Some day they will learn what cruelties and injustices are practiced in their name, and then they will act.

But they will act too late to save the helpless ones who now cry for mercy.

RAILWAY TRAVEL.

It is probable that one-half of all the traveling done by railway in the United States this year, exclusive of commutation travel, will be done in sleeping and parlor cars, says the Railway Age. This simple fact illustrates strikingly the changes that have occurred in this country during the last decade, both in travel and in general economic conditions. Before the war, practically all traveling within the country was done by rail. It is not known what proportion of it was done in day coaches, but it may be reasonably estimated that, while sleeping and parlor car business had been steadily increasing for years, travel in day coaches, prior to the widespread use of automobiles, was never less than 75 per cent of the total traveling done.

The collection of the surcharge on sleeping and parlor car tickets, beginning in 1921, afforded for the first time a basis for estimating with approximate accuracy the proportion of traveling by rail done in day coaches and in sleeping and parlor cars. In that year, in spite of the fact that the railways already were subject to a great deal of motor vehicle competition on highways, the amount of traveling by railway done in day coaches was about 69 per cent of the total, and the amount done in sleeping and parlor cars about 31 per cent. Travel in day coaches has declined in every year since then, excepting 1923, and in 1928 was about 42 per cent less than in 1921. On the other hand, travel in sleeping and parlor cars steadily increased until 1926, and last year was about 22 per cent greater than in 1921. In consequence last year only about 51½ per cent of the traveling by rail done in the country was done in day coaches, while about 48½ per cent of it was done in sleeping and parlor cars.

These facts show that of those who are disposed to travel by rail a constantly increasing proportion choose to pay the cost of riding in sleeping and parlor cars in order to get the better service afforded in them rather than to use the less expensive day coach service. While total travel in sleeping and parlor cars increased until 1926, it was about 3 per cent less in 1927 than in 1926 and about 1½ per cent less in 1928 than in 1927, the total decline in the two years being about 4½ per cent.

Wonderful Radio.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: An interesting review of some recent developments in radio, by a writer in Nation's Business, reveals that the radio, among other things, has accomplished these results: It has cut down the suicide rate, it has put many rural churches out of business, it has changed the complexion of politics, it has worried the managers of big prize fights, it caused the recent boom in stock market speculation and it has revolutionized the old-fashioned Saturday night. Quite a varied list of accomplishments, to which you can add any others you see fit.

PRESIDENTIAL PRECEDENCE.

President Hoover who, like a perfect gentleman, has been allowing Mrs. Hoover to precede him in public places all of his married life, had to break that habit after March 4.

A President, by virtue of office, must precede everybody, including his wife, explains Mary Roberts Rinehart, writing of White House etiquette in the current World's Work Magazine. He precedes her to meals at home and dinners abroad; he enters a White House car before her and sits on the right; at the theater he must precede her into the box. He is supposed to precede her even into the White House elevator, and there is a story that when President Harding on his first arrival endeavored to follow Mrs. Harding in, the elevator man barred the door with his arm and said:

"The President first, madam."

What Today Means to You

MARCH 13

By MARY BLAKE.

PISCES

IF March 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, and from 7:15 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Fortune favors the brave today and little will be gained by elaborate deliberation or by delay. If your enterprise is to be crowned with success, you must today make a quick decision and act upon it, as, otherwise, your opportunity may be irrevocably lost.

Children born today will be strong, both mentally and physically. They will be energetic, good-natured, and happy under any and all conditions. Their disposition will be affectionate, their bearing democratic and natural, and their temperament even and unruffable.

You possess a remarkably strong will, and this often carries you through difficult situations by its sheer force and power. You are not very considerate of slackers or of those who fall by the wayside. You think that everyone should be as determined as you are. A little tolerance injected into your system would make you a much more likable person.

Method and orderliness characterizes everything that you do, and it can not be gainsaid that your organizing ability is of a high order. You, too, are very energetic, and can get through a great deal of work—and do it well—in a very brief space of time. You should, however, conserve your strength as much as possible. It is impossible to run an engine at high pressure all the time.

Yours is more a one-track than a many-sided mind. You are at the best when kept busy at one special task, and are not so capable when interests are diversified. You are capable of a strong and an enduring affection, and your mate will be fortunate in having you as a life partner. You will not, however, make a good parent. You will lack the sympathetic touch so necessary for the understanding of children, and will expect altogether too much from them.

Successful people born March 13:

William Orr, inventor and manufacturer.

John Shrady, physician.

Charles Hallock, naturalist and author.

Joseph K. Emmet, actor.

Ernest Ingersoll, author.

William F. Warren, president of Boston University.

MOTORIST WHO HIT BENEFACTOR JAILED

Police Capture Three Capital Residents, One Woman, on Maryland Road.

WERE AIDED FROM DITCH

James Johnson, of 2055 Wisconsin avenue northwest, was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and two of his companions were fined yesterday by Justice of the Peace Howard U. Gosnell, of Savage, Md., after turning on a good Samaritan, Maryland State police say.

According to State police of the Laurel Substation, they received a call early yesterday morning from Flazey C. Willie, Laurel automobile garageman, who said that three persons had called him to pull them from a ditch and had then knocked him down and fled.

Sergt. C. E. Duckworth, Corpl. J. Deutsch and Pvt. C. C. Serman responded and captured the automobile about 4 miles from Deep Run, on the Baltimore boulevard. They arrested Johnson and charged him with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicants. Roy Harron, 3919 Fifth street northwest, and a woman who gave her name as Fay Barney, also of Washington, were also arrested.

Willie told the policemen that he pulled the automobile from a culvert at Deep Run and that as he started to unhook his crane the trio knocked him down and drove away. Harron was fined $15 and the woman $10 on charges of being drunk and disorderly on a public highway.

country, but little time is expected to be required in that.

Mr. Dawes, however, has revealed he was making plans to return to Europe this summer. The intimation was that this was a personal visit, but this is now linked with the rumor of his succession to the Court of St. James.

It is assumed here in the same connection that Alanson B. Houghton, the Ambassador to Great Britain, intends to retire from that post, if not from public life. Mr. Houghton resigned last summer, when he was nominated as the Republican candidate for senator from New York. He was defeated and after the election he was reappointed to his ambassadorial post.

It is recalled that when Mr. Hoover was engaged in relief work following the war, he sought the service of Dawes, who was then a general in the expeditionary forces.

Mr. Dawes first startled the Capital when he spoke his now famous phrase of "hell and maria" during an appearance before a congressional investigating committee. Four years ago he violated precedents by delivering a vigorous inaugural speech upon his ascendancy to the Vice Presidency, in which he denounced the Senate's rules and demanded a modification of them.

Stage manager ..... Jack Quisley

As second of the current series at Poli's, the Theater Guild last night presented George Bernard Shaw's excoriation of the medical profession, "The Doctor's Dilemma"—a five-act play wherein the eminent practitioner rubs the cuticle off the hides of physicians. Since the play has been under consideration so many times before, it is not that so much as the players who now come in for study. These Theater Guild people are beginning to overthrow the old accepted Shakespearean standard, "The play's the thing," and are making it, rather, "the players are the thing-em-bobs," or something like that.

Really, the Theater Guild improves upon acquaintance. In a Shaw play they should somewhat, naturally, be at their very best, for the Old Man is their god and master, having come to the point where he will let only the Theater Guild of New York have first attempt at his plays. However, they do pretty well by other authors, too, as evidence their performances in Sidney Howard's play, "Ned McCobb's Daughter." Since "The Doctor's Dilemma" is rather a talky vehicle—although the talk is of talk the most entertaining—it followed that it came off at a slower pace than that accorded Old Man McCobb's Gal the night previous.

Because of the manner of play representation now on tap at Poli's, there should be in force a sort of solemn obligation on the part of earnest theatergoers to see all the guild productions, so that a compotite picture of the players might be catalogued in the mind's art gallery. In this way, the marvellous acting ability of the cast might be better appreciated, the mode and manner of direction sensed, and the thoroughly artistic efforts discerned. The Theater Guild in its first essay of repertoire here is coming close to a perfect score. There is only one more hurdle, St. John Ervine's play, "John Ferguson."

Out of the stern realities of New England, the setting for "Ned McCobb's Daughter," Miss Elizabeth Risdon, upon whose lovely shoulders fall the brunt of the feminine roles, so far, came last night to a totally different characterization from her title role in Howard's play. She caught the cameo that was the soul of Jennifer Dudedat, the unselfish elf fastened wholely incorrigible Louis Dudedat over whom the prescribing doctor went into a dilemma. The horns wherein the medical man pinioned himself was whether he should let this fellow live, or kill him, so that the widow might fall into better hands. Over that Mr. Shaw makes great ado.

So, too, does Warburton Gamble, who plays the knighted medical man to what the old-time darkies used to call "a fare thee well!" There are four medicos who come directly into the discussion, and the consultants are ably played by Lawrence Leslie, as Cutler Walpole; by Edwin Maxwell, as Sir Ralph Bloomfield-Bonnington, and by Brandon Evans, as Sir Patrick Cullen, an Irishman, whom he portrays with just a bit of German dialect, due no doubt to Mr. Evans' association with the Berlin theater, but a coup de grace, since the German naturally melts into the Celtic, proving, perhaps, that, after all, there is not much difference in derivation, that the Gael and the German were, once, one and the same.

Any way, it is a beautiful rendition of Shaw's much discussed play, with Alan Mowbray covering himself with glory as the sick dilitante, Louis Dudedat, over whom all the pother and fuss are made. In "Ned McCob's Daughter" Mr. Mowbray has a minor role. In "The Doctor's Dilemma" he is the motivating force of the play, which is the way of true reperoire—a star today and a super tomorrow.

Large Audience of Friends Hear Young Students in Fifty-Fifth Program.

The capable young musicians of the college and preparatory departments of the Washington College of Music gave the fifty-fifth concert of that institution before a large audience of friends at Barker Hall in the Y. W. C. A. Building last night.

Notable on the program were the several numbers given by the stringwood ensemble of the college, of which Fritz Maile is director and Evelyn Scott, concert master. Miss Catherine Benson acted as the accompanist of the evening.

Among those who appeared in individual numbers were Harriet Palkin, Mildred Steinbraker, Dorothy Brooks, Albert Kohen, Hope Pantell, Edith Harrison, Julian Rodriguez, Evelyn Howard Sheridan, Roslyn Carter, Charles Eldridge, Emilie Mann, Herbert Diamond, Roland W. Comley, Gertrude Dyre, Alice Huber, Aurelia Beck and Dorothy Sawyer.

Ring, Valued at $125, Stolen.

A lady's small white gold diamond ring, valued at $125, was stolen from the home of Leroy C. Owens, 1709 East Capitol street, Sunday, Owens reported to police yesterday.

I want to tell you how I coaxed him to eat—

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

"Once I was worried

Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

Complete Description

MAKE no mistake about what these books are. The set contains 60 different books, or 60 separate volumes. Each volume measures 3½x5 inches, and the books run to 64 pages each. The type is 8-point (the size used in the average daily newspaper), and it is clear and easy to read. The manner of setting these books enables us to put 15,000 words of text in each book, so you see the books are not sketchy, or mere "outlines." Each text is complete in itself. The total number of pages in the set is 3,488; the total number of words exceeds 825,000! Is not this a bargain at $2.98? And we pay the postage to your address! Many of the books have illustrations or diagrams to make the text more understandable. The books are uniformly bound in stiff, substantial covers. You will be amazed and delighted with the worth of this set.

TEXTBOOKS are often dry and musty. This Educational Course will be found refreshingly different from the usual educational volume. Every book has been written with the reader constantly in mind. Every page is clear and readily understandable by the average person. No attempt is spared to provide books which everyone can use to learn without the aid of an instructor.

Every book in this 60-volume set is self-teaching—that is the plan that underlies them all, to make no instructor necessary. Of course, the books are of no value unless you read them with the determination to learn. There is no royal road to knowledge just by letting your eyes run idly over the printed page! But if you have real ambition, then these are books to help you get ahead—these are books which may be of more genuine benefit to you than all four years of formal high school training.

Easy to Understand

The simplicity of these books is truly amazing. You will be gratified to find them entirely lucid in every way. No subject is kept difficult—all are presented to you so that you can get the most out of them. Just reading these books is educative to an extent that you can not realize unless you try the experiment! Furthermore, every volume is interesting. The type is of a size to make reading easy. The authors have been interested in their subjects, and this makes it certain that those subjects are presented in a delightfully fascinating manner.

What makes some textbooks difficult for the ordinary reader is that essential facts have been left out—such facts to be supplied by the teacher. In this Educational Course every fact is inserted in the text. With attention and determination a thorough grasp can be had of the subjects represented in this course (see the complete list at right). It is not necessary to ask questions—every question has been foreseen and already answered by the writers who have made this set a marvel of clearness and completeness.

Answers Questions Like These

All of these questions, and hundreds of others, are understandably answered in this 60-volume EDUCATIONAL COURSE, totaling some 825,000 words of text—and the price of 60 books is only $2.98, payment in full. This price includes the postage to your address. At such an amazingly low cost, can you honestly afford to be without a set of books which promise to be so useful and valuable to you?

(1) Who said: "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise?" (2) What is meant by "squaring the circle?" (3) What have the following names in common: Van Buren, Tyler, Polk, Fillmore, Pierce? (4) What are the four forms of English Composition? (5) What is Psychology? (6) Who were Donatello, Cellini, Bologna, Rodin? (7) What is the Milky Way? (8) Who was Delilah? (9) What famous speech begins: "Friends. Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears?" (10) What do the following mean: (a) "Sprechen sie Deutsch;" (b) "Parlez-vous francais;" (c) "Habla usted Espanol?" (11) How far does a falling body drop in the first second after starting from rest? (12) What does "ibid." mean? (13) What was the Roman god of war? (14) What were the three orders of Greek architecture? (15) What chiefly caused the U. S. Civil War?

CONSIDER for a moment the wide scope of these sixty books—think just how comprehensive they are! There are 825,000 words in these sixty volumes. They include a wonderful variety of subjects, from history and economics and literature to mathematics, foreign languages and the arts. Even commercial subjects, such as geography and typewriting, are included. You get a substantial foundation in the arts, and an insight into the great world of science. Then there are the handy reference volumes, the alphabetical dictionaries, which give you concise information just when you need it and exactly as you want it.

Four foreign languages—the languages which most English-speaking people desire to learn—are given in this set. These foreign languages are self-teaching in these handy volumes. They may be readily grasped with the aid of these books.

Variety of Subjects

Everything you need is here—this series is compact and complete in itself. This is a course crammed with valuable information and useful knowledge. There are two volumes of questions and answers (quizzes) with which you may test your knowledge from time to time. There is that excellent general treatise on "How to Study"—this work alone is really worth the entire price of the set in the valuable hints it gives and in the manner in which it enables the average person to study in such a way that he will get the most possible good out of his efforts.

You will find it invaluable to have at hand many of these books which you may not use at first. Though some of the subjects may seem to you apart from your present interests, they will sooner or later come in handy. Every one, today, should have a representative library of reference to which he can turn in search of facts when he requires them. That is what makes this course so thoroughly useful, and that is why sixty volumes were chosen as the ideal number of books for the set.

In our modern civilization, with the miracles of modern printing, knowledge is within every one's reach. There is no longer any excuse for any individual to remain in ignorance. Lack of knowledge is not tolerated. Today you must be progressively alert—keep abreast of the times—and maintain a standard of education that is on a par with the knowledge of your fellows. This 60-volume EDUCATIONAL COURSE will be a forward step in this direction; these sixty books will be worth far more than $3.98 to you in achieving this much to be desired result. Mail that blank before it is too late!

GRAB THIS LAST CHANCE!

NOW you can fill in those embarrassing gaps in your knowledge. Here, in 60 handy volumes which fit your pocket or handbag, you can get the essentials of the usual High School Education for only $2.98. This is positively all you pay—if you use the special order blank below before our remaining sets are gone—mail it before midnight of March 30, 1929.

What do the words "A High School Education" mean? They mean a thorough grounding in those essentials of modern knowledge which enables a person to be the most efficient in the everyday activities of his work and of his contact with others. When it is required that a person have a High School Education, it is meant that such a person must be equipped with a substantial background of English, History, General Literature, some Languages, Commercial Subjects (Business and Economics), Mathematics, Science and the Arts. It is expected that such a person will have his intelligence alert and trained to enable him to learn new things readily; to know where to look for facts not already in his possession; in short, to be a man or a woman aware of those fundamentals which form the basis of every education and of all culture.

Probably you have often felt the lack of knowledge you really ought to have at your command. Perhaps you did not get the most out of your school days, or possibly you were obliged to leave school before you had completed your education. Or your High School training has slipped into the past, and you are "rusty" on many subjects. Whatever the reason for the lack, you feel that the void is there—and you want to fill in the gaps! This 60-volume HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATIONAL COURSE is just the thing for you—it is comprehensive, easily understandable, thoroughly reliable and authentic, and absolutely up to date.

Whether you wish to study High School Subjects for the first time, or whether you merely wish to review your High School Education, you will find these 60 books exactly what you need. Read the list of titles carefully as listed at the left—and remember, all you pay for all 60 of these splendid books is two dollars and ninety-eight cents!

A word about this astonishing low cost—the price of $2.98 for all 60 of these books is possible, has been possible, because of mass production. These books have been bought by more than 250,000 people. The popularity of these books is irrefutable indication that they are filling a widespread need. Indeed, the price is so low that many people get the set just to have the books handy for reference. At such a price no one can afford to be without these books. In usual library form they would cost perhaps $25; in the new two-volume cloth edition they will cost $10—but you can get the same material, word for word, in 60 pocket-sized volumes, for only $2.98 postpaid! But remember—March 30th is the last day! Grab this chance NOW.

Amazing as it sounds, it is quite true that $2.98 is FULL and FINAL PAYMENT for all 60 of the books in this HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATIONAL COURSE. There are no strings attached to this offer—$2.98 is all you pay. Think how expensive a High School education usually is in comparison—here you get 60 books for no more than one average textbook costs in school. And you dispense with the instructor altogether; you become your own teacher, learning as you read.

We pay the postage to your address on this 60-volume set. The price of $2.98 includes all charges except the small C. O. D. fee (exactly seven cents), which goes to the U. S. postoffice. All packing and carriage charges are otherwise fully paid. You can avoid any possible delay or inconvenience (C. O. D. packages sometimes move slower than regular parcel post, and if you are not home when the package is first delivered it may cause you a little inconvenience) by remitting $2.98 with your order. Satisfied customers everywhere guarantee the value of this set of books. You are assured of satisfaction—when you see the books you will be convinced that they are worth the bargain price of $2.98.

However, send no money with the order unless you wish to. We shall be glad to send the books C. O. D. if you prefer. Just mail the blank and pay the postman on delivery. PROMPT SERVICE GUARANTEED.

All you have to do is see that your order is mailed on or before midnight of March 30, 1929, so you'll get one of the 1,250 remaining sets.

PRISONER INDICTED AS THEATER ROBBER

Elmo Williams Is One of 57 Accused by Grand Jury; 19 Charges Ignored.

31 CASES OF THEFT CITED

Fifty-six indictments, 31 of which were based on theft accusations, were returned by the District grand jury yesterday to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, in the District Supreme Court, criminal division. Nineteen charges were ignored by the jury.

Two charges of robbery and one of grand larceny growing out of the commission of three daring daylight hold-ups last fall were preferred against Elmo Williams, alias Muse Grisson, 21 years old.

It is charged Williams entered the office of the Earle Theater on the morning of October 29, pointed a revolver at Harry Lohmeyer, the manager, and demanded he open the safe. While Lohmeyer was attempting to open the safe, Wayne Birdsall, assistant manager, entered and it is alleged Williams "covered" him and forced him to open the safe, from which $2,776 was taken.

By clever detective work, Williams was traced to Chicago by Detectives H. K. Wilson and Oscar Mansfield, of headquarters, and arrested. Upon his return to the Capital, he is said to have confessed the theater robbery and also to holding up and robbing David Bell, jr., employe of the Peoples Drug Stores, at Fourteenth street and Thomas circle, on August 14. Under threat of machine gun fire, he forced Bell into a taxicab and relieved him of $1,485 he was taking to a bank, it was charged.

Linked With Another Hold-up.

Police said Williams also confessed obtaining $70 from Charles Kemper, colored porter of the Peoples Drug Stores. The porter was on his way to a bank when Williams accosted him and told him the store had sent him for the money. Kemper gave it to him, it was said.

Grand larceny was charged in indictments against Gertrude V. Robinson, Frank Spears, Edwin F. Biggs, James A. Lemon, Peter Nielsen, Martin McGrouch, Jim Browne, Francis Domico, James J. Shahahan, Berry Williams and Alberta Taylor. Robbery was charged against William C. Thomas, Estelle German, Aileen Gray, George Hawkins, Genevieve Sewell, Della Price, Daniel Childs, Addison Brown, James Rhone and Richard Epps.

Adolph Taylor, Frank Spears, Arthur Wallace, William Daniel Boone, David Rucker and Sherman W. Wilson were indicted on housebreaking and larceny charges. Joy riding was charged against James Dotson, Raymond Barnes and Robert Dodson. Samuel Washington and Eugene Tippett were indicted on grand larceny and joy riding charges.

David Meadows was charged with assault with intent to kill and Trueman Thomas was accused of assault with a dangerous weapon. Nonsupport charges were made against Arthur Hill, Charles Emory, Cyril Hendrickson, Price Hargrove and George F. Hansatty. John H. Smith was accused of carnal knowledge and Charles Harris of receiving stolen property. Violations of the lottery laws were charged against William Porter and Frank Ogden.

The charges ignored by the jurors included grand larceny against Edward Thomas, Scott Smith, David H. Dickey and Alton McLohon; housebreaking and larceny against Oscar Dorsey and Oerman Charity; joy riding against Donald Yonkers, larceny after trust against Robert Huffman, receiving stolen property against Louis Bradley, embezzlement against George Phillips, carnal knowledge against Raymond Starkes, assault with a dangerous weapon against William Whiteside, and lottery against Nettie Robinson, Nettie Williams and Roy Bogle.

Grundy Is Silent On Leaving Hoover

High Tariff Champion Says Visit Made at Request of President.

(Associated Press.)

Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, and an ardent champion of high tariff duties, had a conference yesterday with President Hoover at the White House. At its conclusion he declined to discuss his visit, other than to say that he called at the invitation of the Chief Executive.

Appearing recently before the House ways and means committee, which is to draft the tariff measure to be considered at the special session of Congress beginning on April 15, Mr. Grundy urged a general increase of duties on manufactured products.

His views apparently run counter to those of the President, who declared for limited changes in import duties both in his inaugural address and in his proclamation calling the extra session.

Borah Assists Atlanta Warden in Spy Fight

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, yesterday wrote a letter to William D. Mitchell, Attorney General of the United States, in behalf of John W. Snook, warden of the Federal prison at Atlanta, in his controversy with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt. Mr. Snook is from Mr. Borah's State and is well thought of there. Mr. Borah protested against the use of spies to get something on Mr. Snook, and today will follow the letter up with a personal call.

Mr. Borah is opposed to the snooping system in United States penal institutions and will urge the Attorney General to discontinue it.

Wife Charges Cruelty in Suit.

Charging cruelty, drunkeness and nonsupport, Mrs. Virginia Kelliher, 21 years old, of 3015 Georgia avenue northwest, instituted suit for limited divorce and maintenance in the District Supreme Court yesterday against her husband, John Kelliher, of 1218 Twenty-ninth street northwest. They were married on August 25, 1925, in Alexandria, Va., and have one child, whose custody Mrs. Kelliher seeks. Attorney Richard Merrick appeared for her.

$15-a-Week Rich Husband Sues $127-a-Week Poor Wife

Son of Morrison Hotel Owner Fights Alimony Payments, Saying Luxuries Are Gifts of His Mother; Judge to Hold Inquiry.

Chicago, March 12 (A.P.).—It was a paradox that confused the judge. Harry Moir, jr., although poor, is rich, and his wife makes $127 a week, but is poor.

The son of the owner of the world's tallest hotel, the Morrison, is paid $15 a week to work as an assistant banquet manager. Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen was informed today.

"But he has an airplane, and he can't drive that around the sky on $15 a week," insisted Martha Greif Moir, whom he is suing for divorce.

"Mother gave me that," Harry replied.

"And he drives a big expensive car," continued Mrs. Moir.

"Mother lets me do that; it's her car," was Harry's argument.

But mother did not wish to pay the alimony the pretty, diminutive wife was asking. For Martha Greif Moir makes a good sum as a vaudeville artist, when she works.

It would be obviously unfair, Harry testified, to expect him, earning $15 a week, to pay alimony, even though temporary, to his $127-a-week wife. The two were married just seventeen days after Harry's first marriage at the age of 17 was annuled. That was in 1926.

Judge Steffen continued the case for further examination into the income of Harry, who charges his wife with desertion. She announced her intention of filing a cross bill.

4 Children Seek To Identify Bones

Skeleton Believed That of Mrs. Espinos, Who Vanished on Honeymoon.

St. Louis, March 12 (A.P.).—Four children of Mrs. Ella Brady Espinos, 57, of East Chicago, Ind., today tentatively identified the skeleton of a woman's body found near here Sunday as that of their mother, who disappeared last September while on a honeymoon with her 19-year-old Mexican husband.

The identification was not positive, and it was decided to send a dental plate found with the skeleton to a dentist at Indiana Harbor who made a dental plate for Mrs. Espinos for possible further identification. The partial identification was based largely on the woman's bobbed red hair and measurements of the skeleton. The children who came here are Ralph, Frank and Anne Brady and Mrs. Florence Bluck.

Police believe the woman was murdered, and they announced they would ask the Department of State to have the Mexican government institute a search for the husband of Mrs. Espinos. He is Rudolph Espinos, who disappeared at the time his wife did.

Richey's Automobile Robes Stolen.

Lawrence Richey, of 1801 Sixteenth street northwest, secretary to President Hoover, reported to police yesterday the theft of two automobile robes from his automobile parked in front of 1613 M street northwest, on February 28. The robes, a Scotch plaid and a blue and gray wool, were valued at $75, police report.

Man Crushed Between Trucks.

Lonnie Mutersbaugh, 20 years old, of East Falls Church, Va., received fractures of two ribs yesterday morning when the truck which he was cranking in front of 1048 Twenty-ninth street northwest, started and crushed him against another truck.

Fort Leonard Wood Becomes Fort Meade

In accordance with terms of Army housing legislation passed by the last Congress, wherein Fort Leonard Wood, Md., was listed by its former designation, Camp Meade, the War Department was obliged to publish a general order yesterday directing that the name of Fort Leonard Wood be changed to Fort George C. Meade.

When the name of Camp Meade was changed to honor the late Governor General of the Philippines several years ago as a permanent station, the past was given the prefix "fort," denoting its permanency, in contrast with "camp," which indicates the temporality of the station. Under the legislation the Army now has two Fort Meades, one in Maryland and the other in South Dakota.

Los Angeles Engineer Made Interior Official

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wilbur yesterday appointed Ernest Walker Sawyer, Los Angeles engineer, as his executive assistant in the Interior Department.

The new executive assistant is a native of Bracesville, Ill. For the last several years he has been a resident of Los Angeles. During the recent campaign he had charge of radio broadcasting for southern California in the interest of the Hoover candidacy. He constructed a number of the great radio stations of Europe, including the one in the Eiffel Tower, Paris. From 1920 to 1923 he was a consulting engineer of the All American Cables & Postal Telegraph Co.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE CHILDLESS CHILDS RESTAURANTS.

(Copyright, 1929, by the Associated Newspapers.)

The Childs family has been ousted from participation in the operation of Child's restaurants. William L. Childs, the man who, with his brother, founded the open-faced type of lunch room and glorified the American egg, has been dropped like a tray of hot dishes.

* * * *

A new group is in control and no little Childs shall lead them.

* * * *

Bigger and better restaurants will result, it is predicted, but the Childs boys have earned a bright place in knife-fork-and-spoon history as the lads who revolutionized the lunchroom business, made egg-boiling a national industry and developed flapjack turning as a theatrical performance.

* * * *

Before the Childs brothers came along a lunch room was usually a dreary hole-in-the-wall presided over by a few unkempt waiters who thought a front window was serving its full purpose when it housed a mince pie, a sleeping kitten, an old hat and a pair of galoshes.

* * * *

The Childs brothers took colored wall paper, stained tablecloths, dirty sugar bowls, wall calendars, paper flowers, rubber plants, cobwebs, lace curtains, oilcloth, insect life and the air of mystery out of American lunch room life.

* * * *

They got the American public to trust lunch-room eggs.

* * * *

They were first to serve food the Great White Way.

* * * *

The early Childs restaurants were so glaringly white it didn't seem right to enter them without a bath, shave and haircut. They were architecturally part laboratory, part squash court, part Roman pool, and part goldfish bowl.

* * * *

Then the owners dressed their managers like hospital internes, put their waitresses into attire partly suggestive of child brides and partly suggestive of dentists' assistants, developed tray-dropping to a high art and prospered.

* * * *

Speed was the keynote. Buttered toast set new heights in rapid transit, and all previous records held by eggs in flight between kettle and customer were broken.

* * * *

It just went to show what a couple of alert boys could do with a dozen eggs, a gas-burner, some plate glass and an idea.

And now there is no Mr. Childs in the Childs restaurant. Well, it just doesn't seem possible.

AN IDEA.

Bulgar King Goes To Visit Germany

Boris, Silent on Love Affair, Quits Vienna; Specialist Reassures Him.

Vienna, March 12 (A.P.).—King Boris of Bulgaria, after playing hide and seek with reporters here for more than 24 hours, left late tonight for Oppeln, Upper Silesia, Germany, to visit his married sister, Princess Nadejde. He was accompanied by his other sister, Princess Eudoxie, who had journeyed with him from Sofia.

The king today had been examined by a Viennese ear specialist, who assured him that his trouble was not serious.

Because the public for some time has been hopefully awaiting word of his expected engagement to Princess Giovanna, of Italy, Boris and his sister took elaborate precautions during their short stay here to avoid newspaper men and their questions. The Bulgarian minister here today said he had no knowledge on which to confirm or deny the reported engagement.

Stinson Fails Again On Endurance Test

Motor Trouble Causes Landing After Six Hours; Will Continue Effort.

Bay City, Mich., March 12 (A.P.).—Eddie Stinson failed today for the fourth time within two weeks to better the airplane flight record without refueling. He landed on the ice of Saginaw Bay at 5:10 p. m., not quite six hours after taking off this morning.

Motor trouble again caused Stinson and his copilot, George Hopkins, of Detroit, to abandon the flight. Their plane, the Sally Sovereign, will be shipped to the Stinson-Detroiter plant in Northville, Mich., for overhauling.

Stinson said that if the ice runway of Saginaw Bay here still is in condition early next week he will make a fifth attempt to better the present endurance record of 65 hours 31 minutes and if the ice is not suitable for a take-off he will make the attempt from Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich.

Bridge Play By Experts Is Explained

Eighteenth of Season's Radio Games Participated in by Mrs. Foster and Maj. Colfelt With Whitehead and Work.

The eighteenth of this season's radio bridge games went on the air yesterday at 4:30 p. m. from station WRC, with Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, of Atlanta, Ga., as Mr. Whitehead's partner, and Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, Philadelphia, paired with Mr. Work.

Mr. Whitehead, as Dealer, in the South, picked up 100 Aces in his hand; Spades, A. 8, 5, 4, 3; Hearts, A, Q, 8, 3; Diamonds, A, Q, 10; Clubs, A. Mr. Whitehead might be said to have had an option between bidding one Spade and one No Trump; but with four Aces, and with the second best of his five Spades only an 8-spot, the No Trump certainly seemed more promising, both for a big score and for making game. Mr. Whitehead bid the No Trump, not because of the big honor score, as the expert player does not sacrifice a better chance for making game merely for a higher honor count. He was influenced by the fact that his type of hand, combined with the average Dummy, will produce a game in No Trump much more often than it will game in Spades; also the difference in honor score might be as great as 130 or 140, since adversaries might hold 30 or 40 honors in the Spade suit.

Mr. Work, in the West, held: Spades, 9, 7, 6, 2; Hearts, K, J; Diamonds, 5, 4, 2; Clubs, K, J, 8, 6. Mrs. Foster, North, had: Spades, K, 10; Hearts, 9, 6, 5, 4, 2; Diamonds, K, J, 7, 3; Clubs, 10, 9. Major Colfelt, East, held: Spades, Q, J; Hearts, 10, 7; Diamonds, 9, 8, 6; Clubs, Q, 7, 5, 4, 3, 2. All passed the dealer's bid; therefore Mr. Whitehead became Declarer with his contract one No Trump.

Mr. Work, West, led the 6 of Clubs, fourth best of his stronger four-card suit, and from Mrs. Foster's hand, which became Dummy, Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, played the 9 of Clubs. Maj. Colfelt, East, here made a play which indicated the high caliber of his game. He assumed that the 6 of Clubs was his partner's fourth best of the suit, a conventional lead. The 6 was also his partner's lowest Club, since Maj. Colfelt himself held every Club lower than the 6. Consequently, Mr. Work's Club suit, if the 6 were the fourth best, was of exactly four cards. With two Clubs in Dummy, and six in Maj. Colfelt's hand, it was apparent to Maj. Colfelt that Declarer could hold only one. This probably was either the Ace or King, since with a worthless singleton Declarer would have avoided a No Trump bid. If not the Ace or King, then Declarer's singleton was either the Jack or 8 spot, the only other Clubs higher than the 6 for which Maj. Colfelt could not account. Maj. Colfelt knew, by applying the Rule of Eleven to Mr. Work's lead of the 6, that there were outstanding, in the three hands other than the leader's, five cards higher than the 6 led. Of these, only four were in Dummy's and Maj. Colfelt's hands. The fifth, therefore, had to be in Declarer's.

Regardless, however, of what Declarer's singleton might be, whether Ace, King, Jack or 8-spot, Maj. Colfelt realized that he should not play his Queen. Should he do so, Mr. Work's four-card Club suit would block Maj. Colfelt's six-card suit; and the latter, without a reentry in his hand, would be unable to make his two long Clubs. Therefore, Maj. Colfelt played his 5 of Clubs on his partner's 6. Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, played his lone Ace. Mr. Work, West, could readily read it as being a singleton, and therefore was able to read Maj. Colfelt as having held six Clubs originally.

Mr. Whitehead, though unable from the play to read the exact Club situation, realized that the entire suit was set up against him, seriously threatening game. He could, however, count, in addition to his Club trick, four sure tricks in Diamonds, two in Spades and one in Hearts . . . eight altogether, one short of game.

Apparently the game trick could be made only by a successful finesse against the King of Hearts. Therefore, Mr. Whitehead planned first to make practically sure of his contact, and thereafter to take the Heart finesse in a try for game.

Accordingly, Mr. Whitehead led the Ace of Diamonds, to which Mr. Work played 2, Dummy the 3, and Maj. Colfelt the 6. Mr. Whitehead's Queen of Diamonds brought the 4 from Mr. Work, the 7 from Dummy, and the 8-spot from Maj. Colfelt. Declarer then led the 10, overtaking with Dummy's Jack. Mr. Work played the 5 and Maj. Colfelt the 9. Dummy led the thirteenth Diamond, the King. Maj. Colfelt discarded the 7 of Hearts; Mr. Whitehead the 3 of Spades; Mr. Work the 2 of Spades.

At this point Mr. Whitehead could have taken his King and Ace of Spades, thus assuring his contact, one No Trump. The Ace of Hearts would have made it two-odd, and a successful finesse of the Queen of Hearts would have produced game. Failure of the Heart finesse at this point would give the adversaries a Heart trick, plus all their Clubs.

As to the Club situation, Mr. Whitehead could tell, by application of the Rule of Eleven to the 6 of Clubs, originally led, that Maj. Colfelt must hold two Clubs higher than the 6, and since he did not play either of them to the first trick, but instead underplayed his partner's 6, it was evident he was long in Clubs. Otherwise Maj. Colfelt would have played one of his high Clubs to force out the one Club higher than the 6 which he could read as being in Mr. Whitehead's hand.

Having thus read Major Colfelt as long in Clubs, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that there was no possibility of either adversary holding as many as seven Clubs. Consequently, five tricks would be the maximum the adversaries could make. Thus, even if his Heart finesse failed, Mr. Whitehead could still make his contract; and should the finesse succeed, he would have game. Therefore, while still holding control of the Spade suit, Mr. Whitehead proceeded to take the Heart finesse, leading the 2 of Hearts from Dummy. Major Colfelt played the 10; Declarer his Queen; and Mr. Work, West, won with the King.

Mr. Work then led, in succession, the King, Jack, and 8-spot of Clubs. Major Colfelt, East, covered the 8-spot with his Queen and then took his two long Clubs. On these five Club tricks Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, discarded down to the Ace of Spades and the Ace of Hearts, with which cards he won the last two tricks, giving him a score of 10 points for the odd trick and 100 for four Aces in one hand.

The bidding of this hand at Contract would impose some little responsibility upon the South player. With every suit stopped and a count of 30 (4 for each of his Aces and 2 for each of his Queens) he would be well over the 17-with-four-suits-stopped requirement for a bid of two No Trumps, but he would be one short of the requisite 21 for three No Trumps. Even if he held an extra Jack, giving him the 21 count, he properly would hesitate about bidding three No Trumps because of the singleton, even though it is an Ace. Two No Trumps would seem to be his sound declaration. Over South's two No Trumps, North, with a count of 7, of course would jump to three No Trumps. The play being the same as in Auction Bridge, the eDclarer would fail to make his game by a margin of two tricks.

WORK ON BRIDGE

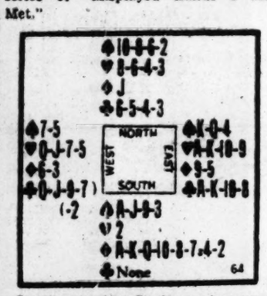
This is the second of this week's series of "Misplayed Hands I Have Met."



South was the Dealer and properly made the preemptive bid of five Diamonds which shut out all other bidding and obtained the contract. East doubled. West opened with a Club which Declarer ruffed and then exhausted the adverse trumps. He led three more trumps with the idea that he might embarrass the adversaries and by forcing either or both of them to make discards that would weaken their hands. What he really hoped for was that they would part with some Spades; but when they did not, he led a small Spade to trick 7 which was won by East who then won a Heart trick. Trick 9 (another Heart) was trumped by South; but as East had kept his King of Spades guarded, he eventually made it and defeated the contract.

How could South have bettered his play?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

After trumping the first trick, Declarer could see that he must lose at least one Heart and one Spade; and that if he should lose two Spades he would be beaten. At first glance it looks as if leading trumps might squeeze the adversaries into a Spade discard; but three discards are not apt to be harmful to them and Declarer must keep two.

East has doubled, so there is a good chance that he has the King and Queen of Spades. North therefore should lead Spades through East, and the only way to do that is to lead a small trump to trick 2, win with Dummy's Jack, and then lead the Ten or Eight of Spades from Dummy to be finessed if East does not play either the King or Queen. If East has the two Spade honors, this lead through will capture one of them, confine the tricks won by East and West to one Heart and one Spade, and give Declarer game with a doubled contract.

Balalaika Wizard on Air Tonight

Cave, Violinist, and Miss Hawkins, Soprano, Will Appear With Him Over WRC—Wootton to Give Political Talk 7:45 P. M.

Alexander Zaroubine, "The Heifetz of the Balalaika" will be one of the artists presented by the National Music League from WRC at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Costarred with him will be Alfred Cave, violinist, who was concertmaster of the Royal Academy Orchestra under Sir Henry Wood, and Alice Marguerite Hawkins, young coloratura soprano.

The balalaika wizard instructed Czarevitch Alexis, son of Nicholas II of Russia, in the playing of the instrument, and was soloist-virtuoso of the former Imperial Balalaika Orchestra.

Zaroubine will play his own arrangements of Russian folk dances and traditional native tunes. Violin solos will include Sarasate's version of the Moszkowski "Guitarre," and Miss Hawkins will sing excerpts from the Mozart opera "Marriage of Figaro."

Arrangements have been completed between the National Broadcasting Company and the National Music League to present in concert a trio of artists each week over WEAF, New York; WRC, Washington; WTAM, Cleveland, and KSD, St. Louis.

The detailed program for the Palmolive Hour has been announced as follows:

"On the Riviera," ensemble; "Wait Till the Cows Come Home," Olive Palmer and Paul Oliver, duet; "Once In a Lifetime," orchestra; "Down on the Old Yazoo," the Revelers; "Carissima," soprano solo, Olive Palmer; "Gate City March," orchestra; "I Love to Hear You Singing," tenor solo, Paul Oliver; "Roam On, Little Gypsy Sweetheart," the Revelers; "Luxembourg Waltz," orchestra; "Missouri Waltz," Olive Palmer and Elizabeth Lennox, duet; "You're Perfect," orchestra; "Little Grey Home in the West," tenor solo, Paul Oliver; medley from "Ups-a-Daisy," the Revelers; "Spanish Serenade," soprano solo, Olive Palmer; "Sometimes I'm Happy," Youmans, and "Rose Marie," ensemble.

Paul Wootton will be the speaker in the political program presented at 7:45 o'clock this evening. Mr. Wootton is a well-known Washington newspaper correspondent.

A group of Spanish songs will again make up the Sunkist Serenaders program at 8 o'clock this evening. Julian Oliver, tenor, will sing Calleja's "Granadinas," and the familiar "Estrellita" of Ponce.

Two Moussorgsky numbers will be included in the "Kremlin Echoes" program at 8:30 o'clock tonight. "The Night on the Mountains" and the drinking song from "Boris Godounoff." The valse from Tschaikowsky's "Eugen Onegin" will be played by the orchestra.

Murray Kellner, first violinist of the Ingram Shavers, will be featured in a collection of Irish reels and jigs in the program at 9 o'clock.

Rubinstein's "Melody in F" will be included in the program of symphonic jazz by the Pacific Vagabonds at 4 o'clock this afternoon from WRC. Playing in the NBC San Francisco studios the orchestra will also present a special arrangement of Kreisler's "Liebesfreud" and Toselli's "Serenade" among their concert selections. The orchestra is directed by Max Dolin.

This program is preceded by an hour of band music by the U. S. Navy Band, directed by Lieut. Charles Benter.

The Columbia University Glee Club will be presented during the Kolster Radio Hour at 10 o'clock tonight by Station WMAL, as the first of a series of programs featuring glee club recitals.

The Columbia University Glee Club is composed of undergraduates, with a few students from the graduate schools and teachers' college. Membership in the club is limited, and men are only selected after a severe voice trial. Their repertoire is a varied one, and their programs are constructed to please lovers of classical music as well as those who prefer popular tunes.

Annette Hanshaw, popular specialty singer, will be heard in two numbers during the Van Heusen program at 9 o'clock, one of which will be "I'll Never Ask For More."

Hank Simmons' Showboat Players will present "The Girl From Texas" at 8 o'clock, through WMAL.

Johnny Marvin will play a return engagement during the La Palina Smoker at 9:30 o'clock, singing and playing a group of popular numbers.

Calvin Young, tenor, is scheduled to appear from WOL at 6:15 o'clock. The Carolinians Dance Orchestra will be heard at 7 o'clock.

Two hours of dance music by the Wardman Park Orchestra have been announced to start at 10 o'clock.

A feature new to WJSV listeners will be on the air at 8:30 o'clock in the person of O. F. Croggans, blues singer. Chick Godfrey, the Singing Leatherneck, will be presented at 9 o'clock, after which the Manassas Trio, the Hawaiian Melody Boys, Fran Trappe and the Harmonious Twins.

The University of Cincinnati will present the first of a series of talks on "Modern Drama," at 7 o'clock this evening, from WLW. Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" is the play which Dr. Frank W. Chandler, professor of English in the College of Liberal Arts, will discuss.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

"Tete-a-tete," a black crepe georgette gown of unusual elegance, which depends entirely upon its intricate cut for its charm. (Sketched in white instead of black to emphasize its lines.) (Courtesy of the Maison Patou, Paris.)

New York, March 12, 1929.

WHAT could be better for sports wear than some shade of yellow? Whether it be under the torrid sun of a Southern resort, or the less warming but equally brilliant rays reflected from snow and ice, yellow partakes of that brilliance and is suited both to its use and its setting.

So it is not surprising that we find various shades of yellow of extreme importance in the sports mode. Yet it is not the sort of yellow that can be so trying to certain complexions. Usually it is a soft corn color; often it is so near a beige as to be hardly distinguishable from that color, yet with more of life and animation than most beiges.

We saw, for example, a smart, slim sports coat at Phillipe et Gaston of golden yellow kasha, cleverly trimmed by sewn pleats meeting in a point at the waistline and likewise at the hem, and given fulness by a box pleat down the lower back.

And contrasting with this Riviera wear we saw at Bernard et Cie a stunning winter sports outfit destined for early spring wear at St. Moritz which had trousers and "pull-over" of yellow gabardine. With this were worn scarf, gloves and hose of knitted yellow material with blue stripes, and a bonnet and jacquette of leather.

Are you the cape-coat type? If you are, it will please you to know that we have made you an illustrated leaflet telling you how to make one, oh, ever so easily, out of 54-inch-wide material—cutting it in such a way that there is no seam over the shoulders, which is the way all well-brought-up little capes are.

It's an ideal model for a child of any age, too, and because of the way we tell you to make it, you will be able to achieve it in any size you wish. A stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

Patou so often achieves a model of such startling simplicity and perfect taste that one is fain to bow before the superiority of the Parisian Haut Couture without delving further into its mysteries.

Such a gown I have illustrated for you today, with its intricate cutting, subtle fulness introduced into the skirt, incrustations—and utterly sophisticated simplicity. Such a gown does royalty select, leaving glitter and fuss to others who can not afford—simplicity.

And then we saw an evening jacquette of double tulle, edged with rhinestones! Like nothing so much as a cobweb gleaming with dew.

Bracelets to be worn with the street or sports costume are truly delightfully smart when they are of several strands of silk cord in a color to match the costume. They have several round slides of semiprecious stones, usually to match the cords and little bands of rhinestones with a ball dangling at the end.

This idea of combining fabrics or fur with precious stones in the form of jewelry is truly novel and results in some very interesting effects.

Fish of the Deep Sea.

MOST ocean fish live within a few hundred yards of the surface, but there are some which dwell far below the surface. The deep sea fish live from one to five miles down. Their home is dark—daylight does not go more than two miles down, if that far.

A deep sea fish with eyes on stalks.

Men of science have managed to cap[ture] some of the deep sea fish. Thes[e] fish are in general very small—seldom being more than a foot long.

When brought to the surface, it is common for a deep sea fish to "ex[plode." That is because of the chang[e] of pressure. Two miles down, the fis[h] is under great pressure from the wate[r]. Nature protects it by giving it insid[e] pressure to equal the outside pressur[e].

When brought up, the heavy pressu[re] is taken away from the outside, so [it] is natural for the poor creature [to] burst. It doesn't go all to pieces li[ke] an exploding bomb, but there is like[ly] to be a "pop" of some kind when it [is] pulled into the air.

Living in the dark, some deep se[a] fish have lost their eyesight. Skin [of] scales have grown over the places whe[re] eyes ought to be. Study shows th[at] there are sockets for the eyes, but th[at] the fish became blind because they d[id] not need eyes.

To take the place of eyes, some blin[d] fish have "feelers," something like t[he] feelers of insects. Most of the blin[d] fish live near the bottom. When the[y] feelers show them that they are bum[p]ing into a large enemy, I'll bet th[ey] turn around in a hurry!

Other deep sea fish have kept the[ir] eyes. Such fish may spend part of the[ir] time less than a mile beneath the su[r]face, making use of a little dim daylight. One kind, which looks something like an eel, has eyes on the end of stalks.

Tomorrow I shall tell you how some deep sea fish make light for themselves

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Man's Love."

MADELINE has asked a life-sized question in today's mail. Madeline is 21 and says that she has just been thinking and it has occurred to her that a girl could very easily be fooled about a man's love. (Impossible, Madeline, impossible!) He might say he loved her and not love her at all. Who ever heard of such a thing. Well, anyway, right there Madeline took pen in hand and asked the sizable question aforementioned. What's the question? Just "How can you know if a man really loves you?" Can you imagine finding that in your morning mail? And at that we are going to attempt an answer. Yes, we are feeling strong and mighty and very sure of ourselves, so here we go.

In the first place, it does not make the least bit of difference whether a man really loves you or not if he really believes that he does. Most marriages are founded upon a man's firm conviction that he is at last in love, and that his worldly goods, life and liberty are well lost in the great cause. And so he finds himself a few years later the stern parent of a couple of sheiks or flappers, and tries to remember what happened and can't, and so goes along, gets bald, makes his will, disappears from the earth, and is too busy then with other matters to care how he happened to become a married man.

But we are here to tell him that it was just because he really believed he loved a woman. And she really believed it too! All the rest followed. About "four out of five" weddings is one where the man not only believes himself in love but is right in believing it. And this is not by any means a happier marriage. They buy a lawnmower just like the others, and eventually buy sleds, and bicycles and raccoon coats and make their wills and hurry on like the others, never knowing they were the one out of five.

But "how can you know whether it is going to mean marriage, is what Madeline wants to know. How can you know whether he even really believes he really loves? Watch his performance, Madeline. Spring a toothache the day of the big ball game! It's worth it to know. So marshal a good throbbing toothache. And see wh

MOST STOCKS SHOW LISTLESS RECOVERY

Late Profit Taking Again Reduces Gains; Call Funds Abundant.

IMPROVEMENT IN OILS

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Prices rallied rather listlessly on the stock market today, in response to several favorable industrial developments and a drop in the call money rate to 6 per cent for the first time since February 20.

After an irregular opening, the market generally headed upward, with a long list of important issues recording extreme gains of 1 to 5 points, but there was a rush to take profits just before the close, which sharply cut down the advances.

hTe supply of call money was more abundant than the market has experienced in about three weeks, but Wall street was inclined to regard the situation as largely temporary, probably resulting from the accumulation of funds at the banks for the income tax payments March 15. Time money held firm at 7¾ per cent.

Higher Rate Still Expected.

The fact that none of the out-of-town reserve banks holding meetings yesterday raised their rediscount rates, was somewhat reassuring to speculative circles, but expectations of a higher rate at New York, either this week or next, remained fairly general. The taking of more than $10,000,000 in gold in Germany failed to bring expectations of a large flow of gold into New York. A rise of ¼ of a cent in rate for sterling cables gave rise to reports that the central banks were cooperating to prevent any such development.

Commission houses advised their customers to extend commitments with extreme caution, and total sales fell off to 3,061,750 shares, the smallest full day's business since last month.

The day's operations were largely professional, and much of the day's advance appeared to be the result of the driving to cover of overextended shorts.

Conspicuous in the day's news was a further mounting of copper prices, the domestic price rising ½ cent to 20 cents a pound, after publication of the February report of the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, showing a sharp drop in stocks of the red metal on hand.

Favorable Dividend Actions.

There were several favorable dividend actions, including a jump from $3 to $4 in the annual rate of Western Electric, a rise from $1.30 to $2.60 in Loose-Wiles annual payments, and resumption of dividends by Rio Grande Oil.

A few of the volatile issues made sharp gains, Rossia Insurance jumping nearly 22 points, and Radio (old) stock, mounting 13⅛ points to 464½, only to fall back to 457. American Express climbed nearly 13 points. Coppers as a group moved ahead on the higher red metal price, Greene Cananea, Anaconda and Kennecott making extreme gains of about 3 points. Miami sold at 50¾, a new high.

Allied Chemical, American Railway Express, A. M. Byers, Commercial Solvents, Electric Auto Lite, Foundation, Montgomery Ward, National Cash Register, and Underwood Elliot Fisher recorded extreme gains of about 3 to 7 points, but some of these were canceled.

Steel Loses Most of Its Gain.

U. S. Steel sold up 2 points, but lost most of its gain. American Telephone improved on the higher Western Electric dividend. Some of the oils improved, Atlantic Refining mounting about 2 points, reflecting reports of a plan to retire its preferred stock, and standard of California responding to a favorable earnings report for 1928.

Rails and Utilities were inclined to heaviness. Among soft spots were Allys Chalmers, Brooklyn Union Gas, Coty, Crosley Radio, Ingersoll Rand, International Paper, Otis Elevator, Victor Talking Machine, Nickel Plate, Southern Railway, and Wright Aero, all of which sold off about 2 to 5 points.

In the commodity markets, wheat moved up more than 2 cents a bushel on reports of damage to the winter crop, and cotton closed steady after a sinking spell.

The foreign exchanges were largely firm in response to unusually active demand for sterling, the cable rate mounting to $4.85⅝. The Canadian dollar, however, fell to a discount of nearly ⅜ of a cent.

Advertising Men Lauded by Briton

Willmott Lewis Tells Club That Experts Here Have Greater Genius.

American advertising is having a marked influence in England, the Washington Advertising Club was told yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the National Press Club by Willmott Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times.

Mr. Lewis pointed out that as a member of the editorial side of newspaper work, he was not an authority on advertising, but added that his slight contact with the latter side of journalism in America had proved to him that advertising men of this country have a superior genius and talent in both the writing of copy and arrangement of art.

Mr. Lewis was introduced by Paul Wooton, chairman of the board of directors of the Press Club. Ernest S. Johnston, president of the advertising club, presided at the meeting. Entertainment was offered by Earl Carbaugh, barytone, and Sam Holland, accompanist.

Fruit Embargo Called Better Than High Tariff

Ottawa, Ontario, March 12 (A.P.).—Resuming debate on the budget in the house of commons today, John L. Brown, Liberal-Progressive from Lisgar, Manitoba, said he would prefer an embargo against United States fruit rather than a tariff which would make its price prohibitive to the poor man and still allow the wealthy to enjoy it.

Alluding to the possibility of higher United States tariff against Canadian products, Mr. Brown said it would be "too bad if Canada engaged in a tariff war by which we would hurt ourselves and do no one any good."

BONDS, UNCHECKED, CONTINUE DECLINES

Industrials Alone Display Some Improvement in Light Trading.

RAILS SCORE NEW LOWS

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Bond prices today continued their decline unchecked, with the United States Government issues in the vanguard of the movement. All of the Government issues finished the day lower and two of the Liberties and five of the Treasury certificates again established record new lows for the year.

Trading was on a small scale, sales amounting to $8,392,000. Industrials were the only group to show improvement, and the Associated Press' combined averages again fell to the lowest level since 1926.

Although the Treasury certificates were at an attractive price for foreign government debtors of the United States, bankers pointed out that these countries were "short" of funds through efforts to bolster their own money markets. The Treasury 3¾s of 1947 were down nearly ½ a point and have lost approximately 2 points since the 4¾ per cent interest rate was announced last Thursday for the new Treasury financing.

Rails were under pressure all day, and nearly a score sank into new low territory. Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s for the first time in two years fell below par. The convertible 4½s reached a new low for the year. The Van Sweringen's Chesapeake Corporation 5s and Chesapeake & Ohio issues were heavy. The C. & O. general 4½s declined nearly 3 points. Atchison convertible 4½s touched 112½, their lowest price since admission to trading.

Anaconda Copper 7s sold off nearly a point in face of 20-cent red metal prices. Alleghany Corporation 5s and American International 5½s also were heavy. Prospects of better times in the coal industry brought buying into Hudson Coal 5s. Porto Rican-American Tobacco 6s improved, but Lorillard 7s lost 2 points. Other Lorillard issues were strong.

Trading in the utilities was dull. International Telephone 4½s were firm, but Federal Light & Traction first 6s were heavy.

Texas & Pacific Railway is to sell $30,000,000 of a $34,000,000 issue of 5 per cent general and refunding mortgage bonds, series C, at 96¾ per cent of their principal amount and accrued interest, subject to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Triplex Makes 190-Mile Rate In Trial

Car, With Novice at Wheel, Tries Today for New Record.

A.A.A. to Test Driver; Segrave Ready for New Attempt.

By T. R. GILL
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Intermittent rain squalls and extremely poor visibility late today caused a postponement until tomorrow of the automobile speed trials of Lee Bible, Daytona Beach mechanic, after he had made two fast test runs in the 36-cylinder Triplex, owned by J. M. White, of Philadelphia.

Bible, who has not yet been approved by the A. A. A. as a driver of the giant trimotored creation, clipped off 170 miles an hour on his first run and on his second trial boosted his speed up to 190. His speed for 1 kilometer on his last run, however, was clocked at 199 miles an hour, showing the car still was gaining momentum when it crossed the measured mile.

The 42-year-old mechanic, who never has driven a race car except at small dirt tracks in Florida, has been selected by White to drive the Triplex, but officials of the A. A. A. said they would not permit him to shoot at the world's record until he had made several preliminary test trials to demonstrate to them that he was a competent driver of such a high-speed car.

Segrave Hopes to Hit 240-Mile Pace With Ideal Conditions.

Val Haresnape, secretary of the contest board of the automobile association, said he would allow Bible to make several runs at fast speed, and if the driver handled the car satisfactorily he would approve the mechanic's application for membership in the association, which was filed only yesterday.

The Triplex, which weighs about 4 tons, held the record of 207.55 miles an hour up until yesterday, when Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, of England, boosted the mark up to the astounding speed of 231 in his trim, streamlined Golden Arrow machine.

Maj. Segrave said today he felt confident his powerful car was capable of a speed of at least 240 miles an hour, and that if ideal beach and weather conditions prevail tomorrow he will make another trial then, with the hope of surpassing his own mark.

Unless conditions are absolutely ideal tomorrow, however, the veteran English driver said he would have to give up the plan definitely, as he

Jewish Center Fives Score In Thrilling Tourney Games

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

UNLIMITED CLASS—Jewish Community Center, 45; Company C, 40.

145-POUND CLASS—St. Peter's, 55; Woodside, 13.

130-POUND CLASS—Jewish Community Center, 20; St. Martin's 15.

115-POUND CLASS—Boys Club Optimists, 42; Noel House, 20.

100-POUND CLASS—Frenchy Arcadians, 25; Boys Club Flashes, 22.

UNLIMITED CLASS GIRLS—Eagles, 44; Capitol, 10.

THREE heart-throbbing contests with the winners in doubt until the closing minutes of play and a like number of one-sided games, marked last night's play in the South Atlantic championship basket ball tournament which The Washington Post is staging at the George Washington Gymnasium.

Jewish Community Center teams figured in tow of the close battles and in each case were victorious, the unlimited team managing to hold its lead to defeat the Company C, National Guard Five and the 130-pound team winning its thirtieth straight game, coming from behind to defeat St. Martin's.

The other thriller saw the Frenchy-Arcadians survive in the 100-pound class only after one of the most exciting battles of the tournament. The little Boys Club Flashes went down to defeat by a 3-point margin after fighting to the last whistle.

The Boys Club representatives broke even for the night, however. Its Optimist Five displayed good team work in more than doubling the score on the Noel House five in the 115-pound class.

St. Peter's which has been represented in each of the three Post tournaments, became a leading contender for 145-pound honors by swamping the Woodside team. The first girls' game of the tournament resulted in an easy victory for the Eagles over a much smaller Capitol A. C. sextet.

Center Staves Off Rally to Beat Guards in Thriller.

A game that started as a romp for the Jewish Community Center unlimited five developed into a nip-and-tuck battle and it was only after some of the hardest-fought basket ball of the tournament that the Center quintet managed to defeat the Company C team, 45 to 40.

The J. C. C. five ran up a 14-5 advantage in the first quarter and was ahead 20-7 at one stage in the second period. At the half, the Center was leading 23-13. The Guards, who had been some ten points behind for most of the second half, rallied as the game was closing and came within a point of tying the score, which stood 41-40. At this point, DeBoskey and Goldblatt came through with baskets which clinched the game.

The loss of Leon Schloss and Lichliter on personal fouls lessened the Guards' chances of victory. Bruce Kessler, who has starred in local court circles for ten years, never played a more brilliant game. He was the key of the Guards' offensive, leading his team in scoring and playing a fine defensive game. Warren Hayes was also in top form.

It was the teamwork of the Center team which stood out. This club displayed some of the best passing of the tourney and is a credit to Coach Manny Goldfarb. Abramson, Goldblatt and Kramer did the bulk of the scoring, but every player had a hand in the passing which led to the goals.

Harris' Shooting For Arcadians Beats Club 100-Pounders.

The second day's program got off to a flying start when the Frenchy Arcadions defeated the Boys Club Flashes, one of the outstanding teams of the Boys Club of Washington, 25 to 22, in a 100-pound battle.

The Frenchy-Arcadians and Flashes were well matched. The former team won by virtue of a last-quarter attack which broke up a nip and tuck affair.

Nervousness was in the make-up in both teams as they took the floor for play, but this gradually wore off as the action became more and more heated. The Flashes led throughout the first quarter and held a 11 to 7 advantage at the half, but met with real opposition after the intermission, when the Frenchy-Arcadians unleashed their victorious attack.

The play of William "Bits" Harris was one of the real features of the fray. Harris, cool and collected at all times, took it upon himself in the last quarter to insert the decisive field goals for final victory while Baker and Byrd, the latter a son of H. C. "Curley" Byrd, of Maryland University, were responsible in a large part for their team's spurt after the intermission. The Frenchy-Arcadians came from behind at the half to lead, 16 to 14, at the end of the third quarter.

St. Peter's Routs Woodside in 145-Pound Class Battle.

After putting up a fairly interesting fight in the first half the Woodside 145-pound five collapsed in the last periods and lost to the St. Peter's Tossers, 55 to 13, in the first 145-pound game of the evening.

The Woodsides played with Victor Kreh, 37-year-old veteran, but despite his clever play could not keep the fast pace set by the St. Peters. Dick Nowlin, paired with Kreh in the forward positions for Woodside, became ill in

Ruth Hitless As Yankees Win, 1-0

Lazzeri Batting Hero in Triumph Over Tampa Club.

News and Notes of Big League Training Camps in Dixie.

TAMPA, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees opened their exhibition season today by beating out the Tampa Club, of the Southeastern League, 1 to 0. Tony Lazzeri did most of the hitting for the world's champions against the Class "B" pitching. He made three of the champions' eight hits. Babe Ruth failed in four attempts.

In the seventh inning Lazzeri singled after Elias Funk had doubled and pushed over the only run.

Macks Defeat Reds, 3-0, With Grove and Quinn on Mound.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics bunched hits in two innings to score three runs off Cincinnati before rain halted the game at the end of the sixth inning here today. The Reds, although registering 6 hits to 5 for the A's, were unable to score.

Grove and Quinn, working on the Philadelphia mound, were able to tighten up whenever the Reds threatened. Meeker, Pyle and Johnson took turns on the Cincinnati mound.

Harris Sees Tigers as Serious Contenders for Pennant.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 12 (United Press).—Refreshed by a full day's rest, Bucky Harris' Detroit Tigers went through another day of hard training today.

The Bengals were given lightning drills in preparation for a third intra-squad exhibition game Wednesday afternoon between the regulars and recruits. Harris is getting a splendid opportunity to look over his assortment of talent during these exhibitions and is firmly convinced that the Tigers will make a serious bid for the pennant this year.

Bush Denies Wright's Arm Was Lame With Pirates.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 12 (A.P.). Officials of the Pittsburgh Pirates today said they had no knowledge that Glenn Wright's arm was injured when the former Pirate shortstop was traded to Brooklyn for Jess Petty, pitcher, and Harry Riconda, infielder. Information has been received here to the effect that the Pittsburgh officials knew of Wright's injury last winter and that this knowledge might have influenced them in making the deal.

Manager Donie Bush said: "The last time I saw Wright was when we closed the season in Brooklyn. His arm was all right then." Bush's statement is confirmed by a number of players here, who said Wright has been accustomed to cut loose the second day in training camp, with throws at midseason speed. The players think that his arm has reached an age when it will no longer endure such treatment and has gone lame in camp.

Cullop's Hitting Is Feature Of Robins' Practice Game.

Clearwater, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—Reports from Miami that Glenn Wright has undergone final treatments for his injured shoulder greatly encouraged the Brooklyn Dodgers here today. Manager Wilbert Robinson has advised Wright to remain in Miami, however, until he is sure his arm is recovered.

Nick Cullop, recruit outfielder, featured the practice game by his hard hitting which accounted for three Yannigan runs. Dazzy Vance attended the workout in the role of spectator, clinging unrelentingly to his determination to earn $25,000 this season.

Phillies Score 11-to-3 Victory Over Winter Haven Club.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 12 (U.P.). The Philadelphia Nationals romped to an 11 to 3 victory over the Winter Haven Nine in an exhibition game here today, bunching hits for four runs in both the third and fifth innings.

Manager Burt Shotten worked Desham, Ferguson and Fine on the Philadelphia mount. Winter Haven elected R-an to hurl and let him go the distance.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., March 12 United Press.—With only two days of spring practice on Catalina Island remaining, the Chicago Cubs' first serious casualty was marked up today.

Woody English, star infielder, will be out for several days as the result of an infection which set in after he had doctored a corn. He was unable to step on his left foot today and will be

Hunter Enters Tourney For Test With Borotra

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Frank Hunter filed an unexpected entry today for the national indoor tennis championship here beginning Saturday in which he becomes a joint favorite with Jean Borotra, of France.

The New Rochelle, N. Y., veteran, who is ranked second to Bill Tilden in the country, previously indicated definately that he would not compete, but has yielded to a desire to try conclusions again with the bounding Basque whom he eliminated in the national outdoor championship last fall. Hunter has been playing in the South and is rounding into good condition. Borotra, who cabled his entry from France, is reported now on his way here.

Dempsey Ponders Bids Of Garden and Fugazy

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—William Harrison Dempsey, boxing promoter, discussed his future today with both the executive committee of the Madison Square Garden Corporation and Humbert J. Fugazy, metropolitan rival of the organization Tex Rickard built. After the day of debate the former heavyweight champion was very little closer to definite plans for the future.

Dempsey said the Garden proposition, which would include the former fighter in the organization as a vice president in charge of boxing, at a yearly salary, could be viewed only as a basis for future negotiations.

The offer of Fugazy, made on a cash basis, was unsatisfactory, he said, but will be revised and submitted to him at a later date.

"I have three propositions in mind," Dempsey said, "one of my own, one from the Garden and the third from Fugazy. There are many details to be ironed out before I can really sit down and consider seriously any of them."

TOM HEENEY BEATEN BY VON PORAT

Norwegian Wins Bout by Vicious Assault in Late Rounds.

CHICAGO, March 12 (A.P.).—Otto von Porta, scholarly-appearing Norwegian walloper, knocked a few more chips off Tom Heeney, the hard rock from down under when he decisively defeated him in a savagely fought 10-round battle in the Coliseum tonight.

Heeney, at the finish, presented a bloody spectacle, hanging on desperately, or backing away from the Norwegian's vicious assault. The New Zealander suffered an ugly gash in his lower lip in the tenth round. In a twinkling his face was crimson with blood.

Von Porat, displaying unusual boxing skill for his awkward appearing style, was credited with winning seven of the ten rounds, with the opening two going to Heeney and the seventh being called even.

Von Porat actually outboxed the rugged New Zealander, but he could not upset him. In tribute to Heeney's courage, he came charging in to meet Von Porat's heavy assault and refused to back up until the sixth round, when he began to tire and slow up.

Norwegian Outboxes, Outslugs Heeney in 7 of 10 Rounds.

The battle was fought before a crowd of close to 10,000, with the receipts amounting to approximately $50,000.

Von Porat spotted the barrel-chested New Zealander 11½ pounds. He weighed 194 when he jumped on the scales at 3 o'clock this afternoon with Heeney scaling 205½. The verdict of Referee Ed Purdy and the two judges was unanimous.

Von Porat, to the amazement of his closest supporters, outboxed the New Zealander in seven of the ten rounds, and pounded his head and body with the heavier assault. After losing the opening two rounds, Von Porat, confident of his own punching ability, began to take the play away from Heeney in boxing skill as they stepped out for the third. He poked a long tantalizing left into Heeney's face as he came charging in, and threw occasional right upper cuts. Heeney, in face of this fire, continued to wade right in.

Schwartz Wins Decision In Bout With Belanger

Toronto, March 12 (A.P.). — Izzy Schwartz, recognized in New York State as flyweight champion of the world, won the decision over Albert (Frenchy) Belanger, of Toronto, in a 12-round match at the Coliseum here tonight.

Farrell and Sarazen Rally To Survive in 4-Ball Battle

MIAMI, Fla., March 12 (United Press). — Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen staged a remarkable comeback this afternoon to defeat Al Espinosa, of Chicago, and Ed Dudley, of California, 4 and 3, in the international four ball golf championship. They had started the 36 holes apparently headed for certain defeat.

The champions finished the first eighteen holes this morning in the sixth annual playing of the event at the Miami Country Club on even terms with their opponents, after being four down at the turn. The comeback was made possible mainly by the matchless play of the former open champion, Sarazen.

Willie McFarlane and Harry Hampton, who will play the defending champions tomorrow, eliminated Clarence Hackney and Craig Wood, 7 and 6, the latter team being unable to hit its stride after finishing the morning round six down.

Of greater interest was the matches between Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel against Johnny Golden and Billie Burke, which was won by the former team. Henry Ciuci and Joe Turnesa defeated George Christ and Charlie Mayo. The score in both matches was one up. The small gallery was frankly partial to the two losing aggregations, although the results were more or less true to form.

Going into the seventeenth hole, two up on their opponents, Hagen and Diegel both dropped short of the green on long drives. Burke overdrove the short hole but Golden was on the green and in one putt was within two feet of the pin.

Ciuci and Turnesa will meet Hagen and Diegel in the semifinals tomorrow.

Nats, Lacking in Pitchers, Handicapped, Says Johnson

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12.—The failure of "Sad Sam" Jones to report when ordered and the illness of Paul McCullough is raising havoc with Manager Johnson's training camp plans and the Nats' leader is hard put to find enough pitchers to work in the exhibition games and daily batting drills.

"I'll guarantee one thing," said Johnson, "and that is that we'll have more pitchers on hand here next spring. Here we have four games in a row beginning Thursday and, with three pitchers slated to work in each, I'm having my troubles trying to figure ahead and, at the same time, have a few available to face batters in morning drills and before games."

Tonight, Johnson was able to name only Irving Hadley as one of the trio of twirlers who will perform against the St. Louis Cardinals at Avon Park Thursday in the first of the two games scheduled there. Friday's starters are a puzzle to Johnson and he states that his mind is a perfect blank as far as trying to make any guesses at this time.

Jones Allowed to Don Uniform Despite Contract Row.

Fred Marberry toed the slab in the practice held at Plant Field this morning in which the stay-at-homes participated and he showed enough to warrant that he will be ready to work Sunday, in which game Garland Braxton also will make his 1929 competitive debut.

Although it was first ordered that "Sad Sam" Jones remain inactive until he comes to salary terms with the Nats, Manager Johnson allowed the sorrowful one to don a uniform today and start getting himself in shape. "I'm sure that Sam and President Griffith will get together before long," the Nats' boss explained, "and Sam might just as well be in shape, especially as we can use all of the pitchers we can get."

Goslin's Arm Is Improved Greatly, Workout Reveals.

Great improvement was noted in Goose Goslin's arm in this morning's practice session. Trainer Mike Martin has impressed upon him the necessity of taking things easily, and he did no long pegging, but he showed quite a zip on the ball and easy motion while catching with Muddy Ruel and Joe Judge.

Second Baseman Jack Hayes reported a stiff back this morning and was given a strenuous treatment by Trainer Martin, who managed to get him in shape for the afternoon game.

Altrock and Schacht, whose failure to do any comedy stunts at last Sunday's game at Tampa caused considerable adverse comment, gave the St. Petersburg fans many a laugh at this afternoon's game. The "funny men" were kept so busy Sunday that they had no time for anything but business, as Schacht coached at third and Altrock umpired on the bases. The two promise to do better next Sunday, when the Boston Braves will be met on Plant Field.

Barnes Hitting and Fielding In Sensational Fashion.

Outfielder Red Barnes is beginning to show signs of the hitting power which made him one of the sensations of the American League during the first half of last season. In addition he is covering lots of ground afield. Quite a future is predicted for this lad by several of the so-called experts.

Manager Johnson is highly elated at the manner in which Muddy Ruel is coming along in training. The original plans called for the little catcher to take things easily and to do little or no pegging, but things are not working out this way, as Ruel is one of the peppiest athletes on the field and he is using his arm a great deal and showing signs of having power in it.

Besides taking part in the pepper drills, occasionally going behind the bat and warming up pitchers, Muddy is doing considerable coaching. His experience has taught him to quickly see faults in the fingers, and after each warms up he and Ruel may be seen in conference with the little catcher making helpful suggestions.

West, Gooch Are Batting Heroes

Latter's Triple Gives Mates 2-Run Lead in First Inning.

Liska Allows 2 Runs in Fourth; Brown, Burke Invincible.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12.—The Nationals won their second consecutive exhibition game this afternoon, when they defeated the Boston Braves, 5 to 2.

The National Leaguers shared in the glory until the start of the game, John A. Heydler being present and throwing out the first ball. Once the contest started, however, the Washington Club always was in the limelight except for a short spell in the fourth inning, when the Braves temporarily knotted the court at 2-all.

Bob Burke, Ad Liska and Lloyd Brown divided the Nat's pitching duties, with Bob Smith and Ben Cantwell doing the mound work for the Judge Fuchs' team. The Nationals managed to reach both of the Braves' boxmen for runs. Liska was the only Washington pitcher who was scored on. The Nats' young trio limited the Braves to six hits.

West and Gooch were the hitting heroes for the Nats, while Bluege and Simons did the best defensive work. Maguire and Sisler were the fielding stars for the Braves, with Bell and Farrell doing their heavy stick work.

Earl Clark, former Washington sandlotter, played center field for the Beaneaters and, although credited with no hits, he was robbed of two by nobby fielding. One of his several catches was made after a long run and brought the crowd of 2,500 persons to their feet.

Simons and Gooch Get Hits As Outfielders Misjudge Flies.

A high wind, which played havoc with fly balls, helped the Nationals to start off with a 2-run lead in the first inning, but the laxity of the Braves' outfielders gave the Nats two of the three hits credited them in this round. West led off with a real bingle, a drive to right, and then Moore misjudged Simons' Texas leaguer and let it fall safely. It appeared as though Smith would stop the rally when he forced Barnes to foul to Leggett and Bluege to roll to Farrell, but Gooch then came through with a drive which Richbourg played poorly, and it went as a triple, scoring West and Simons.

Smith held the Nats scoreless in the next three frames and Burke had granted but one hit during his 3-inning shift. Liska toed the slab in the fourth fortified with a two-run lead. He was off badly, walking the first two to face him, but it seemed as though he would pull out of the hole when the Hayes to Bluege to Gooch combination contributed a snappy double-play. Farrell, however, drove in one run with a double and scored himself when Yoter took Clark's roller and tossed it badly to Gooch, this tied the score at 2-all.

Evers' Poor Coaching at Third Costs Braves a Run.

This deadlock was broken in the next frame, just before Smith gave way on the hill to Cantwell, the Nats moulding a marker from a scratch single by Liska and a double down the left-field line by Barnes, this latter blow coming after two were out. Liska retired the Braves in order in their half, but poor coaching by Johnny Evers, at third, cost the home team a run in the fifth round, after the Nationals had gone down in one, two, three order.

With one out, Sisler coaxed a pass and advanced on a passed ball by Tate. Bell then lined to center, but Evers held Sisler at third and he died there, when both Farrell and Clark grounded to Liska. As West's return peg was bad, Sisler could have scored with ease had he been allowed to try.

Error, Walk, Sacrific and Hit Give Nats 2 in Seventh.

In the "lucky" frame, the Nationals became 3 up, scoring two runs with the need of but one hit. Tate walked as a starter and Brown, who hit for Liska and relieved him on the hill in the home half of the session, laid down a neat sacrifice toward third. Bell bounded the ball off Sisler's mitt far enough to let Tate register and Brown take second. The latter then counted on West's single to right. In the home half, Taylor walked and Yoter was charged with a second error, but these did the Braves no good in a scoring way.

MUTUELS IN 1930 FORECAST AS MIAMI RACING ENDS

48-Day Meet To Conclude Today

Talk of Second Track If Sport Is Legalized Next Month.

Season Was Success; Curtis Sees Card of Few Thrills.

HIALEAH RACE TRACK, Miami, March 12 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The 48-day meeting of the Miami Jockey Club will come to a close at the Hialeah track tomorrow afternoon. The meeting, which revived racing after a lapse of one season, was successful beyond expectations, both from patronage of the public and the attitude of the officials.

In fact, the revival of racing has been so successful that there is talk of building another track here. This will depend on the passage of a bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting as it exists in Maryland, Kentucky and Illinois. This bill will be introduced in the legislature at Tallahassee next month, and, judging from the sentiment expressed by the legislators on their visit here a fortnight ago, the reception of the measure will be favorable.

There will be no feature on the get-away-day card. The fields will be small, and the performers selling platers of the cheaper class. With better weather than yesterday and today, a big crowd is expected.

Vice President Curtis Sees Knave of Clubs Triumph.

Showers and a muddy track and small fields furnished little in the way of thrills this afternoon. Vice President Charles Curtis, who arrived here last evening for a short visit as the guest of A. D. Lasker, former chairman of the United States Shipping Board, was a visitor at the track.

A sizable betting coup was made over the first race, for platers, at 5½ furlongs, in which Knave of Clubs, heavily backed from 7 to 2 to 11 to 5, won easily from Red Cross Princess, the receding favorite, with Lady Loose third.

KNAVE OF CLUBS, never far from the leader from the start, responded gamely under punishment the final furlong and drew clear in the closing strides. RED CROSS PRINCESS raced well up on the outside under steadying restraint and outlasted LADY LOOSE in the final drive. Latter, under pressure all the way, showed good speed, but was bothered by the winner bumping her in the stretch, but for which she would have been second. CIRCUMFERENCE had no excuses.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:59. Off at 3:01. Winner, W. B. Mitchell's br. c. (3), by Sand Mole—Lexicon. WEBSTER, taken back off the early pace, gradually improved his position around the leaders the final three furlongs and won going away. SUN BRIDE, used up forcing the pace, shook off BOUNDING DEEP entering the stretch, but was unable to withstand the winner's challenge. BOUNDING DEEP was prominent all the way. RUBBER NECK closed stoutly. SWEET LACRUZ retired after three furlongs and did not appear to fancy the going.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Tester. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:24. Off at 3:26. Winner, C. E. IRAQ raced McINTOSH and SEA HAWK into submission first six furlongs and responded courageously under punishment and had enough in reserve to withstand BILLY DORAN'S challenge. Latter, allowed to trail his field for a half mile, gained steadily on leader's and would have won in another stride. SEA HAWK, a forward contender, was rushed after the leader rounding far turn and then weakened when the final issue came. McINTOSH raced on the inside in the deepest going for the entire distance. LUCENT kicked and speed. TESTER refused to break.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 3:58. Winner, G. F. Jenkins' ch. g. CLARIFIER, in close quarters on the inside the first half mile, was taken to the outside when straightened out in the stretch and, closing with a game bid, wore CHEROKEE MAID down in final drive to win going away. He raced as if much the best. MAID forced the early pace and disposed of SON AMI entering stretch, but then faltered the final fifty yards. SON AMI broke fast. He was taken to the inside in the deepest going and quickened the last furlong. MARGATE, under pressure the entire trip, could not improve her position. The others could never get up.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:22. Winner, P. G. Anderson's b. g. (4), by Seth—Maud Bacon. SENATOR SETH, under vigorous handling, raced forwardly the early running. He came around the leads through the stretch and, gaining steadily, took command and won driving. DIXIE B., hard urged throughout, finished gamely, but could not overhaul the winner. NELLIE WOOD, used up racing AMERICAN THUNDER into defeat, stopped suddenly the final sixteenth. CROW'S NEST, quickest to begin, dropped completely out of contention under weak handling. He was taken the inside the final quarter mile and was unable to improve his position. AMERICAN THUNDER quit.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Supersede. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:43. Off at 4:43. CORRAL BOSS held his opposition safe for speed, but was taken back off the pace until the final furlong, where he took command and, continuing gamely, held ROSINA safe in the final drive. Later, under restraint until midway around lower turn, moved up strongly on the outside, but Mergler outrode Knight when it came to a finish. SUPERSEDE broke very slowly from hand. He was rushed around the first turn and into the lead and faltered the final furlong when challenged.

Bottomley, Bach Lame, Quits Cardinals' Drill Early.

Avon Park, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—High winds and rain forced the St. Louis Cardinals to limit their work today to one long drill in the morning. All the regular hurlers worked on the mound during the three hour session, and Manager Southworth gave the recruit infielders some pointers on covering bases. Jim Bottomley quit early today because of a wrenched back he said he received yesterday. Jimmy Wilson, who suffered a split finger last week, was again in uniform.

GRAYS OPPOSE EAGLES.

With the District Independent Unlimited Basket Ball Championship at stake, the United Typewriter Grays and the Skinker Eagles will clash in Congress Heights Auditorium Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Managers Harry Fones of the Grays and Bernie Peacock of the Eagles completed final arrangements for the third engagement between the two teams last night.

These rivals have divided the spoils in two previous battles. Early in the season Fones' five gained a comparatively easy victory over the defending champs, 35 to 21, only to lose a heartbreaking battle last week, 26 to 25.

Last year the Eagles had to take the final fray of a three-game series to bag the championship over Knights of Columbus Basketers.

Company E Is Favorite Over Trinity M. E. Quintet.

The other unlimited game will mark the debut of the Trinity M. E. and The Celtics have been consistent winners since the start of the season and will meet a formidable foe in the Naval Air Station Five. The Sailors have been operating with success in independent ranks, but a victory over the Alexandrians would be an upset. Company E, National Guards, fives. The latter club, which has in its line-up Verdon Sawyer, Lee Glasscock and other well-known stars, will enter the contest a favorite over the Churchmen.

The Jewish Community Center 115-pound five will meet the crack Arcadina-Frenchys in the opening contest at 5 o'clock.

The 145-pound class game between the Calvary Reds and the Petworth Mets offer one of the outstanding games on the program. The Reds have competed in all of The Post tournaments. They were unable to present their full strength last year, but have all their players in top shape now. Their record is hardly as impressive as that of the Petworth Mets, however. The Petworth Church Five has been named among the favorites to win in this class.

the second half, but continued to play because his departure from the game would have left his team with but four men.

St. Peters, after gaining a 14-to-7 advantage, after a hard fight in the first half, ran away with the game in the last two quarters, Hickey and Schlegel, both former St. John's players, leading a sustained attack. Schlegel, especially, had his eyes on the rims, scoring eight field goals and one foul toss for 17 points. Hickey counted four times from the floor and twice from the foul line for 10 points.

Boy Club Optimists Rout Noel House 115-Pounders.

The second game on the program resulted in the Boys Club Optimists winning the "community house" feud with the Noel House Tossers, by a 42 to 20 score. The clash was one in the 115-pound class.

The game became a rout after the intermission when Cole and Colbert, led the Optimists to their easy victory. Before this time, though, the Noel House players put up a stubborn game and matched the Optimists almost basket for basket to trail only 9 to 5 at the half.

Cole and Colbert got in their decisive work, however, and the Optimists entered the second round of the tourney. Cole's work was especially notable as he clicked nine baskets through the rims and one foul toss for 19 points. Colbert registered four times for 8 points. Wheeler was the best performer for Noel House. The scrappy little forward led his team both in the field and "at bat," with five field goals for 10 points.

Eagles Win Decisively From Capitols in Girls' Debut.

The girls' branch of the tourney was revived after a lapse of one year with the Eagles and Capitol teams opening the competition.

The Eagles handled the less experienced Capitol A. C. Sextet a 44-to-10 defeat. Despite the one-sided score the little Capitol Team played an agressive game and won the plaudits of the spectators because of its determined spirit.

Miss Ewers was unusually accurate under the basket, caging 16 field goals for the victors while the team work of the Eagle Team was on a par with the best that has been shown locally this season.

Little Miss Fields, who alternated between side center and right guard for the Capitol girls, played a flashy game throughout. Her guarding was particularly good. By their impressive victory, the Eagles established themselves as serious contenders for the title.

District League Lead To Be at Stake Tonight

"Figures don't lie," it is said, but that time worn axiom seems to have its exceptions.

Convention Hall and King Pin teams meet tonight at King Pin No. 1 in what promises to be the crucial match of the District League season with the latter leading the title parade by a single game.

Hap Burtner's Hall crew has an average of 574-8 against 564-52 for the national champions and also has 616 pins more to its credit for the season than the rival five.

If figures were considered alone, Convention Hall would have the District League title clinched. Individual averages of members of the two teams follow:

Convention Hall—Jack Wolstenholme, 114-64; Hap Burtner, 109-38; Red Megaw, 112-14; Al Work, 118-39, and Jack Whalen, 119-3.

King Pin—Clem Weidman, 114-9; Bernie Frye, 111-3; George Lang, 113-33; Arthur Logan, 112-32, and Howard Campbell, 113-8.

Hudsons and Plant Win Mat Bouts at Gayety

Ray and Keyser Hudson and "Egg" Plant were victors in wrestling bouts at the Gayety Theater last night. Plant defeated Freddie Cole in straight falls, in 7 and 2½ minutes, respectively.

After Eddie Hawkins had won the first fall in 4½ minutes, Ray Hudson came back to take the next two in 5 and 7 minutes respectively. Keyser Hudson defeated Bear Phillips in straight falls. The first came after 17 minutes of grappling and the second in 12 minutes.

PIN ENTRIES CLOSE FRIDAY.

Enries for the Italian-American duckpin sweepstakes, which starts Saturday night at Convention Hall, must be in the hands of those in charge before Friday at midnight, Gino Simi, promoter of the event, announced last night. Two classes have been provided, one above 100 average and the other below the century mark.

Arrangements have been made whereby any entrants wishing to do so may roll their opening block Friday night at Convention Hall. The second block will be rolled at Northeast Temple the following Friday and Saturday. Total pinfall for ten games will determine the winners.

HOWARD MEETS LINCOLN.

Basket ball teams of Lincoln and Howard universities—ancient rivals in colored collegiate athletic circles—will be pitted against each other tomorrow night in Howard Gym at 8:30 o'clock. Although they have met twice this season, neither battle has been staged here.

In their first game in New York, Lincoln scored its first triumph over Howard in six years, 22 to 16. At East Orange, N. J., later, Howard gained revenge, 25 to 23.

MAROSEY TO LEAD BAKERS.

Eddie Marosey, first known in local baseball ranks as star pitcher for the Business High School Nine, and later recognized as one of the best southpaw pitchers in sandlot baseball hereabouts, will lead a team of his own this season—Corby Bakers—in the unlimited class.

Candidates for the Bakers will meet Sunday at the Corby Bakery Building, at 12:30 o'clock. Teams in or out of town desirous of booking the Bakers can phone Marosey at North 1770 or write W. W. Poole, secretary, at 1124 Montello avenue northeast.

O'NEIL CUTS G. U. SQUAD TO 24

Practice Games May Start Today; More to Be Pruned.

WITH Georgetown's opening baseball game scheduled for March 26 with such an old rival as Hugo Bezdek's Penn State Nine, Coach Bucky O'Neil yesterday pruned his squad of diamond aspirants to 24 players. Several more may be cut loose within a few days, he indicated, before the real serious work begins.

Encouraged by the favorable weather yesterday, the Hilltop coach indicated that a series of practice games may be started this afternoon. Yesterday's drill consisted largely of batting and base running sessions under the close surveillance of the former Georgetown second baseman.

Those who survived yesterday's application of the knife are Walter Morris, Johnny Dunn, Johnny Scalsi, Capt. Bob Duplin, Johnny Bosek, McCarthy, Wholley, Donavan, Phelan, O'Toole, Malone, Leary, Donato, Cunningham, Owens, Higgins, Poole, McGuire, White, Byrnes, Coppinger, Edmonton, Davis and Dudack.

Maryland U. Wrestlers Beaten in Debut, 4-1

Making its bow against outside competition last night in Ritchie Gym at College Park, the University of Maryland's Embryo Wrestling Team was defeated by the Baltimore Y. M. C. A. Grapplers, 4 bouts to 1. Tom James, Old Line welterweight, gained the only decision for Maryland.

In exhibition boxing bouts, Johnny Ward, Maryland junior, who formerly held the Maryland National Guard welterweight championship, outpointed Red Rooney and Jimmy Jones, also of Maryland.

Bantamweight—Nelson Thomas (B. Y. M. C. A.) defeated Colonel Willis.

Featherweight—H. Tyree (B. Y. M. C. A.) defeated Bernard Jones.

Welterweight—Tom James (M) defeated Tom Kelly.

Middleweight—John Earechson (B. Y. M. C. A.) defeated Irving Bachman, and A. Cerpebite (B. Y. M. C. A.) defeated George Lynn.

Mothers—Try Mild Children's Musterole
Of course, you know good old Musterole, how quickly, how easily it relieves chest colds, sore throat, rheumatic and neuralgic pain, sore joints and muscles, stiff neck and lumbago.
We also want you to know CHILDREN'S MUSTEROLE—Musterole in milder form. Unexcelled for relief of croupy coughs and colds; it penetrates, soothes and relieves without the blister of the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Keep a jar handy. It comes ready to apply instantly, without fuss or bother.

The Children

By Edith Wharton

A sparkling serial story by one of America's foremost novelists at the gleaming heights of her power.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Martin Boyne, a civil engineer, who has been kept busy on projects in all parts of the world, is taking an ocean trip. He is looking forward to another fortnight of solitude, when the steward places a chair next to his lagged "Mrs. Cliffe Wheater." Cliffe Wheater was a schoolmate of his at Harvard. His wife was a friend of those days. Boyne is puzzled by the varied types of children in the entourage and further mystified by its leader. He is told by the gray-haired woman called "Scopy" her name is Judith. She is the oldest child of the Wheaters. The oldest boy's name is Terry, and his health is poor. "Scopy" recounts the tangled love affairs of the Wheaters to explain the group for Boyne. Boyne begins to mull over his own affairs, particularly with a Mrs. Sellars. Hitherto "unattainable," he recalls her husband has died. Terry, the heir-apparent to the Wheater fortune, asks Boyne to intercede in his behalf with his parents to obtain a tutor. Complying with the Wheaters' request he hires a young Englishman. Boyne leaves the Wheaters with their new yacht and their retinue at Venice and journeys to the chalet of Mrs. Sellars. She agrees to marry him but refuses to set a day. They are interrupted by a visit from Judith Wheater, who announces that they have fled the Wheaters because another break seems imminent and the children refuse to be again parted. Boyne journeys back to Venice and after countless interruptions finally gets the Wheaters to agree that the children can go along as they are with Boyne as a "trial guardian." Mrs. Sellars arranges a picnic for the children and takes along Mr. Dobree, an attorney who settled her husband's estate to her advantage. Mr. Dobree proposes while on the picnic and is refused. Afterward Mrs. Sellars agrees to hasten her wedding to Boyne, who is in a quandary because of the children. Mrs. Seller goes to Paris to meet a rich, old aunt and suggests parceling the children to their various parents. Before Boyne answers her letter she returns his ring.

She gave him all her confidence in a radiant look. "You have till now, haven't you? And if there's another row, couldn't we all nip over quietly to America with you?" She paused, and then began again with a shade of hesitation that was new to her: "I suppose you'll be married very soon now, won't you, Martin?" And when I got mother's letter this morning we wondered—Terry and I wondered—whether, if Grandma Mervin is afraid to take us in, we couldn't all go and live with you in New York, if we children paid a part of the rent? You see, father and mother couldn't possibly object to that, and I know you and Mrs. Sellars are fond of Chip and the steps, and we big ones really wouldn't be any trouble. Scopy and I have saved up such a lot out of father's allowance that I daresay you could afford to take a biggish house; and we'd all be awfully decent in the morning about not keeping the bath a minute longer than we had a right to."

The abruptness of Judith's transitions from embittered shrewdness to nursery simplicity was always disconcerting. When ways and means had to be considered, the disenchanted maiden for whom life seemed to have no surprises became once more the helpless little girl in the hands of nurses and governess. At such moments, Boyne thought, she was like a young Daphne, half emerging into reality, half caught in the foliage of fairyland.

"My dear child——"

She always responded to every change in his intonation; and as he spoke he saw the shadow in her eyes before it reached her lips. Trying to keep a smile on them, she interrupted: "Now I've said something stupid again."

"You've said something unexpected—that's all. Give me a little time——"

She sprang up, and moved toward him with one of her impulsive darts. "Martin! When people ask for time it's always for time to say no. Yes has one more letter in it, but it doesn't take half as long to say. And now you'll hate me for asking you something that you've got to take time to answer."

"Not a bit of it. I want time because I've got several answers. And the first is: how do you know your Grandma Mervin won't take you all in?"

She shook her head. "Because I wrote to her a month ago, and she's taking time before she answers. And besides—really and truly—I've always known that if Grandma Mervin did take us in she'd give us up again the minute father shouted loud enough. You see," Judith added, with a sudden spring back to her wistful maturity, "grandma gets a big allowance from father."

"All right; that brings me to my second answer. How do you know your father won't order you back at once to the Lido—or wherever he is—if your mother has definitely decided to leave him?"

"Because father's gone off to Constantinople on the yacht with Syb—Mrs. Lullmer, I mean—and a whole crowd of people."

In spite of himself, Boyne again drew a breath of relief. If Wheater was off on the "Fancy Girl" with a band of cronies, and his wife rushing to Paris to start divorce proceedings, there might indeed be no need for an immediate decision. Never had procrastination seemed so sweet.

"Well, my dear, in that case it would appear that they're both going to let you alone—for a while, at any rate. So why jump unnecessary ditches?"

Judith responded with a joyful laugh. "Who wants to, darling? I don't! As long as you're with us I always feel safe." Again a little shiver of apprehension ran over Boyne; but he dissembled it by joining in her laugh. The more precarious was the tie between himself and the little Wheaters, the more precious seemed the days he could still hope to spend with them; he would not cloud another with vain fears. "Right you are. Suppose we go and do something desperate to celebrate the occasion? What about a good tramp for you and me, and then supper with the little Wheaters?"

She stood looking at him with her happiest eyes. "Hurrah, Martin! I haven't seen you so jolly for days Terry was afraid you were moping because Mrs. Sellars had gone—he thought that was why you hadn't been to see us, and we decided that I'd better come up and find out."

"Trust you to find out," he grinned; and added sardonically: "I'm bearing up, as you see. But come along. Don't let's waste any more sunshine."

She moved obediently toward the door, but stopped short half-way with an exclamation of surprise. Boyne, who was rummaging in a corner for his stick, turned about to see her standing before the ancient cradle.

"Oh, Martin, you—you keep your boots in it!" A reproachful flush rose to her face, and was momentarily reflected in his own. Hang it—why was he always such an untidy fellow? And why was a cradle so uncommonly handy to hold boots? "Jove—how stupid! Must have been that confounded chambermaid——" But he broke off in confusion as he caught Judith's incredulous eye. "Well, hang it, you know—I've nothing else to put in it just at present," he cried defiantly.

Man, Slain, House Fired To Cover Brutal Crime

Scranton, Pa., March 12 (A.P.).—The body of a man, who had been beaten and stabbed and his clothing saturated with kerosene oil and set afire, according to the police, was found early today by firemen fighting flames in the home of Frank Crido, at Carbondale, 18 miles north of this city.

Finding of a heavy hammer and long knife beside the charred body convinced authorities that a brutal killing had taken place and the Crido home set afire to hide the crime. Mr. and Mrs. Crido were visiting at the home of a son in Archbald borough at the time of the fire. The couple said they lived alone and they could not explain the presence of the man in their house.

MARCH NOT SO GOOD.

MARCH is the least healthful month in the year. While this statement is true there are years of which it is not a correct statement. This year will be one of them. Last year was another, except in those few sections where the recent epidemic of influenza either did not peak until after the new year or did not strike at all. The spring wave of 1928 began in March and, if the experience of 1918 is to be followed this year, we will not be upset by a spring wave this year.

Just one more qualifying statement and we pass to another consideration. The only reason for the bad reputation of March as compared with February is that the latter month has the grace to quit in 28 days, whereas March, demanding its pound of flesh, holds on for 31.

It is during March that the pneumonias exact their heaviest toll. Since Thanksgiving, or earlier, they have been working up toward their dirty worst. In March they have their great fling.

March is also the month for epidemic meningitis. In warm weather the microbes of this disease live in the noses of about 1 per cent of the population. All autumn and winter this infestation rate increases slowly. As a rule it is at its highest in March.

In addition to the peak of the spreaders, the weather becomes right in March. High humidity and much rain, snow and fog make for epidemic meningitis. The other reasons for epidemics of meningitis are crowding together in dormitories, camps and jails of people, and especially young men. The disposition to crowd is a little greater in cold weather. There is some increase in acute inflammatory rheumatism and tonsillitis is frequently high in this month. March deserves its bad reputation.

The present teaching is that sunlight begins to supply enough ultraviolet about the middle of February, and by the end of March, even those who live in crowded quarters, dark rooms and smoky, cloudy air, are getting enough sunlight. However the effects of this drug are slow in showing themselves. It is not until later than March that the better sunlight begins to produce results that can be measured.

WASH HAIR WITH KEROSENE.

M. S. B. writes: I recently discovered that in some way I had contracted lice in my hair. This was probably due to traveling and boarding on a recent trip. I am humiliated and mortified and would like to get rid of them quickly. Is is possible?

REPLY.

You have nothing to worry about. Happens every day to somebody. Wash your hair with kerosene. Wrap a towel around your head and leave on for, say, fifteen minutes. Beware of fire. Dry out the kerosene. Loosen the nits by washing the hair with warm vinegar. Dry out the vinegar and wash with water until all the chemicals have been removed.

Dry comb with a fine tooth comb.

When this method appears to fail, it is because of one of three possibilities.

The lice fled from the kerosene and hid in the clothing. When the danger was over they returned to their home.

2. Nits or eggs left in the hair later hatched.

3. The head, after being cleaned, is reinfected by associates.

SOUR MILK NOT HARMFUL.

1. Is sour milk harmful if it is drunk first thing in the morning?

2. Are there such foods as brain foods or brain builders?

REPLY

1. No.
2. No.

JOHN LEWIS SMITH IS STRONGLY URGED FOR DISTRICT BENCH

Bar Association Committee Named to Confer With President Hoover.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS ESPOUSE BLAND CAUSE

Seek Colonel's Recess Appointment on Public Utilities Commission.

Appointment of John Lewis Smith as judge of the District Supreme Court and of Col. Harrison Brand, jr., as a member of the Public Utilities Commission is being strongly urged, it was learned yesterday.

Smith's appointment was recommended by the District Bar Association at a meeting in the courthouse yesterday, and a committee of six members was named to take the matter up with President Hoover. The association's action is reaffirmation of a position taken last January, when a similar recommendation was made.

Former President Coolidge, however, ignored the association's recommendation and nominated Henry H. Glassie to the judgeship. The Senate failed to confirm the nomination, and the vacancy still exists.

Action by the Bar Association yesterday followed a meeting of the District Department of the American Legion Monday night at which resolutions recommending the nomination of Smith to the judgship were passed.

Bar Committee Members.

The Bar Association committee which will wait on President Hoover is headed by Maj. Julius I. Peyser, association president. Other members are: Jesse C. Adkins, Roger J. Whiteford, W. W. Milan, Leon Tobriner and Thomas Littlepage.

Smith is a well-known Washington lawyer, having practiced his profession here for twenty years. He is a former assistant district attorney, a former national commander of the Spanish War Veterans and a former departmental commander of the American Legion.

Two Republican leaders called at the White House yesterday to urge a recess appointment for Brand as a member of the Utilities Commission. Brand was nominated for a regular term on the commission by Mr. Coolidge, but the Senate District committee failed to make a report on the nomination.

Edward F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman for the District, and W. T. Galliher, treasurer of the local Republican organization, were the two who visited the White House in Brand's behalf.

Brand's Name Opposed.

Brand's name was sent to the Senate by Coolidge early in the last session. Shortly after it had been received by that body a number of protests against confirmation were received by the Senate District committee and the nomination was held up, the session ending without the committee reporting on the nomination.

When hearings were held on the nomination, representatives of the Central Labor Union and the Peoples Legislative Service appeared before the committee and charged that Brand, during the hearings on the street car merger project had been more in sympathy with the traction magnates than with the public.

The committee met subsequently to consider a course of action, but failed to do anything one way or another. Consequently, when the session ended the nomination of Brand was resting in a pigeonhole.

As the man fled up the alley Policeman J. S. Titus, of the Thirteenth Precinct, came to Ford's assistance, and Ford fired several shots at the fleeing man with Titus' revolver. None of the shots took effect.

Huge New Bolling Light Gives Excellent Results

Eight pilots of the Army Air Corps last night tried out the new 2,000,000-candlepower floodlight placed at Bolling Field by the General Electric Co. The light has been at the field two weeks, but has had no real test earlier, due to the muddy condition of the landing area.

From the air, the field appears bathed in a mild but generous light. By contrast, the old floodlight used at the Naval Air Station brings into relief every hill and hollow, and fills the field with shadows disguising its real contour. The new light, although not nearly as bright from the air, provides clear definition of the ground and a landing area almost perfectly illuminated.

CRAMTON ASKS CITY TO KEEP ITS BEAUTY

Development of Natural Advantages Urged at Trade Board Meeting.

VIRGINIANS BOOST STATE

Declaring that if the natural beauty of the District of Columbia and its environs is not developed in the immediate future it will be destroyed, Representative Louis C. Cramton, of Michigan, urged last night that steps be taken to preserve it. He spoke before the "Virginia night" meeting of the Washington Board of Trade in the Willard Hotel.

Congress has authorized more than $116,000,000 for the development and improvement of the District, but not one cent of this is for the preservation of the natural beauties of the Capital, the representative said. These man-made beauties could wait, but development of the natural beauty can not, he declared.

The city, he continued, is making rapid advancements, and with it the natural beauty of the land is destroyed, he said, and unless steps are taken immediately it will be taken away from us and can not be restored.

"The National Capital of the future will not be merely the District of Columbia," he declared, "but the District and the adjacent country of Maryland and Virginia. It is the inexorable march of events, and it is up to us to contribute our might by determining through proper planning what that development shall be."

Representative Cramton was preceded on the program by a number of Virginians who tried to sell their State and home towns to the District business men.

In enumerating the varirous inducements offered by Fairfax County, E. H. Allen, chairman of the highways, parks and planning committee, of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, said that the county had "good roads and splendid water.

F. C. Goodnow, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, told of the industries that are coming to Alexandria, but said that the business men of the District were not taking advantage of their opportunity to invest their money in Alexandria.

K. A. Brumback, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, State Senator Frank L. Ball, Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia, and Commissioner Sidney Taliaferro spoke also. Fred J. Eaton sang. W. W. Everett, president of the board of trade, presided. He announced that 514 new members had come into the organization during the past year.

WOMAN IS AMONG 5 INDICTED UNDER JONES LIQUOR LAW

Patrolman Carter Ordered to Furnish $3,500 Bond on Rum Charge.

GIANT PRISONER FAINTS AT PROSPECT OF JAIL

Two Escape Trial by Reason of Defect in Warrant for Searching.

Fifteen indictments charging liquor law violations, five of which were covered by the Jones liquor felony law, were returned to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in the District Supreme Court by the District grand jury yesterday. At the same time, the jurors reported they had ignored liquor accusations against five persons.

The indictments under the Jones law were made against four men and a woman and were the first handed down since the law went into effect eleven days ago. The other indictments were based on accusations of second and third infractions of the old liquor law.

While the jury was submitting its report, three men were arraigned in Police Court on liquor charges while two persons escaped similar fates through an error on a search warrant.

Patrolman Curtis Carter, of the Fifth Precinct, waived examination and was held in $3,500 bail for grand jury action by Judge Isaac R. Hitt on charges of transporting and possessing 142 quarts of liquor. The charge was covered by the Jones law. Carter was also convicted of speeding and fined $15 by Judge Gus A. Schuldt.

Chased Fleeing Automobile.

Policeman Matthew Chmylko, of the Eleventh Precinct, testified he chased an automobile from Twenty-fifth street to Thirteenth street on Good Hope road southeast at a 40-mile an hour rate. Three men attempted to abandon the car, he said, but Carter was captured after a foot race. The liquor, he said, was found in the car.

Lawrence Edward Moss, a giant negro, of 1443 Q street northwest, fainted in the prisoners' dock at the court when continually told by fellow prisoners he would be sent to prison for five years on liquor charges. He was charged with transporting and possession on a gallon of liquor, but the transporting charge was thrown out of court. He went to jail for 30 days in lieu of a $500 fine for possession.

Jury trial of sale and possession charges under the old law was demanded by Clarence Swartz, of 2512 K street northwest. He was arrested on February 19 and was held in $1,000 bail.

Wrong Address on Warrant.

The wrong address on a search warrant caused Assistant District Attorney R. F. Camilier to refuse preference of sale and possession charges against Robert White, 46, and Ella White, 44, both colored, of 438 Prathers alley northwest. A "stool pigeon" swore he made a buy from the two and a warrant was issued. Detectives M. J. Dowd and J. F. Boxwell, of the Sixth Precinct, said they found a marked bill on the woman. But the warrant was issued for 338 Prathers alley instead of 448.

Charges of intoxication were preferred against 21 persons, ten of whom forfeited collateral. The others were given small fines by Judge Ralph Given.

The Jones law indictments were made against Mrs. Ann Bovello, of the Clifton Terrace Apartments; Wilson Anderson, 30 years old; George W. Brew, 23 years old; George F. Brooks, colored, and James Turner, colored. The latter was the first man arrested under the new law.

The other indictments were made against Josephine Perini, Tessie Richards, Nathaniel Flood, Frances Scott, Samuel Williams, Manson Hill, Wallace Abney, Lindon Haddox, John Perranti and Nathan Frank. Those vindicated of liquor charges by the jurors were Clarence Butler, Ella Frazier, Leon Jackson, Hays Fisher and Phillips Roach.

DRYS' STAR DECOY GIVEN 30-DAY TERM

Kitty Costello Is Sentenced by Baltimore Judge on Contempt Charge.

HER PLEA DISREGARDED

Kitty Costello, henna-haired undercover agent for the prohibition unit and terror of Washington and Baltimore bootleggers, today is a neighbor of some of the men she helped send to jail.

Miss Costello, who, for the purpose of business, found it as convenient to change the color of her hair as she did to change her name, today is starting the second day of a 30-day sentence in the Baltimore, Md., city jail, imposed upon her yesterday for contempt of court by Judge William C. Coleman, in the Federal court in Baltimore.

The silver-voiced undercover agent, fashionably dressed and perfumed by violets she wore on the left side of her gray fur coat, was sentenced to jail because Judge Coleman did not believe her story that she didn't know the two men who served her with a subpena to testify in a liquor case in Judge Coleman's court were United States deputy marshals.

Judge Coleman was anything but delicate in his remarks to the undercover agent, who took her sentence with the proverbial "grain of salt."

"It has been brought out in the testimony of this case," Judge Coleman said, "that Miss Costello had requested police protection at her apartment at 921 Nineteenth street northwest, Washington, against three Italians from Baltimore, but at the same time she was evading or trying to evade a legal summons from the United States Court. While defying the authority of one law she was seeking the protection of the law in another way."

With the red-headed former dry agent behind the bars, Washington's best bootleggers will breathe a sigh of relief, at least as far as Miss Costello is concerned. It was she, who on a number of occasions, called on the telephone some of Washington's best-known purveyors of intoxicants in a voice that could not be denied, and it was these bootleggers who on the same occasions found that they had been duped.

War on Home-Brew Supply Shops Near

One Equipment Store Closes After Announcement of New Campaign.

Plans for a campaign against merchants who deal exclusively in sales of utensils, machinery and ingredients designed for intoxicating-liquor manufacture, are nearing completion and will be put into execution in the near future, Assistant District Attorneys David A. Hart and R. F. Camilier yesterday stated.

Prosecutions will be sought under a section of the Federal Code which makes it unlawful to sell or possess formulas, utensils or machinery for liquor manufacture or advertise such for sale. The attorneys have about decided to use undercover police and dry agents in purchases from the merchants.

Camilier stated yesterday that he received a telephone call from a merchant, who asked for two days' grace to remove his equipment out of the city. Camalier declined to divulge the name of the merchant. Announcement of the drive last week was made in newspapers. A few days later a "For Rent" sign appeared on a malt and bottling shop on D street northwest, half a block from the office of the prosecutors at Police Court.

REMOVAL OF SLOT MACHINES ORDERED THROUGHOUT CITY

All Devices Open to Gaming Purposes Must Go, Hesse Declares.

CAPTAINS ARE HANDED LISTS OF KNOWN STORES

Precinct Commanders to Report March 25 on Results of Clean-Up.

A new war on slot machines used for gambling was started yesterday when Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, issued a special order to his captains to clean out such contraptions in their precincts.

Accompanying the order to each captain was a list of establishments known to have slot machines. Captains were ordered to submit a report by March 25, outlining what had been done to carry out the chief's orders.

In his order to the precinct commanders, Hesse said:

"The United States attorney for the District of Columbia holds that all slot machines capable of being used as gambling devices are in violation of the law. This refers particularly to that type of slot machine so adjusted as to give metal slugs exchangeable for merchandise or cash, and which are used on numerous occasions for telephone calls.

"It is therefore directed that precinct commanders make an immediate survey of their precincts, and wherever any slot or vending machine capable of being used for the purpose of gambling is found notify the person on whose premises such machine is being maintained that the same must be removed within 48 hours.

"In all cases where such person fails to comply with such directions as to the removal of the machine you will cause the same to be seized as a gambling device and will report the facts to the assistant United States attorney at Police Court."

Owens and his wife, Mrs. Nellie V. Owens, of 1406 Girard street northwest.

In the suit against Owens, Fletcher charged he was arrested after being accused of laughing at the way the policeman directed traffic on March 11, 1927 and charged with assault. The charge was dismissed in Police Court and on February 8 last, the negro was awarded $750 damages by a jury. In the bill filed yesterday, through Attorney Fred Rhodes, the negro alleged that Owens had transferred property to his wife on March 25, 1927, to prevent collection of damages.

In addition to his duties as superintendent of park police, he is head of the protection division of the Public Parks and Buildings Office. He was also manager of the Welfare and Recreational Association of Public Buildings and Grounds, Inc., having been succeeded in that position by F. W. Hoover, of the buildings division.

Policeman Chauncey A. Waterman, attached to the First Precinct, was sued for limited divorce yesterday in the District Supreme Court by his wife, Mrs. Edna D. Waterman, an attendant at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, of 421 Seventh street northeast, who charged extreme cruelty.

They were married at Binghamton, N. Y., on November 27, 1919, the wife stated, and came to the Capital a few years later after Waterman obtained a position on the police force. # Chinese Honor Sun Yat Sen At Oriental Rites in Capital

200 Leaders of Asiatic Race in This Country, Led by Minister-Designate Wu, Adopt Resolutions Urging U. S. to Abrogate "Antiquated" Treaties.

The United States last night was urged to abrogate her "antiquated" treaties with China and to surrender her extraterritorial privileges in that country by January 1 next, in resolutions adopted by the Chinese notables from all parts of the United States who gathered in the Washington Club at colorful ceremonies in honor of the memory of Sun Yat Sen, father of the Chinese republic.

Dr. Chao-Chu Wu, Chinese Minister-designate to the United States, in reviewing the life of Sun Yat Sen, spoke favorably of the resolutions which were adopted unanimously by the Chinese who had gathered to observe with Oriental mysticism the fourth "death-day" of Sun Yat Sen. Judge Paul Linebarger, author of Dr. Sun Yat Sen's biography and his international legal adviser for eighteen years, also spoke.

More than 200 persons, most of whom were Occidentals, participated in the colorful ceremonies conducted by Dr. S. F. Wang before the Chinese altar. First there was the offering of incense and a parchment roll, placed on the altar to the spirit. Then came an offering of flowers and shrubs, symbolic of the harmony of nature. Then followed an offering of fruits and grains, placed on the altar as emblems of the necessities of human life obtained through honest toil.

Dr. Y. J. Huang read the will of Sun Yat Sen, which was followed by a period of absolute silence. Dr. Wang asked that all present participate in the three reverences to the dead father of China. Oriental and Occidental alike alternately bowed and looked to the heavens as Dr. Wang offered incantations in Chinese.

During the course of the offertory a large gong was struck 42 times, symbolic of the 42 years Dr. Sun Yat Sen labored for China. The sounding of the gong represented communication between heaven and earth and is supposed to command the attention of the spirits.

The body of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, who died four years ago, now rests in a crystal casket in the Temple of the Green Cloud at Peking. In a short while, however, the casket is to be removed to a magnificent tomb which is being cut into a mountainside at Nanken. It will be the most costly memorial ever erected to a human being, when completed.
